From the Saxons to the period of Edward I. 1299, we have many documents respecting the Cornish Mines. The Saxons employed the Saracens, or the Phœnicians, in Cornwall, to work them; and subsequent to the Norman conquest, the Jews were the sole managers of mining concerns. In the time of Richard, King of the Romans, and 1st earl of Cornwall, their produce was immense; and to him the Jews were farmed out by his brother, Henry III. At this period, the tin mines in Spain, being obstructed by the Moors, and none having been then discovered in Germany, Malabar, or the East Indies, Richard, earl of Cornwall, engrossed the whole tin trade in Europe.

I. Sir CHARLES was created a baronet for his distinguished services in the command of the squadron which forced its way up the river St. Lawrence, at an unusually early period of the year, and relieved Quebec, then besieged by the Americans, 1776. Sir Charles had risen to to this rank through a long train of zealous, arduous, and distinguished services; and his subsequent career was still more brilliant in proportion as rank and power gave a field for his talents and activity of mind. When he was not actually employed at sea, he devoted himself to the laborious and difficult task of improving the military equipment of the service. Gunnery was his favourite pursuit; and the naval service is indebted to him for some of the greatest improvements that were made, in his day, in this branch of the profession. Among many others, sir Charles introduced the use of locks into the navy.

After a service of four years in the command of the Stirling Castle of 64 guns, and the Duke of 98 guns, sir Charles was appointed captain of the fleet destined to serve under sir George Rodney; and in the memorable battle of the 12th of April 1782, sir Charles's superior abilities shone conspicuously, and procured him the highest encomiums his chief could bestow, and a large share in the fame of that glorious day. Sir

Sir Richard was appointed a captain R.N., 8 Feb. 1781; rear-admiral, 14 Feb. 1799; and vice-admiral of the white squadron, 9 Nov. 1805.

I. Sir RICHARD, knt., created a baronet, as above, was bred at Westminster school, and entered R.N., and received his first commission as lieutenant, in Feb. 1745-6; in 1759 he was rated post in the Culloden, and immediately after sailed for the West Indies in the Glasgow of 20 guns. Having displayed much activity and gallantry in that quarter, he returned to Europe in 1761, and served for some time on the home station. In 1767, he, a 2d time, proceeded to the West Indies in the Renown; but quitting that ship, he remained unemployed till the end of the year 1770, when, on the apprehended rupture with Spain, he was appointed to the Marlborough, of 74 guns. When his majesty reviewed the fleet at Portsmouth in 1773, captain Bickerton had the honour of steering his majesty's barge! on which occasion he received the honour of knighthood, on board the Barfleur. On quitting the Marlborough, sir Richard was appointed to the Augusta yacht, in which he continued till the year 1777, when the dispute with America having commenced, he was nominated to the Terrible, of 74 guns, in which ship he was present at the encounter which took place with Le Comte D'Orvilliers, off Ushant, on the 27th of July. In the May preceding, when the 2d naval review took place, sir Richard was advanced to the dignity of a baronet of Great Britain. In April 1778, being on a cruise in the bay, in company with the Ramilies, he fell in with a French convoy of 30 sail of merchantmen, of which 8, or more, became their prize. In Feb. 1782, he sailed with the convoy for India with a considerable force, and joined sir Edward Hughes there, just in time to share the encounter with M. de Suffrein, 20 June 1783. In 1786 he was appointed commodore on the Leeward Island station, but on account of indisposition, resigned his command. In Sept. 1787, he was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral of the blue. In 1790 he hoisted his flag on board the Impregnable, in the Channel fleet: m., 1758, Maria-Anne, daughter of Thomas Hussey, of Wrexham, co. HERON, of NEWARK-UPON-TRENT, co. Nottingham.

25 July 1778.

Sir ROBERT HERON, Bart., born 1765, succeeded his uncle, Sir Richard, in Jan. 1805: married, Jan. 9, 1792, Amelia, daughter of Sir Horace Mann, Bart., by Lucy, daughter of Baptist Noel, Earl of Gainsborough.

The names of Herioun and Hern are in the Battle Abbey Roll, "of such noblemen and gentlemen of marque, as came into England with the Duke of Normandy."

The duke not having fully reduced Northumberland, Henry I. his son, to effect the reduction, and create a barrier against Scotland, divided Northumberland into feudal baronies, one of which, the BARONY of HERON, whereof HADDESTON was the head, he granted in 1100 to the ancestor of sir Richard. In 1296 it descended to Emeline, the the heir-general of William, lord Heron, her grandfather. She m. John, lord Darcy; and in 1536, the baronies of Darcy and Heron were forfeited by the attainder of their descendant, Thomas, lord Darcy.

Upon the descent of HADDESTON to Emeline Heron, FORD CASTLE became the chief seat of this family, which divided into many branches; particularly those of Ford Castle BOKENFIELD, Chipchase, Applynden, Cressy, and NEWARK; several of whom had summons to parliament in temp. Edw. III. Rich. II., and Hen. IV. Camden, in his "Britannia," calls this bellicosa et clara familia Heronorum.—It is one of the 270 most ancient and noble families of England (the barons by tenure), of which there remained only 24 MALE BRANCHES in 1675, when Dugdale published his History of the Feudal Barons. Some of the branches at length failed for want of male heirs, and others united again the ancestors of the baronet. The pedigree is curiously preserved through all the branches, and it appears that in 1682, on the death of John, the last Heron of BOKENFIELD, without issue male, Robert Heron, of NEWARK, his first cousin, became chief of the family. He m. Mary Hobman, of Newark, co. Notts, and d. 16 May 1709; John Heron, his son, m. Jane, da. of Richard Crayle, of Newark, and d. 18 Dec. 1727; his eldest and only surviving son, Robert Heron, some time town-clerk, and afterwards recorder of Newark, m. Elizabeth Brecknock, of Thorney-Abbey, and d. 10 Aug. 1753, having had issue 4 sons; viz. 1. John, recorder of Newark, d. at Paris, 8 Sept. 1753; 2. Thomas, of Chilham-Castle, co. Kent, recorder of Newark, m. 1st, Anne, da. of sir Edward Wilmot, bart., physician to the king, by whom he had issue, sir Robert, 2d bart.: he m. 2dly, miss Sawbridge, of the co. Kent; 3. Robert, in holy orders, m. Anne Pechell, and d. 19 Jan. 1813, without issue; 4. Richard.

Kent, esq., youngest son of Robert Heron, of Newark, was sworn privy-counsellor of Ireland in 1777, and held the office of chief secretary nearly 4 years under the viceroyalty of John, 2d earl of Buckinghamshire. Sir Richard m. Jane Hall, relict of Stephen Thompson, esq., and by her (who d. 6 Oct. 1814) had no issue; and deceasing in Jan. 1805, was succeeded by his nephew, COPLEY, of Sprotborough, co. York.

15 Aug. 1778.

Sir JOSEPH COPLEY, Bart., succeeded his father Sir Lionel, 11 April 1801: married 23 May 1799, Cecil Hamilton (to whom his Majesty granted the precedence of an Earl's daughter, 1789), 8th daughter of the Hon. and Rev. George Hamilton, 4th son of James, 7th Earl of Abercorn. Her Ladyship's marriage with her first cousin, John-James, Marquess of Abercorn, K.G., was dissolved by Act of Parliament in 1798.

This ancient family is descended from Adam de Copley (a place so styled in Yorkshire, from a great copp, or bank, under which it is situated), who was killed at the siege of York 1070, and from whom the Copleys, also of Gatton, co. Surrey (who are particularly noticed in Manning's History of that country), derive their name and origin. They are also allied by marriage with the Fitzwilliam family, whose ancestor, ancestor, sir William Fitzwilliam, attended William the conqueror, and for his distinguished bravery at the battle of Hastings, gave him a scarf from his own arm. Sprotbrough, near Doncaster, from this period became the chief residence of the family, and here sir John Fitzwilliam, one of sir William's descendants, who lived during the reign of king Henry V., caused a cross to be erected (which was pulled down in 1520) not far from the church, with these lines engraved upon it in brass:—

"Whoso is hungry and liste to eate
Let him come to Sprotbrough to his meate;
And for a night and for a day
His horse shall have both corn and hay,
And no man shall ask him when he goeth away."

RIDDELL, of Ardnamurchan and Sunart, co. Argyll.

Sept. 2, 1778.

Sir JAMES-MILLES RIDDELL, D.C.L., succeeded his grandfather, Sir James, married, 27 March 1822, Mary, daughter of the late and sister to the present Sir Richard Brooke, of Norton Priory, co. Chester, by whom he has issue twins, a son and a daughter, born 25 Dec. 1822.

