Jagdpanzer IV/48 – Museum of Battle Glory, Yambol (Bulgaria)

This is Fgst.No 320220, a Soviet trophy, given to First Bulgarian Army in 1945 (Angel Yovtshev). This tank is a very early L/48 one, and the only one with a drivers MG slot, in this case covered with a flat steel disc. This disc was only mounted in the period between the decision to drop the slot and the time the steel works began to make front hulls without it. It was previously part of a defensive line on the Bulgarian border : http://www66.tok2.com/home2/tankguy/bulgaria/bulugaria.html

The recovery of the tanks was ordered by the Defense minister in February 2008 and it will be either preserved in a Bulgarian museum, or offered to private collectors in a future auction. The tank was recovered with its tracks and they are stored beside the tank (AFV News forum)

Sturmgeschütz IV – Armoured Weapons Museum, Poznań (Poland) – running c.

This vehicle belonged to 2. KP. Panzerjäger-Abteilung Brandenburg / 1. Jäger-Rgt. 'Brandenburg'. It sunk in the iced river Rgilewka (near Grzegorzew, Poland) on January 18-19, 1945, when its crew tried to cross it (info. from the museum). The upper part of the hull was recovered in 2006. The lower part of the StuG IV was recovered in July 2008 (see the link : http://www.eksploracja.eu/forum/viewtopic.php?p=32366#32366). The restoration of the vehicle ended in Summer 2009. The very good preservation conditions on the bottom of the Rgilewka river allowed the vehicle to be restored to running condition (see the link : http://www.youtube.com/user/sturmgeschutzIVpl#p/u/0/39BM808C1Is) (Rafał Białęcki)

Jagdpanzer IV early L/48 front armour plate and gun + PzKpfw. IV or StuG IV front hull Armoured Weapons Museum, Land Forces Training Centre, Poznań (Poland)

On 28 November 2009, a front armour plate with mantlet and gun were recovered from a private terrain near the Citadel. It was probably destroyed during the battle of "Festung Posen" in 1945. Funding this vehicle is a historical mystery because no historical source evert mentioned the use of any Jagdpanzer IV during the battle of Poznań (even the people who organized this action expected a Russian tank or a gun). The parts of Jagdpanzer were dug in the ground of a garden after the war and the owners forgot its existence (Rafał Białęcki).

The front hull part was found in Krzewata, Poland (Piotr Lewandowski). The restoration process :

Hummel wreck – Unknown location

This wreck has been recovered along with other US and German WW2 vehicles in a former WH barracks in Vilseck (Germany). The photo was taken at Sinsheim, where the Jagdpanzer 38(t) and the Nashorn were in storage, in 1988 (Rudi Ehninger, Brigadier General (rtd) German Panzertruppe)

Brummbär main gun – Omaha Overlord Museum, Colleville-sur-Mer (France)

This 15cm main armament would have belonged to a Brummbar of Sturm Panzer Abteilung 217 that fought in Normandy during the Summer of '44. It is to note that a 75mm round from a Sherman tank is embedded in the rear part of the mantlet (Lerenfort website)

"Vlaad", July 2006

StuG IV hull – Museum im. Orła Białego, Skarżysko-Kamienna (Poland)

"To this day, the prevailing opinion is that the wreckage recovered at that time was the remains of a Panzer IV tank from the 16th or 17th Panzer Division. Over time, we verified both the account of an eyewitness to the events of 1945 and the accounts of local residents who remember the tank, and the recovered chassis turned out to be the remains of a StuG IV – one of 20 that took part in the fighting in the Świętokrzyskie region" (Museum)

I'm looking for photos of those tanks :

5 or 6 Jagdpanzer IVs – Previously on an army base some 65 kms north of Damascus (Syria). These vehicles went most probably in the King of Jordan's collection and any other Panzer IV variant that I forgot….

This document is a synthesis of photos and information published on the web.
I would like to thank the people who took these photos and put them on their websites, or sent them to me, and also those who helped me doing these lists (particularly people of the AFV News Discussion Board). For any question, you can email me at soldat_ryan@hotmail.com