Few families have claims to higher antiquity than that of Ridel, or Riddell; and fewer still have such grounds upon which to establish their pretensions. Indeed the authorities supporting their history are such as rarely occur in genealogy, particularly at a period so early as that in which it commences. This family derives its origin from the counts or earls of Angoulesme, in France. Wulgrinus, styled a kinsman to Charles the Bald, king of France and emperor of Germany, in 886 was created, by that prince, earl of Angoulesme and Perigord. He m. Rosalinda, da. of Bernard, the famous duke of Thoulouse, who was son of William, duke of Aquitain, who d. 806, and grandson of earl Theoderick, one of the chief captains under Charlemagne, and was afterwards canonized. In right of Rosalinda, Wulgrinus acquired the earldom of Agen. By her he had 2 sons, 1. Alduin (so called after his paternal uncle, Alduin, the famous abbot of St. Denis, and chief minister of France, under Lewis le Debonnaire), who succeeded to the earldom of Angoulesme; and 2. William, who had for his inheritance the earldoms of Perigord and Agen, ancestor of the earls of Perigord, which branch was afterwards united to this family. Wulgrinus, d. 886. Alduin, earl of Angoulesme, rebuilt the walls of this chief city of his principality, in order to defend it against the incursions of the Normans, who at that time grievously infested the country. He d. 916, and was succeeded by his son, Wm., surnamed the Sector-ferri, or Taille-fer, that is, Iron-cutter. He acquired this name from his having, in an engagement with the Normans, cloven through, with one stroke of his sword, the body of Storis, their king, though clad in armour. He was succeeded, 963, by his son, Arnold, earl of Angoulesme, who became a monk 998, and was succeeded by his son, Wm. who m. Gerberga, da. of Galfridus, or Geoffrey I. earl of Anjou, and sister of Fulco IV., great grandfather of Henry II., king of England. This Wm. d. shortly after returning from the Holy Land, 1026, leaving 2 sons, Alduin and Galfridus. Alduin d. 1034, and was succeeded by his brother, Galfridus, who m. Petronilla, da. and heiress of Marnard, surnamed the Rich, baron of Archiac and Botaville: by her he had 5 sons, the 2 eldest of whom were, 1. Fulco, earl of Angoulesme (this branch ended in Isabella, wife of John, king of England: from her every sovereign who has since sat on the throne of England, to the present day, has been descended); and 2. Galfridus, ancestor of this family, who m. Agnes, da. and heiress of Albert II., earl of Perigord: by her he had 2 sons, 1. Helias, who succeeded to the earldom of Perigord, whose line ended in Margaret, who m. Reginald de Pons, ancestor of the once celebrated house of de Pons, in France. Galfridus d. in 1075. His 2d son was Galfridus II. Ridel, who became renowned for his warlike exploits. He assisted the Normans in the reduction of Apulia, and William the Conqueror in his expedition against England, where he was rewarded by that prince with with large grants of land. He m. the sister of Roger Bigot, earl of Norfolk, by whom he left 4 sons, 1. Galfridus; 2. Hugh, who was father of Reginald, and grandfather of Hugh II., who having no male issue, his grandda. Margaret, became heir, and m. Hugh Ridel, afterwards mentioned; 3. Philip, father of Gervasius, a friend of David I., king of Scotland, but d. a canon of Jedburgh, leaving no issue; 4. Matthias, who became abbot of Petersburgh, 1105, but d. the year following. He was succeeded by his son, Galfridus III., who was lord justiciary of all England, the highest office under the crown, in the time of Henry I., but suffered shipwreck, and was drowned with prince Wm. king Henry's son, 1120. His wife was Geva, da. of Hugh Lupus, earl of Chester (and Geva, his 1st wife, da. of Robt. de Buci), nephew to Wm. the Conqueror, by whom he had only 1 da. Matilda, who became his heir, wife of Richd. Basset, lord justiciary of England to king Henry I., after the death of Galfridus, his father-in-law. He was of an ancient and noble family, being the son of Ralph Basset, lord justiciary of England. The issue of this marriage was 4 sons, 1. Galfridus, who, in honour of his mother, assumed the name of Ridel, and was ancestor of this family; 2. Ralph, ancestor of the Bassets of Drayton, peers of the realm. This branch ended in heirs female, married into the families of Beauchamp, earl of Warwick, the earls of Stafford, and the Chaworths; 3. Wm. ancestor of the Bassets of Sapcope, peers of the realm, which branch also ended in heirs female, about the end of the 14th century; 4. Jordan. Galfridus IV. was baron Blaye, in France, and held great possessions in England. He afterwards entered into the church, and became the chief support of the king against Thomas à Becket. He was archdeacon of Canterbury, while that see was filled by Becket, who gave him the name of the archdevil of Canterbury. Galfridus afterwards became bishop of Ely, and grand justiciary of the realm. During the whole reign of Henry II. he was employed in the most important services. He d. 1189, leaving immense wealth, which king Richd. I. seized, on account of his having d. intestate.

Galfridus, by his 1st wife, had 2 sons, Galfridus and Richd. The former succeeded to the principality of Blaye, and is the celebrated Troubadour, whose poetry and adventures are of the most singular nature which the ages of chivalry ever produced. He d. of love at Tripoli. Richd. the 2d son, upon his brother's death, succeeded to almost all the estates in England. This Richd. had reassumed the surname surname of Basset. Galfridus's 2d wife was Sabilla, sister to Wm. Mauduit, lord of Hanslap, and ancestor of the earls of Warwick. By her he left 2 sons and 1 da. Hugh, the eldest son, is the direct ancestor of this family. Wm. the 2d son, was high chancellor of Scotland, under Wm. the Lion. He d. 1214. Hugh Ridel obtained the principality of Blaye upon the death of his half-brother, Galfridus V., and m. Margaret, da. and heiress of Peter de Sancto Medardo, or Semerc. He was a most powerful baron, and in 1174 was one of the hostages to Henry II. for Wm. the Lion, king of Scotland, when taken prisoner at the battle of Alnwick. To that prince he was allied through the Anjou, Chester, and St. Liz families. Galfridus, son of Hugh, lord of Blaye, &c. was one of the barons who conspired against king John, 1212.

It would far exceed the limits of this work to particularize the several succeeding personages of this family, which seems to have preserved, in a great measure, its grandeur and importance until the reign of Henry VI., when they entirely lost their possessions in France, and much of their English property. In the 16th century, John Riddell, of Sallowes, esq., then head of the family removed into Scotland, where they have ever since been seated. Jas. Riddell, of Kinglass, co. Linlithgow, esq., was a very conspicuous and much-respected character in the time of the commonwealth, and in the reign of Charles II. Jas. his eldest son, was a capt. in the service of the States of Holland. He greatly encumbered his paternal estate. Dying unm. in 1688, he was succeeded by his brother, Geo. who m. Jane, eldest da. of capt. Jno. Tailzeour, by whom he had 6 sons and 8 das. He was succeeded, 1706, by his only surviving son, Geo. who m. Christiana, da. of Andrew Paterson, esq., by whom he had 9 sons and 6 das.

I. Sir JAMES, 3d son of Geo. was the 1st bart. of this family, so created 3 Sept. 1778; m., 1st, Mary, da. and heiress of Thos. Milles, esq. (by Helen, his 3d wife, da. of maj. Ferrior); by her he had 5 sons and 1 da., who with the 2d and 4th sons, d. young. The 2d surviving son, Geo.-Jas., unfortunately fell in a duel 23 April 1783, universally regretted. He was then a lieut. in the 2d troop of horse-grenadier guards, aged 24 years. Sir Jas. m., 2dly, in 1775, Sarah, da. of Thos. Burdon, esq. In her right he enjoyed considerable property co. Durham and York, as heiress to her father, and to her grandfather, Hen. Foster, esq. Sir Jas. was succeeded by his eldest son, Dugal Campbell, and had issue, James-Milles, who d. during the lifetime of his father, having m. ——, and had issue, sir James-Milles, 3d bart., who succeeded his grandfather; Campbell-Drummond; and 5 das., Christiana-Drummond; Mary-Milles-Geva; Sarah-Burdon; Eleanor-Fraser-Basset; and Margaretta. FARMER, of Mount Pleasant, co. Sussex.

Oct. 26, 1779.

This family is descended from the Farmers, of Youghall, co. York, of which place the late baronet's father was a native.

Capt.

Capt. Farmer, being on a cruise off Ushant, in company with the Rambler cutter, came up with, and closely engaged, a large French frigate, called the Surveillante, mounting 40 guns, while the Rambler was engaged with a French cutter, as superior in force as the French frigate was to the Quebec. The action on both sides was warm and bloody for 6 hours, when the French cutter bore away; but the Rambler was too much disabled in her masts and rigging to follow her with any hopes of coming up. The commander, therefore, seeing both the frigates dismasted, and the Quebec take fire, endeavoured to get as near the Quebec as possible, in hopes of saving some of her men; but there being little wind, and a large swell, no other assistance could be afforded, than by hoisting out the boat, which picked up one master's mate, two young midshipmen, and 14 more of the Quebec's people, the enemy's frigate, at the same time, firing at the boat. The Quebec continued to burn very fiercely for 4 hours, when she blew up.

Words cannot describe the gallantry and magnanimity displayed by Capt. Farmer on this occasion, not only in the engagement, but in the fatal catastrophe with which it was attended. Having his arm broken towards the close of the engagement, he tied his handkerchief round the shattered part of the bone, and then addressed his men as follows: "My lads! this is warm work; therefore keep up your fire with double spirit; we will die or conquer!"

When the ship took fire, the captain, the first lieutenant, and many of the crew, remained on board; but most of the men jumped into the sea, where numbers perished in sight of those on board the ship. The fire now raging with more violence, the captain was requested to attempt saving himself; but he refused every solicitation, and declared he would not quit the ship while there remained another man on board. By degrees the number of his companions grew less and less, and he saw inevitable destruction fast approaching; he entreated the remainder to jump into the sea, whilst he sat on the fluke of the sheet-anchor, waiting, with heroic fortitude, the dreadful explosion, which, at last, numbered him with departed heroes.

I. Sir GEORGE, created a bart. 26 Oct., 1779, in remuneration of the gallant services of his father; m., Oct. 1786, Sophia, 3d da. of Richd. Kenrick, of Nantelwyd, co. Denbigh, esq. COLQUHOUN, of Luss, co. Dumbarton.

Created Baronet of Scotland, 1 August 1625; and of Great Britain, 10 June 1786.

Sir JAMES COLQUHOUN, Bart., succeeded his father, Sir James, in 1805; M.P. for the County of Dumbarton in 1802; married, in 1802, Janet, daughter of the Right Hon. Sir John Sinclair, of Ulbster, Bart., and has issue, 1. James; 2. John; 3. William; 4. Sarah-Maitland; and 5. Helen.

The traditional accounts of the origin of this ancient family are various. Some authors deduce their descent from a younger son of Conoch, a king of Ireland, who came to Scotland in the reign of Gregory the Great, and obtained from that prince some lands in Dumbartonshire, to which he gave the name of Conochon, which soon after came to be corrupted into Colquhoun, which name they have retained ever since. The immediate ancestor of this family was Umphridus de Kilpatrick, who, temp. Alexander II., obtained a grant of the lands and barony of Colquhoun, co. Dumbarton, whereupon he quitted the name of Kilpatrick, and assumed that of Colquhoun. Ingelramus de Colquhoun, his son, lived temp. Alexander III. Sir John, the 7th in descent from Umphridus, was highly esteemed by James III., who, 1463, appointed him custos rotulorum, or clerk registrar for Scotland; and 1474 he was preferred to be lord high chamberlain of England. He was afterwards constituted governor of the castle of Dumbarton for life. He m. a daughter of Thomas, lord Boyd, by whom he had 2 sons and 1 da.; 1. Humphrey; 2. Robert, who was consecrated bishop of Argyll, 1473, and was in that see 1495. His da., Margaret, was wife of sir Wm. Murray, 7th baron of Tullibardin, and bore to him 17 sons, of whom the duke of Athol, and several other families of the name of Murray, are descended. He was killed at the siege of the castle of Dumbarton, 1 May 1478, and and was succeeded by his eldest son, sir Humphrey, who m., 1st, Jean, da. of Thomas, lord Erskine, by whom he had 1 son, John, and 2 das.; and 2dly, a da. of John, 3d lord Somerville, by whom he had no surviving issue; and dying in 1493 was succeeded by his son, sir John, m., 1st, Margaret Stuart, da. of John, earl of Lennox, by whom he had 2 sons and 4 das.; and 2dly, Margaret Cunningham, by whom he had 2 sons. He d. 1535. His eldest son, Humphrey, m. Katharine, da. of William, 1st earl of Montrose, by whom he had 1 son, John, and 3 das. He survived his father only 2 years, and was succeeded by his son, sir John, who m. Agnes, da. of Robert, 4th lord Boyd, ancestor to the earls of Kilmarnock. His eldest son, Humphrey, m., 1st, Jean Cunningham, da. of Alexander, 5th earl of Glencairn, relict of Archibald, 5th earl of Argyll, by whom he had no issue; and 2dly, Jean, da. of John, lord Hamilton, by whom he had only one da.

In 1594, or 1595, the clan of Macgregor, with some of their lawless neighbours, came down upon the low country of Dumbartonshire, and committed vast depredations, especially upon the territories of the Colquhouns. Humphrey raised his vassals, and followed to oppose them, and was joined by many of the gentlemen in the neighbourhood. Both parties met at Glenfroome, where a bloody conflict ensued. Many were killed on both sides, but the Highlanders appear to have had the advantage. The laird of Colquhoun retired to a castle of his own, but being closely pursued by a party of the enemy, they broke into his castle and put him to death; and he having no male issue, was succeeded by his brother, Alexander, m. Helen, da. of sir George Buchanan, by whom he had 5 sons and 1 da. Sir John, the eldest son, was, by king Charles I., created a baronet of Nova Scotia. He was a great loyalist, and was fined by Oliver Cromwell the sum of £2000 sterling, 1654; he m. Lilias Graham, da. of John, 4th earl of Montrose, brother to the Marquess, by whom he had 3 sons and 2 das.: he was succeeded by his son, sir John, who m. Margaret, da. and heiress of sir Gideon Baillie, of Lochend, co. Haddington, by Magdalene, da. and co-heiress of David, lord Carnegie; but having no surviving male issue, was succeeded in 1676 by his brother, sir James, m. Penuel, da. of sir Wm. Cunningham, and Catharine, his wife, da. of James, 7th earl of Glencairn, by whom he had 1 son, Humphry, and 1 da. He was succeeded by his son, sir Humphry, who was member of the union parliament, and strenuously opposed opposed and voted against every article of it. He m. Margaret, da. of sir Patrick Houston, bart., by Anne Hamilton, his wife, da. of John, lord Bargeny, by whom he had only 1 da., Anne, wife in 1702, of James Grant. Sir Humphrey wishing that his da. and her husband should succeed him in his estate and honours, made, in 1704, a resignation of his baronetship, &c. for a new patent to himself in life-rent, his son-in-law and his heirs, on condition of carrying the name and arms of Colquhoun. Sir Humphry d. 1718, and was succeeded in his estate and honours by James Grant, his son-in-law, underthe name and designation of sir James Colquhoun, of Luss, who enjoyed that estate and title till his elder brother, Alexander Grant, d. without issue in 1719; he then succeeded to the estate of Grant, relinquished the name and title of Colquhoun of Luss, and resumed that of Grant, but claimed the baronetship, it being by the last patent invested in his person. By the said Anne he had 5 sons and 5 das.; 1. Humphry, d. unm. 1732; 2. Ludovic; 3. James; 4. colonel Francis; 5. captain Charles, of the R.N.: 1. Jean, countess-dowager of Fife; 2. Anne, wife of sir Henry Innes; 3. Sophia; 4. Penuel, wife of capt. Alex. Grant; 5. Clementia, wife of sir Wm. Dunbar, of Durn. Sir James d. 16 Jan. 1747, and was succeeded in his estate of Grant, of Bellindallach, by his eldest surviving son, Ludovic, who had possessed the estate of Luss till the death of his elder brother 1732, which then devolved upon his immediate younger brother, sir James, who enjoyed the estates and honours of sir Humphrey Colquhoun, his grandfather, as heir of provision and entail, and carried the name and arms of that ancient family accordingly. He m. Helen Sutherland (who d. 7 Jan. 1791, da. of William, lord Strathnaver, son and heir-apparent of John, 19th earl of Sutherland), by whom he had 3 sons and 6 das.; 1. James; 2. William, a colonel in the army, unm.; 3. Lodovic, a colonel in the army. Of the das., 1. Catharine, wife of sir Roderick M'Kenzie, bart., by whom she had issue; 2. N.B. The escallops seem to have been assumed by a crusader of the family (to one of whom there is a monument in the church of Shipton Malet) subsequent to the settlement in England; but prior to the reign of king John, as the arms borne by the companion of William the conqueror are said to have been three buckles, which are still retained by the family of Greville, in Normandy. The motto seems to have been assumed by Baldwin, solicitor to king Henry VIII., probably in allusion to the potence of his royal master. Amongst the great possessions of the family in Somersetshire, were Enmore Castle, St. Audries, Sutton Malet, Curry Malet, Shipton Malet, Poynington, Oak, Compton, Conquest, &c., all which are now alienated.

ERSKINE, of Torrie, co. Fife.
21 June 1791.

Sir JAMES ERSKINE, Bart. succeeded his brother, Sir William, 13 Feb. 1813; Lieutenant-General in the Army; married Louisa Paget, 3d daughter of Henry Bayley, 1st Earl of Uxbridge, and sister to the present Marquess of Anglesey, K.G. G.C.B.

The Erskines of Torrie are a branch of the Erskines, earls of Mar, by the following descent.

Ballandon, and sister to the 1st lord Ballandon, by whom he had 1 son, David, his heir, and 1 da., Mary: he d. in 1636. David, his successor, m. 1st, Anne, da. to sir Thos. Hope, of Craig-Hall, by whom he had 1 son, Henry, colonel of dragoons, whose son, David, succeeded to, and carried on, the present line of Buchan: he m. 2dly, Mary, da. to sir Geo. Bruce, of Carnock (who was descended from king Robt. Bruce), and sister to Edward and Alexander, earls of Kincardine, by whom he had 4 sons and 3 das.: 1. Alexander, who d. young; 2. sir William, 1st bart.; 3. John, a colonel of foot; he was a very eminent person, and much attached to the cause of religion and civil liberty, he was in great favour with king William, who appointed him governor of Stirling and Dumbarton castles, and was principal manager of the Scots' East India and African company; 4. Charles, a capt. of foot, killed at the battle of Steinkirk, 24 July 1692; and 3 das.; Veronica; Magdalene; and Mary. David, lord Cardross, d. 1671.

Wm.

Wm. Erskine, of Torrie, co. Fife, 2d son to David, lord Cardross, a person of great integrity and honour, was a colonel in the army; he served in the cavalry with distinguished reputation, and was appointed deputy-governor of Blackness castle; he m. Magdalene, da. to sir Jas. Lumsdane, of Innergelly, co. Fife, maj.-gen. in the service of Gustavus Adolphus, king of Sweden, and had issue 2 sons, William and James: the latter of whom was capt. in the Greys, and lost his life on service in Flanders. William, the eldest, who succeeded his father, was a col. in the army, and lieut.-col. of the 7th light dragoons, which regiment he commanded during the Flanders' war, and was severely wounded at the battle of Fontenoy, from which he never recovered: he m. Henrietta, da. and co-heiress to Wm. Baillie, of Lamington, by lady Henrietta Lindsay, eldest da. to William, the 15th earl of Crawford. Wm. Baillie, of Lamington, chief of that ancient name, was paternally descended from sir Alexander Baillie, or Baliol, baron of Cairs, lord chamberlain of Scotland, and a younger brother to John Baliol, lord of Galloway, father to John Baliol, king of Scotland: he was also descended from sir Wm. Wallace, regent of Scotland in 1297 (one of the greatest patriots, warriors, and heroes, of this or any other age or country). The Baillies, or earls of Lamington, became seated there by marriage with sir Wm. Wallace's da. and only child. The said William Erskine of Torrie had, by his wife, Henrietta, 1 son, sir William, 1st bart. and 2 das., Margaret and Henrietta: the former m. —— Stirling, of Keir, esq.

Sir WILLIAM, who succeeded his father, entered the army at an early period. By services of the most splendid nature he added many a wreath to his country's fame, and did honour to the noble race from whence he sprung. He served in various climes for the long period of half a century, seventeen years of which were employed in the most active campaigns, having served in the Flanders, German, and American wars, and that of the French revolution. After the war of Germany he laid at the king's feet 16 stand of colours, taken by the regiment which he commanded (the 15th light dragoons) alone; upon which occasion, his majesty was graciously pleased to create him knight banneret (the only one of his time), and which distinction has never since been conferred on any one. He was created a bart., as above, 21 June 1791. In the eventful period of the French revolution, when the British were employed in Flanders, Flanders, he exhibited a firmness and coolness beyond all praise. He, on every occasion, imparted a brilliancy to his own character, and an addition to the military reputation of England, which will be long remembered, and was, at the time, productive of the most essential benefit. He was as much beloved for his social virtues as he was esteemed and respected, even by the enemy, for his personal bravery and military talents; and it is not too much to say, that England now could boast of an officer who possessed, in a superior degree, such undeniable claims to the confidence and honours which his merits alone occasioned. He attained the rank of lieut.-gen. in the army, and col. of the 26th regiment of foot; but his most distinguished services were with the cavalry. He had received his majesty's commission to proceed to Ireland, to take upon himself the command of the troops in that kingdom, and was preparing to depart, when he was seized with a spasm, and, after a short illness, d. in the full vigour of mind and body, in the 68th year of his age.

He m., 1st, Magdalene, only child of sir Robt. Myrton, of Gogar, by whom he had one child, who d. in infancy. He m., 2dly, Frances, da. of Jas. Moray, of Abercairney, by Christian, his wife, da. to Alexander, earl of Eglinton (Jas. Moray was chief of that name, and descended from the earls of Strathern). By this 2d marriage he had 3 sons and 5 das.; 1. sir William, and 2. sir James, successive barts.; 3. John-Drummond, in the civil service of the East India company; 4. Frances, m. lieut.-gen. Wm. Wemyss, of Wemyss Castle; 5. Christian, who d. young; 6. Henrietta, d. unm.; 7. Elizabeth, m. her cousin, Jas. Moray, of Abercairney, esq.; and 8. Magdalene. Sir William d. April 1795, and was succeeded in his title and estates by his eldest son,

II. Sir WILLIAM, lieutenant-general of cavalry, who served in the war of the French revolution, in the expedition to Flushing, and 3 years in Spain and Portugal. He was much distinguished by a quickness of apprehension, and precision of judgment, on most subjects, but particularly on military matters. He was intrusted with the command of the advanced guard in the pursuit of the French from the lines of Lisbon, in which he acquitted himself to the high satisfaction of the commander of the forces; and after enduring the most fatiguing operations of the campaign in 1812, he was seized with a pleurisy, terminating in a fever, of which he d. at Brozas, in Spain, 13 Feb. 1813, being at at that time in command of the British cavalry, unm. He was succeeded by his brother, BARING, of Larkbeer, co. Devon.

11 May 1793.

Sir THOMAS BARING, Bart., M.P. for Wycombe, and a Merchant in London, born 12 June 1772; succeeded his father, Sir Francis, 12 Sept. 1810; married, 1794, Mary, eldest da. of Charles Sealy, of Calcutta, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, and has issue, 1. Francis; 2. Thomas; 3. John; 4. Charles; 5. Mary, d. 3 Oct. 1812; 6. Charlotte; 7. Emily, d. 7 Dec. 1812; and 8. a daughter, b. 23 Aug. 1813.

John Baring, of the Lutheran church at Bremen, of a family originally from Lower Saxony, had 2 das. and a son, John John Baring, of Larkbeer and Lyndbridge, co. Devon, esq. m. Elizabeth, da. of Jno. Bellair, by whom he had, 1. Thomas, m. Elizabeth, da. of Francis Parker, esq., by whom he had 6 children, John, Francis, Anne, Elizabeth, Charlotte, and Margaret; 3. sir Francis, 1st bart.; 4. Charles, m. Margaret, da. and heiress of Wm. Gould, of East Loo, co. Cornwall, esq., by whom he had 2 sons, William and Charles, and 7 das., Jaquetta, wife of sir Stafford Northcote, of Pynes, co. Devon, bart.; Frances, of Wm. Jackson, of Cowley, co. Devon, esq.; Eleanor; Emily; Lucy; and Caroline; and 5. Elizabeth, wife of Jno. Bunning, esq., created baron Ashburton (Vide Debrett's Peerage of the United Kingdom); by whom she had two sons; John, who d. an infant; and Richard-Barré, the present lord.

I. Sir FRANCIS, 3d son, of Stratton-Park, co. Hants, b. 18 April 1740, created a bart., 11 May 1793. Sir Francis at an early period distinguished himself by his accurate knowledge and dexterity in financial calculations: during the eventful periods of the last 40 years, he exhibited to his countrymen a just knowledge of his country's true interest, and an eager anxiety to promote her commerce by his own individual example. Enabled by his affluence to assist the minister in the various loans required, from time to time, in the service of the state, he soon became the leading member of the monied interest; and even the prosperity of England, at certain periods, may be said to have revolved around him, as its primum mobile. His services on these and other occasions of great national interest, particularly as a director of the East India company and as a member of parliament, were too important to escape the notice of administration, and certainly entitle his memory to grateful veneration. He m. Henrietta, da. of Wm. Herring, of Croydon, co. Surrey, esq., cousin and co-heiress of Thos. Herring, archbishop of Canterbury, 1747, and by her (who d. 3 Dec. 1804) he had issue, 1. sir Thomas, the present bart.; 2. Frances, m. Thomas-Read Kemp, esq.; 10. Lydia, m. 20 Dec.

m. 20 Dec. 1806, the rev. Philip-Laycock Story. Sir Francis was first elected to parliament in 1786, for Grampound; for Calne, in 1796; and in 1802 for Chipping-Wycombe; he d. 12 Sept. 1810. On his decease, such was the powerful influence of his name in the mercantile world, that even the public funds exhibited the effects of his loss, by a considerable depression; a circumstance highly illustrative of his elevated character as a British merchant, and of his intimate connexion with the financial interests of his country. He was succeeded by his eldest son, SALUSBURY, of LLANWERN, co. Monmouth.

4 May 1795.

Sir THOMAS-ROBERT SALUSBURY, Bart., born 18 May 1783, succeeded his father, Sir Robert, 15 Nov. 1817.

This family is considered, by some, to be a junior branch from Walter de Ewrus, earl of Rosmar and Mante (who accompanied William the Conqueror into England, and was rewarded with the lordships of Salusbury and Ambrosebury, co. Wilts). Other genealogists deduce the family from Adam de Salisbury, a younger son of the duke of Bavaria, who came into Wales, and was captain of the garrison of Denbigh, whereby he became possessed of land there, and by his wife, Joyce, da. of sir William Pomfret, had 2 sons, Alexander, and Thomas, who m. Joyce, da. of sir Wm. Maundeville, knt., by whom he had John, who was living temp. Henry III. (probably the same John de Salusbury who founded the abbey of Denbigh) and who, dying temp. king Edward I., was buried in that religious house: he left issue. 2dly, Henry Salisbury, styled the Black, m. Nesta, da. and heiress of Kenrick Jais, by whom he had William Salusbury, who served in the baronial parliaments, holden at Westminster, as burgess for Leominster, co. Hereford, and was summoned for the same place in the 11th, 12th, 14th 15th, 20th, 36th, and 37th, of the same reign. Thomas, a descendant of his, having valiantly behaved himself against the Cornish rebels, headed by lord Audley, was knighted at the bridge foot, upon the king's entering London after the battle of Blackheath, 1496. Henry Salusbury, the 11th in descent from him, was created a bart. 1619, and m., 1st, Hester, da. of sir Thos. Middleton, knt., by whom he had issue, Thomas, John, Ursula, and Elizabeth; m., 2dly, Elizabeth, da. of sir John, Vaughan, afterwards lord Carbery, by whom he had 1 da., Anne, wife of Arthur Stanhope, son of Philip, 1st earl of Chesterfield. He d. 2 Aug. 1632, and was succeeded by his eldest son, sir Thomas, who served in parliament, co. Denbigh, in all the parliaments of Charles II. He m. Jane, da. of Edwd. Williams; but having no issue, his sister, Hester, wife of sir Robt. Cotton, of Combermere, bermere, knt., and bart. was his heir, and the title of bart. was extinct. From Roger, a great uncle of sir Henry, 1st bart., descended, in the 3d generation, Thomas Salusbury, whose younger son, Norfolk Salusbury, of Place y Ward, co. Denbigh, esq. (who d. 1736) m. Elizabeth, da. and heiress of Robt. Williams, esq., by whom he had 4 sons, Robert, Thelwall, James, and John. Robert, of Cotton-Hall, co. Denbigh, esq., the eldest son, m. Gwen, da. and heiress of Ellis Davies, of Nantyrerwhaid, co. Merioneth, esq., by whom he had, 1. sir Robert, present bart.; 2. John, d. unm.; 3. Thomas, in the army, m. Sarah, da. of Bulkely Hatchet, of Lee-Hall, co. Salop, esq.; 4. Lynch, vicar of Offley, Herts, m. Jane Offley, by whom he has 3 children, Samuel, William, and Elizabeth; 5. Thelwall, in holy orders, rector of Graveley, co. Herts, m. Elizabeth, da. of Chas. Offley, of Great Ormond Street, London, esq., and has issue, Robert, Mary, and Thelwall.

I. Sir ROBERT, created a baronet, 11 April 1795; b. 10 Sept. 1756; m. Catharine, da. and sole heir of Charles Vane, of Llanwern, esq., and had issue: 1. Thomas, d. young; 2. Sir Thomas-Robert, present baronet; 3. Charles, b. 4 Feb. 1792; 4. Sarah-Catharine; 5. Charlotte-Gwen, m., 28 May 1811, Thomas-Bates Rows, of Courtyrala, co. Glamorgan, esq.; 6. Elizabeth-Jane; 7. Henry. Sir Robert d. 17 Nov. 1817, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

II. Sir THOMAS-ROBERT, present baronet.

GRACE, of Grace-Castle, co. Kilkenny.

11 May 1795.

Sir WILLIAM GRACE, Bart., succeeded his cousin Sir Richard Gamon, Bart., M.P. for Winchester, 8 April 1818.

Baron Walter Fitz-Other-de-Windsor "founded," says a learned antiquary, "a house of peers. In him the noble noble families of Windsor, Carew, Grace, Fitzmaurice, Gerard, Fitzgerald, Mackenzie, and Fitzgibbon, see their common patriarch." He was governor of Windsor castle in 1078, and his 3d son, Gerald Fitzwalter, lord of Carew, who d. in 1135, was father to William Fitzgerald, lord of Carew (see Gerard of Bryn and Carew of Haccomb), whose 2d son, Raymond Fitzwilliam, surnamed Le Gros, was immediate founder of the Grace and Fitzmaurice families. Raymond le Gros, the most powerful of earl Strongbow's coadjutors in the conquest of Ireland, acquired the great district in the co. Kilkenny called "Grace's country:" he was also lord of Lereton, constable of Leinster, and in 1177 viceroy of the kingdom. He m. Basilia de Clare, sister to Richard (Strongbow), earl of Pembroke, and had issue 2 sons, viz. Wm. le Gros and Maurice Fitz-Raymond. To the latter of these the family of Fitzmaurice trace their origin, as that of Grace does to the former. Wm. le Gros, lord of Grace's country, m. Margaret, da. of Robert Fitzwarren, of Wales, and the 9th in descent from him was sir Oliver Grace, baron of Courtstown, the custos pacis of the co. Kilkenny in 1479, who, by Ellen, da. of O'More, dynast or sovereign prince of Leix, had issue, sir John Grace, baron of Courtstown, living 1515, who m. Catharine, da. of the lord Power, of Curraghmore, and had, among other issue, sir John Grace, baron of Courtstown (from whom descended the successive palatine barons of Courtstown), and sir Oliver Grace, of Ballylinch and Leagan castles, in co. Kilkenny, and also of Carney-Castle, in co. Tipperary, for which last county he was returned to parliament on the 12th of Jan. 1559. By Mary, eldest sister of Maurice Fitzgerald, created lord viscount Decies in 1569, and da. of sir Gerald Fitzgerald, 3d lord of Decies (great grandson of James Fitzgerald, earl palatine of Desmond), and lady Ellice Butler, 4th da. of Pierce, 8th earl of Ormonde, he had issue, Gerald Grace, of Ballylinch, &c., who d. 3 March 1614, leaving issue, by Margaret, da. of sir Robert Hartpole, of Shrule-Castle, in the Queen's county, Oliver Grace, of Ballylinch, &c. who d. 27 Aug. 1626, leaving issue, by Margaret, da. of Edmd. Butler, 2d lord viscount of Mountgarret (and of Grissel, da. of Barnaby Fitzpatrick, the 1st lord of Upper-Ossory), Gerald Grace of Ballylinch, a minor aged 13 at his father's death. Sir Thomas Loftus, of Killyan, his grand-uncle by marriage, obtained his wardship from the court of Wards and Liveries, for the fine of 500*l.*, on 12 Dec. 1626. He m. Ellen, eldest da. and eventual co-heir co-heir to Edmund Butler, 3d lord Dunboyne, by his wife, Margaret, sole heir to Thomas Butler, 4th lord Caher, and being in the army of his uncle, the lord Mountgarret, he was slain at the battle of Kilrush, on 10 April 1642, leaving issue John Grace, of Ballylinch, &c., who, though a minor during the civil wars, lost the great inheritance of his family, which was distributed among Cromwell's followers. He died unm., and his next brother, William, continued the line, leaving issue, by Ellinor, sister of Edward Butler, 2d lord viscount Galmoy, and da. of the hon. Pierce Butler (by Margaret, da. of Nicholas Netterville, 1st lord viscount Netterville), 1. Oliver Grace, of Shanganagh (now Gracefield), in the Queen's county, of whom presently; and 2. John Grace, who m. Anne, da. and heir to John Grace, of Thomastown, and had an only child, Elizabeth Grace, m. to Richard Gamon, of Datchworthbury, in co. Herts, by whom she had issue sir Richard, the late baronet; and Anna-Eliza Gamon, m. to James Brydges, the last duke of Chandos, whose only child, lady Anna-Eliza Brydges, was m., in 1796, to Richard-Grenville, duke of Buckingham and Chandos, and has issue Richard, marquess of Chandos, M.P. for co. Bucks. Sir Richard Gamon represented the city of Winchester in parliament for above thirty years, and was created a baronet 11 April 1795, with remainder, in failure of male issue, to his cousin, Richard Grace, of Boley, in the Queen's county, M.P., but denominated in the patent "of Grace-Castle," an ancient residence of his family, in the co. of Kilkenny. Sir Richard Gamon m., in 1796, lady Amelia Murray, eldest da. of John, duke of Athol, K.T., and d. 8 April 1818, leaving an only da., Charlotte-Amelia Gamon, on which the baronetcy devolved upon Wm. We now return to Oliver Grace, of Shanganagh (now Gracefield), in the Queen's co., M.P. for Ballynakill, chief remembrancer of the exchequer of Ireland, and a member of the privy council to king James II. He d. 8 June 1708, having m. Elizabeth, only surviving child of John Bryan, of Bawnmore, co. Kilkenny (by his 2d wife, Ursula, 2d da. and eventual co-heir to Walter Walsh, of Castlehoel or Castlehoyle, by Magdalen Sheffield, only sister of Edmund Sheffield, 2d earl of Mulgrave, and grand-aunt and eventual sole heir to Edmund Sheffield, 4th earl of Mulgrave, and 2d duke of Buckingham and of Normanby), by whom (who d. 13 June 1736) having having m. 2dly, Edmund Butler, 6th lord viscount Mountgarret (whose 3d son Edmund was great grandfather of Edmund, the 12th viscount of Mountgarret, created of Kilkenny, in 1793), he had, among other issue, Michael Grace, of Gracefield, who inherited, as co-heir at law with his cousin, Robert Grace, of the line of Courtstown, the undevised part of the great Sheffield estates, in the cos. of Sussex and Middlesex. He m. Mary, dau. of John Galway, of Lota, in the co. of Cork, by Elizabeth, sister of sir John Meade, of Ballintobber, bart. grandfather of the 1st earl of Clanwilliam, and d. 19 Feb. 1760, leaving, besides other issue, 1. Oliver Grace, of Gracefield; 2. John Grace, of Sheffield, who d. 19 Sept. 1780, unm.; and 3. Wm. Grace, of whom presently. most most highly accomplished, as well as one of the handsomest men of his day. He combined quick with singularly strong parts, and all the worthiest feelings of the human heart belonged to him. This family is of Norman extraction, and was of great respectability and consequence in the time of William the Conqueror, with whom they came into England, when they settled in Norfolk and Suffolk. The name has been variously written, as Le Neve, Neve, and Neare. From them were descended sir William Le Neve, and Peter Le Neve, norroy king-at-arms; and the valiant commander of his majesty's ship Edgar, Richard Le Neve, buried in Westminster-Abbey.

The first we find mentioned is Jordan, or Jourdan Le Neve, whose son, Jeffrey, was living in the reign of Henry II. From him descended Robert Le Neve, of Tivetshall, in Norfolk, gent., living 1 Hen. IV. The 11th in descent from him was Frances-Anne, m. 20 April 1822, capt. Charles Shaw, 2d son of sir John Charles Shaw, of Kenward, co. Kent, Bart., 2. James; 3. Eliza; and 4. Louisa.

In the 14th century we find Robert Hawley, of whom a singular story is on record: During the priorship of the gigantic and courageous Nicholas Lithington, first prior of the abbey-church of St. Peter, in Westminster, Robert Hawley and John Shakell, esqrs., in the battle of Nazers, in Spain, had taken the Spanish earl of Dene prisoner, who delivered up his son as an hostage for his ransom. The youth was left unnoticed by his father for some years, when John, duke of Lancaster, thought fit to demand him; the captors released him without a consideration; upon this they were committed to the Tower, from whence they escaped; but Shakell was retaken, and Hawley fled to the choir of St. Peter's abbey for sanctuary, whither sir Allen Roxal, constable of the Tower, and sir Ralph Ferrers, with a number of armed men, pursued him: after a stout resistance on his part with a small sword, with which he frequently drove his antagonists back, he was at last killed in the chancel, at the very time of high-mass, 11 Aug. 1378, together also with a faithful servant, and a priest, who remonstrated against such violent proceedings. The church was shut for 4 months after this melancholy and barbarous outrage. Subsequently to this we find Thomas Hawley successively Carlisle herald, and Norroy king-at-arms, temp. Hen. VIII.

POORE, of Rushall-Hall, co. Wilts.

8 July 1795.

Sir EDWARD POORE, Bart., born 4 Dec. 1795, succeeded his Great Uncle Sir John Methuen, 1 June 1820, married 6 Jan. 1818, Agnes, 3d daughter of Sir John Marjoribanks, Bart., and has issue a daughter, born —— and another daughter, born May 1822.

This family originally spelt their name Poer, and is of great antiquity in the cos. Wilts and Gloucester. Richard Poer was high sheriff of the latter county in 1187; and there is a curious record in the heralds' college, that he was killed defending the Lord's day. This Richard Poore had 2 sons, Philip and Richard, who was the 1st dean of Salisbury, bishop of Chichester, then of Sarum, and 3dly, of Durham, and d. 15 April 1237, and was buried at Sarrant, co. Dorset, in a nunnery of his own founding: he laid the foundation of Salisbury cathedral in a very pleasant place, called Merifield. The building, with its lofty spire, and double transept, venerable by a kind of sacred cheerfulness and majesty, was finished at a prodigious expense in 40 years, and dedicated, in 1258, in the presence of king Henry III., of which an old bard sings, not inelegantly:

"Regis enim virtus spectatur in isto:
Præsulis affectus, artificumque fides."

This church, the king's delight, in wisdom's rays,
The bishop's zeal, the builder's faith, displays.

But much more elegantly says the celebrated and learned Daniel Rogers:

"Mira canam! soles quot continet annus in una,
Tam numerosa ferunt, æde fenestra micat;
Marmoreasque capit fusas tot ab arte columnas
Comprensas horas quot vagus annus habet;
Totque patent portæ quot mensibus annus abundat
Res mira! at verâ res celebrata fide."

Wondrous to tell! as many windows here
As solar revolutions in one year;

As

As many marble pillars rise around
As hours within the fleeting year are found;
As many doors as months admittance give;
Strange as it seems, we must the tale believe.

His brother, Philip, was seated at Ambresbury, in Wiltshire, from whom was descended Abraham Poore, esq., of Enford, co. Wilts, who m. Anne, da. of Jno. Herne, gent., by whom he had 2 sons: 1. Edward; 2. John, who d. without issue 27 Feb. 1797; and 2 das.; Anne, who d. unm.; and Hester, m. her cousin, Smart Poore, of Fighel Dean, esq. Edward Poore, the eldest son, b. 22 May 1715, and d. 10 April 1738, m. Barbara, da. of Paul Methuen, of Bradford, co. Wilts, esq. (who d. 8 June 1784), by whom he had 2 sons: 1. Edward, b. 22 Nov. 1742, d. 3 Dec. 1795, who m. Anna-Maria, da. of Jas. Montagu, of Lackham, co. Wilts, esq., by whom he had 2 sons: 1. Edward, who m. 1st, Martha-Anne, 2d da. of George Woolf, esq.; consul-gen. from Denmark, by whom (who d. 16 Feb. 1801) he had a son, Edward, present bart.; Matty-Wolff, m. 19 June 1823, George Chilton, esq.; and Annette-Gibson, who m. 8 Aug. 1822, Jno. Chauncey, rector of Ayott St. Peter, Herts, and had issue, Robert-Montague; and John-Charles-Montague. The 2d son of Abraham was,

I. Sir JOHN-METHUEN, created a bart., 8 July 1795, with remainder to the issue male of his brother, Edward Poore, esq.; d. 1 June 1820, and was succeeded by his great nephew, MURRAY-M'GREGOR, of LANRIC, co. Perth.

23 July 1795.

Sir JOHN-M'GREGOR MURRAY-M'GREGOR, Bart., late Colonel in the Army, in the East India Company's service, vice, and Auditor-General in Bengal; resumed the surname of M'Gregor, by Royal Licence, 1822; married Anne, daughter of Roderic Macleod, Esq., by whom he has a son, Evan John.

Though this family have, in the last two or three generations, assumed the name of Murray, they are, in fact, of the race of MAC GREGOR. The royal descent of this most ancient clan might be traced from the chronicles of the Scottish kings to the remotest antiquity; but we shall carry it no further back than prince Gregor, 3d son of king Alphin, son of the celebrated Achaius, king of Scotland, who began to reign 787. The 5th in descent from him was Gregor Garubh, or the Stout, who m. a da. of the ancient house of Lochow, predecessor of the family of Argyll. He fought under Duncan I., in his battles against the Normans and Danes, highly resented the murder of that monarch by Macbeth, and was a powerful promoter of the restoration of his son, Malcolm, prince of Cumberland. In the early part of the 17th century there happened great animosities between the Macgregors and the Colquhouns, Buchanans, and Græmes, which produced several bloody conflicts; and their adversaries having favour at court, the Macgregors were persecuted with great fury. To such a height of ferocity were matters carried, that a price being set upon the heads of the clan by the privy council, two of their enemies, who had shared considerably of their estates, got bloodhounds, with which they hunted them, devouring and mangling them wherever they were found. So keen and powerful were the conductors of their destruction, that a very severe act was made against them, whereby their name was proscribed, and all persons were at liberty to mutilate or slay them without being liable to law; nay, encouraged to it by a promise of their moveable goods and gear. In this situation the Macgregors continued till the time of the solemn league and covenant, which, as their principal enemies were interested in, afforded them a respite. They were much courted to join the confederacy, upon promises of future friendship; but rebellion against majesty had ever been detestable to them, and they declared, "That as they bore the crown on the point of their swords, they would not fail to use the latter in support of the former." Patrick Macgregor afterwards joined Montrose in support of the royal cause with above a thousand of his clan. Mr. Nisbet, in mentioning the loyalists, says, "The Macgregors also, a clan inferior to none in bravery and activity, followed their chief."

Patrick was in particular esteem with Montrose, two of whose letters are carefully preserved, addressed to "His special and trusty Friend, the honourable Patrick, Laird of Macgregor:" that great man, in the strongest terms, expressed his hearty approbation of his unshaken loyalty, and assured him that "His Majesty's affairs being once upon a permanent footing, the grievances of his Family and Clan should be effectually redressed." But their chief hopes died with this great hero; though they were, in consequence of their loyalty, restored to their name, by act of parliament, in the reign of Charles II. Patrick m. Marian, da. of Macdonald, of Auchatrichatan, chief of the most powerful tribe of Macdonalds in Glenco, by whom he had 3 sons: 1. John; 2. James, a major in the army, who went to America, where he married, and acquired a great estate. He was at last killed by a party of rebel Indians; but some of his posterity still flourish near New York; 3. Duncan, d. unm; John, the eldest son, was a steady loyalist: he m. Ann, da. of Macgregor, of Ross, by whom he had a son, John, and several other children. John Macgregor, alias Murray, m. Catharine, eldest da. of Hugh Campbell, of Lix, esq., descended from some of the first families of Scotland, by whom he had 5 sons: 1. Robert; 2. Peter, m. and left a da., Catharine, wife of John Gregorson; 3. Duncan, who now represents the family, was sorely wounded at the battle of Prestonpans, in 1745; he has a son, John; and a da., Drummond-Mary; 4. Evan (of whom hereafter); 5. John, who signalized himself at the siege of Carthagena, in 1740, and in the succeeding war was killed at Ticonderago. Robert, of Glencarnock, the eldest son, assumed the name of Murray, was attached to the interest of the Stuart family, and had the command of a regiment of his own clan in 1745. The duke of Cumberland sent to assure them, that if they would lay down their arms, and return home, they should be restored to their name, and otherwise favoured by government; or if they would join him, that their commanders should have the same rank, and their promotion be esteemed the peculiar care of his royal highness. This message produced a spirited but polite refusal; and after the battle of Culloden, the Macgregors marched in a body to their own country with flying colours, and then dispersed in small parties. Soon afterwards the king's troops burnt all the

the houses on Glencarnock's estate, carried off the cattle, &c.

Glencarnock having at length surrendered himself to the duke of Argyll, was, with the earl of Kelly and others, confined for several years in the castle of Edinburgh. He m., 1st, Christian, da. of John Campbell, esq., by whom he had 1 da., Christian, wife of capt. John Graham, and has issue; 2dly, Robina-Jacobina, da. of maj. Donald Cameron, by whom he had several children, all of whom d. young, except John, who went abroad a volunteer under gen. lord Loudon, and highly distinguished himself upon several commands; but at the siege of Louisburgh, a cannon-ball carried off his head; 3dly, Mary-Anne, da. and heiress of Wm. Drummond, esq., by Mary, sister of sir John Miln, governor of Guernsey, bart., by whom he had no issue. He d. at Edinburgh, Oct. 1758. We now return to

BELLINGHAM, of Castle-Bellingham, Ireland.

16 March 1796.

Sir WILLIAM BELLINGHAM, Bart., F.A.S., a Director of Greenwich Hospital, and Receiver-General of the Land and Assessed Taxes for the City of London. He married, 3 Dec. 1783, Hester-Frances, youngest daughter of the Hon. and Rev. Robert Cholmondeley, 2d son of George, 3d Earl of Cholmondeley.

This ancient family derives its name from the town of Bellingham, in Tyndale, co. Northumberland, where it appears to have been seated immediately after the Conquest; and its descent to sir William Bellingham, the present baronet, is in a direct male line without any interruption, from Alan de Bellingham, who lived temp. William the Conqueror; and about the year 1076, m. —— Beauchamp, by whom he had a son, William de Bellingham, living 1120, and had issue, Richard, living 1150, m. —— Abbott, and had a son, Eudo de Bellingham, living ing 1197, and was sheriff of Westmoreland in 1196 and 1197, m. —— Malet, by whom he had a son, Roger, who, by —— Mowbray, had John de Bellingham, who m. —— St. John, and left issue a son, Robert, of Bellingham and Owstone, co. Northumberland, who was living in the reign of king Edward II., m. Christiana, da. and heiress of Gilbert de Burshead, knt., by which marriage he acquired the estate of Burshead, near Kendal, where the family appears to have resided for many years. Alan Bellingham (8th son of sir Robt. Bellingham, knt., by Elizabeth, da. of sir Rich. Tunstall, of Thnsland, co. Lancaster, knt.), who, about the 4th of king Henry VII., purchased Levens, near Kendal, from the family of Redmans, soon after which the present hall was built, and became the chief residence of the family; though the Bellinghams appear to have had other mansions in Westmoreland at the same time, viz. at Burshead, Helsington, and at Fawcet-Forrest, where they occasionally resided, as well as at Bellingham, co. Northumberland. He was treasurer of Berwick, and deputy-warden of the Marches; and by Elizabeth, da. of Wm. Gilpin, of Kentmere, esq., left a son, Thomas Bellingham, who m. Margery, da. of Thomas Beck, of Holbrink, and had issue, 1. Alan; and 2. Thomas, m. a da. of Thos. Blenkinsop, of Helbeck, esq. Alan, of Helsington, the eldest son, was a bencher of the Middle-Temple, one of the king's council at York for the northern parts, knight of the shire co. Northumberland, 1570; he d. 7 May 1577, having had issue by his 2d wife, Dorothy, da. of Thos. Sandford, of Askham, co. Westmoreland, esq., 5 sons, 4 of whom d. unm.; and 5 das.; James, the 5th and only surviving son, received the honour of knighthood at Durham in 1603, from king James I., on his first coming into England, and d. about 1641, having m. Agnes, da. of sir Henry Curwen, of Workington, co. Cumberland, knt., and had issue, 1. Henry, created a baronet in 1620, which title became extinct in 1650; 2. Thomas, d. unm.; 3. Alan, of Leven's-Hall, co. Westmoreland, represented the county in parliament in 1661; d. 1 Feb. 1672, having m. Susan, da. of Marmaduke Constable, of Masham, co. York., esq. by whom he had, 1. James Bellingham, of Lavens, esq.; 2. Thomas, d. unm.; 3. Henry was an officer in a regiment of cavalry raised in the North for suppressing the rebellion in Ireland; and at the termination of that rebellion had lands granted him co. Louth (which county the Bellinghams represented from 1660 to about 1755, without intermission), now called Castle-Bellingham. These lands were confirmed to him by patent from king Charles II., and he added to them very considerably by purchase: he d. 18 Feb. 1676, was buried at Castle Bellingham, having m. ——, da. of —— Sibthorpe, and by her (who d. Dec. 1669) had Anne, who m. Robt. Bickerton, of Cantiluff, co. Armagh, brother of Jane, duchess of Norfolk, 2d wife of Henry, 6th duke of Norfolk; and Thos. Bellingham, of Castle-Bellingham, esq., raised a regiment of cavalry, and served as its colonel with king William in Ireland, where he acted as his guide during the march of the army from Dundalk to the Boyne, served in that action, and after it accompanied the king, and put him in his carriage at Duleck. For these proofs of attachment to king William, king James's army, in their retreat towards the Boyne, destroyed Bellingham Castle by fire: he m. 18 Feb. 1671, a da. of —— Handcock, by whom (who d. 6 Jan. 1720) he had issue 2 das., who both d. unm.; and Henry. HIPPISLEY, of Warfield-Grove, co. Berks. 30 April 1796.

Sir JOHN-COXE HIPPISLEY, Bart., D.C.L., F.R. and A.S., Recorder, and one of the Representatives in Parliament for the Borough of Sudbury from 1802 to 1812, a Bencher of the Honourable Society of the Inner Temple, and a Manager of the Royal Institution. Sir John married, 1st, 1780, Margaret, 2d daughter of Sir John Stuart, Bart., of Allanbank, co. of Berwick (who d. 24 Sept. 1799), by whom he has 1 son, John-Stuart, and 3 daughters; 1. Margaret-Frances, m. Thomas-Strangways Horner, Esq., of Mells-Park, co. Somerset; 2. Windham-Barbara; 3. Louisa-Anne. Sir John m. 2dly, Elizabeth, daughter of the late Thomas Horner, of Mells-Park, Esq., and relict of Henry-Hippisley Coxe, of Stone-Easton-House, Esq., one of the Representatives in Parliament for the County of Somerset.

In the years 1779 and 1780, being then in Italy, Sir John Hippisley was engaged in many important communications to Government. On his return to England in the following year, in consequence of those services, he was recommended mended in the strongest terms by Lord North, then at the head of the Treasury, to the Court of Directors of the East India Company; in consequence of which, he was immediately appointed to that service with the advanced rank of 4 years. He resigned his employments in 1787, having held offices of great trust and importance in the kingdom of Tanjore during the war with Hyder Ally, and his son, Tippoo Sultaun. In 1790 he was appointed Recorder of Sudbury, which appointment was confirmed by his Majesty on the 6th of July following. At the general election in 1790 he was elected one of the Representatives for that Borough, for which he has served in 5 parliaments. Sir John returned to Italy in the year 1792, where he continued till 1795, in which interval he was employed in many important negotiations; the beneficial result of which was acknowledged in the most flattering manner by his Majesty's Ministers. On his return to England, his Majesty was pleased, in consequence, to confer upon him the dignity of a Baronet of Great Britain.

In 1795, at the instance of the present Elector and King of Wurtemburg, then Hereditary Prince, he was engaged in the negotiation of his marriage with the Princess Royal of Great Britain; an alliance which was then considered as eventually of great importance, his Serene Highness being the brother-in-law of the Emperors of Germany and Russia. In consequence of the success of that negotiation, the reigning Duke, by letters patent, granted to Sir John Hippisley and his posterity the right of bearing the arms of the House of Wurtemburg, accompanied with the device or inscription of the Great Order of Wurtemburg, viz. Amicitiæ virtutisque fœdus. This Grant his Majesty was graciously pleased to confirm by his sign manual, commanding it to be registered in his College of Arms.

On the marriage of the Hereditary Prince with the Princess Royal, his Majesty, in conjunction with the reigning Duke

Duke of Wurtemburg, was also graciously pleased to appoint Sir John Hippisley, together with the Duke of Portland, Lord Grenville, and Mr. Chancellor Pitt, one of the Commissioners and a Trustee of her Royal Highness's marriage settlement.

The benevolent and munificent act of his Majesty in favour of the late unfortunate Representative of the House of Stuart, and the expressive feelings of dignified gratitude with which the boon was accepted and acknowledged, are facts generally known, and as generally applauded. The distresses of the Cardinal of York were originally notified to his Majesty in consequence of the letters addressed to Sir John Hippisley by the Cardinal Borgia; and the transaction must necessarily be considered as forming an interesting epoch in the history of our Country.

Sir John Hippisley served the office of High Sheriff co. Berks in the year 1800, and in the same year was named in the charter of the Royal Institution of Great Britain, one of the first Managers of that Corporation. He is also a Fellow of the Royal and Antiquarian Societies, and a Member of the Government Committee of the Turkey Company.

The family of Hippisley is traced from an early period as seated in Somersetshire; the principal branch has been chiefly resident at Camely, and afterwards at Stone-Easton.

Richard Hippisley, b. the 14th Edward III., resided at Camely, when that manor and many other lordships were granted to him. In the 36th of Henry VIII., on the dissolution of the priory of Bruton, certain lands belonging to that priory were also granted by the Crown to his descendant, John Hippisley, whose son and heir, John, is certified to hold the manors of Camely, Stone-Easton, and other lordships, by knight service.

John Hippisley, temp. Hen. VII., m. Agnes, da. and heiress of sir William Hody, lord-chief-baron of the exchequer, son of sir John Hody, lord-chief-justice of England, 18 Hen. VI.; and we find in the visitation of Somerset in the heralds' college, that John Hippisley, of Stone-Easton, Easton, m. the da. of J. Flower, by whom he had, 1. John, m. Dorothy, the da. of sir John Horner, of Cloford and Mells; 2. William, who d. in 1630. William m. E. Burley, by whom he had 3 sons; 1. Thomas; 2. Richard, captain of Standgate-Castle; 3. sir John Hippisley, who m. Catharine, da. of sir Roger Norton. Sir John was ranger of Bushy-Park. In the civil wars he sided with the parliament, and was a commissioner to treat with the king. Marston-House, now the seat of the earl of Cork, was purchased by the 1st earl of sir John Hippisley.

Others of this family were distinguished at the same period by their adherence to the royal cause. Gabriel Hippisley, equerry to the king, is stated to have been severely fined by parliament for his attachment to Charles I.

Thomas Hippisley, sir John's eldest brother, who d. about 1640, had 5 sons and 7 das.; 1. William, whose only son d. unm.; 2. Thomas, a captain of foot in Holland, d. unm.; 3. Toby, of Hambleton, who d. 1631, having m. a da. of Samuel Hodgkinson, clerk; 4. John; and 5 Edward, who both d. in the service of king Charles I.

Returning to the eldest branch of the family seated at Camely: John m. Dorothy, da. of sir John Horner, and had 10 sons.

John, the eldest, m. Elizabeth, da. of John Organ, by whom he had 5 sons. His eldest was also named John, and m. Margaret, da. and heiress of John Preston, by whom he had 9 sons and 3 das.

From George, 7th son, descended the present John Hippisley, rector of Stow-in-the-Would, co. Gloucester, who m. Margaret, eldest da. of John-Hippisley Coxe, of Stone-Easton, co. Somerset, of which marriage there are 2 sons now living, Richard and Henry; and 1 da., Frances-Anne. Richard, the eldest son, m. Charlotte, da. of sir John Mordaunt, bart. Henry is a fellow of All Souls College, Oxford.

John, eldest son of John, m. Margaret Preston, d. unm.; and from Richard, the 2d son, who m. Elizabeth Yorke, descended from Preston Hippisley, whose da. and sole heiress conveyed the estates of the principal branch of the Hippisleys, by marriage, to John Coxe, whose descendant, Richard-Hippisley Coxe, represented the county of Somerset in three successive parliaments from 1768. Upon his death, the representation of the family devolved on his brother, Henry-Hippisley Coxe, who, in 1793, was returned one of the representatives in parliament for the same county: he d. without issue, having m. Elizabeth-Anne, da.

of Thomas Horner, esq., who m., 2dly, in 1804, sir John-Coxe Hippisley, present bart.

The Hippislys, of Cameley, were, unquestionably, the common stock of the other branches settled in Somersetshire: the most ancient is that of Yatton, afterwards settled at Bristol. Richard Hippisley, recorder of Bristol, 4th Edw. VI., who d. in 1570.

John Hippisley, of Yatton, son of Richard and his wife, Mary, d. in 1639. Elizabeth, his relict, was buried at Yatton in 1641. John, the eldest son of John, twin with Dorothy, b. at Yatton in 1636. John m. the da. of H. Atwood; of which marriage, John, the eldest son, b. 1671, m. Dorothy, the only da. of Wm. Coxe, of East Harptree, co. Somerset; of which marriage were 9 sons and 8 das. Of the sons, only John, b. 1711, and William, b. 1718, attained manhood. The eldest, John, d. unm. in 1740. William m. Anne, eldest da. of Robert Webb, of Cromhall, co. Gloucester, the representative of the ancient family of Clyfford-House, co. Somerset. The last heir male of this family was Thomas Webb, son of Robert, of Cromhall-Court and Heath-End-House, both in the co. Gloucester, who d. without issue in 1802; the only brother of Anne, the wife of Wm. Hippisley: of this marriage were 2 sons; sir John, the present bart., named also Coxe, from his grandmother; and William, who d. an infant.

This family has been, from a long series of generations, established at Montauban, in the province of Languedoc, in France. By a reference to a patent, signed by Henry IV., 6 July 1579, still extant, we are informed that Jean Horace had been appointed to the offices of "Conseiller à la Chambre de l'Edit," and of "Maître des Requestes ordinaires du Roi en son Hotel." To him succeeded Samuel, his eldest son, who had m. Rachael, da. of —— de Valette, of a noble family in Guienne, 9 Dec. 1614, who had also a son named Jean Horace, m. to Jane, da. of —— de la Lauze, of an ancient family in the province of Quercy, 27 Jan. 1643. His

His wife, with her only son, Jacob, fled to Geneva; there she remained, until hearing of her husband's arrival in Ireland, she found the means of joining him, where they lived for many years, having had the good fortune to receive several considerable remittances from France. KNIGHTLEY, of Fawsley, co. Northampton. 30 Dec. 1797.

Sir CHARLES KNIGHTLEY, Bart., born 1781, succeeded his uncle, the Rev. Sir John, 29 Jan. 1812; married, 24 Aug. 1813, Selina-Mary Hervey, eldest daughter of Felton-Lionel Hervey, of Englefield Green, co. Surrey, Esq.; (by Selina, only daughter and heiress of Sir John Elwell, Bart., by Selina, daughter of Peter Bathurst, Esq., and relict of Lord Ranelagh, and sister to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Felton-Lionel-Bathurst Hervey, C.B. Bart.) and has issue, a daughter, b. 1817.

The Knightleys are originally co. Stafford, taking their name from a manor so called, in that county, which they have possessed ever since the Conquest: at that time, Rinaldus, one of the followers of king William I., had a grant of it; but they removed to Fawsley, co. Northampton, 1415, when sir Richard Knightley, knt., purchased that manor. Sir Richard Knightley, K.B. was one of the richest private subjects of his time, having landed property to the amount of £13,000 per annum: he had an extreme aversion to the church of England: his attachment to puritanism grew till his zeal exceeded his prudence, and certain libels against the church were with difficulty discovered to have been printed in a small turret at Fawsley. For this offence, his sovereign, queen Elizabeth, summoned him before the star chamber, when he was deeply fined. Sir Richard sat in several parliaments in that reign and the succeeding one. His death happened in 1615; he m., 1st, Mary, da. of Wm. Fermor, esq., by whom he had 2 sons and 1 da.; and after her death he m. the lady Elizabeth, 6th da. of the great duke of Somerset, protector to his nephew, king Edward VI.; she d. 1602. The issue of this marriage was sir Seymour Knightley, and 6 other sons; yet the male line became extinct in this branch in a very few years. Upon failure of the name in his descendants, the estate of Fawsley came to Richard, son of Thomas Knightley, of Burghhall, co. Stafford; he was also a zealous enemy to the hierarchy in the church, and the regal prerogative in the state. He d. 1650. Jane, his widow, da. of sir Edwd. Lancaster, Bart., by whom he has no issue.

Anthony Wood speaks of a George Peele, student at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1573, where going through the several forms of logic and philosophy, he took the degrees of arts, that of master being completed in 1579; he was esteemed a celebrated poet; and his comedies and tragedies (of which Wood gives a list) were often performed in London with great applause.

Robert Peel, of Oswaltwitch, co. Lancaster, m. Anne, da. of ——, and d. 1736, leaving issue, among other children, William Peel, of the same place, who, by his wife, Jane, da. of Laurence Walmesly, of Darwin, co. Lancaster, esq., had, among other children, sir Robert, present bart., and Joseph, who d. 24 March 1820. Sir Robert, having spent the earlier part of his life on his father's estate at Peele Cross, near Lancaster, which, for several generations, has been in the possession and borne the name of the family, very early in life, and while fortune appeared to shut the door of advancement against him, entertained a strong presentiment of becoming the founder of a family; and even at the youthful age of 14 he frequently avowed his determination to raise himself to rank and consequence in society; founding his hope to be "suæ faber fortunæ," on a conviction that any situation in a free country is accessible to a good capacity, aided by prudence and industry. The high consideration in which he is now held, and his splendid fortune, afford striking proofs of the truth of this presentiment, and the effects of persevering industry in a country where such exertions have the encouragement and support of good laws impartially administered. Mr. Peel gave uncommonly early proofs of quickness of perception; hence probably arose that spirit in his enterprises, and that attention to active habits, which enabled him to steer clear of those reveries which usually accompany man in his progress to superior heights. The cotton trade was, at this period (1770) but a very inconsiderable branch of commerce, although the ingenious sir Rutland Arkwright had made some happy discoveries in the application of mechanical powers to the great abridgment of human labour, the comparatively rude state of this infant trade called forth the best energies and inventive faculties of Mr. Peel; and becoming sensible of the improvements of which machinery was susceptible, he devoted himself to explore the powers of mechanical combinations with a view to their conversion to the purposes of commerce, the best sinew of the strength of England. Sir Robert, in 1802, brought a bill into parliament for the amelioration of the condition of apprentices in the cotton and woollen trades; a measure which, more fully than any other, developes the pure benevolence and complexion of his character: he had long lamented the existence of various evils among the poorer classes; and it must prove one of the highest satisfactions of his life, that he has been instrumental in lessening the sum of human misery, and particularly of

of those to whose labour he is, in some measure, indebted for his present affluence. In private life, sir Robert is no less estimable: although his concerns are so multifarious as might lead one to suppose that this multiplicity would distract his thoughts, his mind is so little fettered, as to enable him to give a considerable portion of time to intellectual pursuits. As the merit by which he acquired it made him worthy of his fortune, so the use which he makes of it, in communicating the means of comfort to all around him, exceedingly endears him to an extensive circle, and gives him a just claim to the honours he has received. At all times accessible to the meanest petitioner, his hand is prompt to second the benevolent impulses of his heart; and none leave his presence before their wants have been listened to with sympathy, and charitably relieved: his heart, purse, and hand, are thus truly the shadow of each other.

I. Sir ROBERT, was created a bart. 29 Nov. 1800.

10 Feb. 1807, ———, daughter of Joseph-Seymour Biscoe, of Penhill, co. Surrey, Esq.

The surname of Inglis, according to Douglas, is of great antiquity in the south of Scotland; it appears from the records that there were several free barons of the name in that country: above 500 years ago, we find Walter de Inglis, John de Inglis, Philip de Inglis, men of rank and property when king Edward I. had overrun that country in 1296. They had large possessions in the shire of Roxburgh in very early times, particularly in the lands and barony of Branksholm. Sir William Inglis, knt., the immediate ancestor of this family, flourished in the reigns of Robert II. and III., was rewarded by his sovereign with the lands and barony of Manner, in 1395, for his combat with sir Thos. Struthers, an English knt., whom he killed on the spot. Alexander Inglis, of Edinburgh, the 7th in descent from the above-named sir William, had 2 wives. Robert, his eldest surviving son and heir (by his 2d wife, Marion, da. of Robert Douglas, esq., laird of Cowthrople), b. 1661, m., in 1690, Janet, da. and heiress of Edward Cleghorn, of Edinburgh, esq., and had issue 19 children: Robert, 3d son, b. in 1699, d. 1748, having m., 1725, Mary, sole da. and heiress of James Russell, esq., and had issue 13 children; of whom 4 only grew up to maturity; John, the eldest, succeeded to the estates of his great maternal uncle, John Wightman of Maulslie, esq., and assumed the name of Wightman. Hugh, the youngest, but only surviving son, is the present bart.

BROOKE-DE-CAPELL BROOKE, of Great Oakley, co. Northampton.

20 June 1803.

Sir RICHARD-BROOKE-DE-CAPELL BROOKE, Bart., F.R.S., married, 18 Aug. 1788, Mary, only child and heiress of Major-General Richard Worge, Colonel 86th Regiment of Foot (who, 1766, m. Miss Jane Bowman), and has issue, 1. Arthur, Lieutenant Royal Regiment Horse Guards, b. 22 Oct. 1791; 2. William, b. 12 June 1801; 3. Mary-Anne; 4. Sophia; 5. Louisa; and 6. Augusta.

The Brookes are a family of great antiquity, settled originally co. Chester. William Broke (for so this family spelt their name till the 17th century) was living in 1159; he was the immediate ancestor of the Oakley branch of this family: the 7th in decent from him was sir Nicholas Broke, who is stated in the county visitations in the heralds' office to have m. the da. of sir Jno. Bush, knt., and to have been lord of the manor of Chester-waver, co. Warwick, where he was buried 10 Sept. 1271. Ancient pedigrees state that Roger Broke, or de Broke, as Bridges styles him in his "History of Northamptonshire," m., temp. Edward I., Agnes, one of the das. and co-heiresses of Philip de Covely, who possessed the manors of Holdenby and Ravensthorp; and that Edward Broke, temp. Edward II., m. the heiress of sir Edward Gournay, knt. The visitations in the college of arms state that William Broke (4th in descent from sir Nicholas.) m. the niece of sir Thos. Billinge, lord chief justice, 6 Edward IV. He appears, by various family-deeds, copies of which are in the British Museum (vide Harleian Catalogue No. 4028, p. 166, 170—175), to have exchanged the manors of Astwell, Fawcote, and Wappenham, co. Northampton (24 April, 11 Edward IV,) with Thos. Lovett, for the manors and towns of Great Oakley and Rushton, and other considerable estates in the parishes of Bulwick, Henswicke, Stanion, Newton, Weekly, and Little Oakley, in the same county. This exchange took place on the marriage of his son, John, with Margaret Lovett. The said John m., 2dly, Isabel, da. of Thos. Wake, of Blisworth, styled the great Wake, who was representative co. Northampton the greater part of his life: by this 2d marriage, he

he had issue Thomas Broke, who m. the da. of Giles Poulton, of Desborough: his son, Thomas Broke, m. Jane, heiress of Thos. Moore, of Bourton, co. Bucks, who was descended, through the Paulets, from Joan, wife of Gilbert de Clare, earl of Gloucester, the da. of Edward I.: his son, Arthur Broke, m. Catharine, da. of sir Edwd. Watson, of Rockingham, grand-da. of sir Edwd. Montague, of Boughton, chief-justice of England, which said Catharine was also descended from the above-named Joan, by her 2d husband, Ralph de Monthermer.

Sir Thomas Broke, son of Arthur, m. Judith Shugburgh, descended from Guy, earl of Warwick, and William the Conqueror. Edward Broke, his brother, m. the da. of sir Wm. Pelham, knt., and settled in Ireland, where he was muster-master-general. Arthur, son of sir Thomas, m. Dorothy, eldest da. of sir Thos. Neville, knt., of Holt, co. Leicester, descended from Neville, lord-high-admiral to William the Conqueror.

Thomas, son of Arthur, was member co. Northampton, 5th, 6th, and 7th Charles II., and m. Margt., da. of sir Jno. Walter, co. Oxford, knt., lord-chief-baron of the exchequer. Arthur, son of Thomas, m. Dorothy, da. and heiress of Wm. Wheelows, of Gayton, esq., who was gentleman of the privy chamber to Charles II. Arthur, his son, 22d in lineal descent from William, 1st mentioned, m. Mary, only surviving child of that very eminent divine, Zaccheus Isham, D.D., prebendary of St. Paul, &c., and had issue 2 das.; Mary, the eldest, and Dorothy, the wife of Thos.-Cecil Maunsell, of Thorpe Malsor, esq., who d. without issue; Mary, m. Richd. Supple, of Ahadoe, co. Cork, esq., and had issue 1 child, sir Richard-Brooke-de-Capell Brooke, present bart., who, on the death of his father in 1797, changed his name to Brooke, as directed by the will of his great uncle, Wheeler Brooke, esq., and at the same time obtained the royal license to reassume the name of De-Capell, the original paternal name of this family: his ancestor, Philip-de Capell, having gone over to Ireland with Robt. Fitzstephen in the reign of Henry II., and having been present with him at the conquest of the kingdom of Cork, who, for his services, granted to him and his heirs the estate of Ahadoe and other considerable property in that county, held by knight's service, and the payment of a pair of spurs annually at Easter (vide the grant in Birmingham Tower, and the copy of it in the college of arms, London). This estate, subject to the same quit-rent, has been in possession of the family to the present present time; and it appears by the Down survey in the castle of Dublin, to be described as the property of Wm. Supple, esq., English protestant.

Keating, in his "History of Ireland," p. 552, mentions the name of Supple, as one of those remaining who were descended from the English who first settled in Ireland. Edwd. Grimstone, sergeant-at-arms 1615, published a translation from the French of a work relative to Ireland, in which this family are mentioned as gentlemen of note at that period, and as descended from English ancestors. An ancient MS. in the British museum gives a list of English families who came into Ireland in the reign of Henry II., Richard I., and king John (Vide No. 4814. Plut. D.); and among these names occurs Jas. Chappell, otherwise Capell, otherwise Supple, baron.

21 May 1804.

Sir WILLIAM-GORDON-CUMING GORDON, Bart., born 20 July 1787, succeeded his father, Sir Alexander-Penrose, 10 Feb. 1806.

The family of Cuming is said to be descended from the ancient family of the Comines in France. Robert Cumine, earl of Northumberland, was employed against the rebels in Northumberland, as they were then termed, anno 1068. William Cumine was lord high chancellor of Scotland in the reign of king David I., who succeeded to the throne in 1124. It is agreed that the Cumines had large possessions in lands, and much greater power, than any other name in Scotland, from the reign of Malcolm III., styled Canmore, to that of king Robert Bruce. The Cumines, lords Badenoch, were undoubtedly chiefs of the whole clan. From them were descended the Cumines, earls of Buchan, earls of Monteith, &c. The Cumines of Altyr, descended from a younger son of the lords of Badenoch, appear now to be the representatives of that great and once flourishing family.

Alexander Cuming, of Altyr, (15th in descent from sir John Cuming, lord of Badenoch, who d. 1249), m. Anne, da. of John Wortley, esq., and had issue, Elizabeth, d. unm., and an only son, Alexander, m. Grace, da. of —— Penrose, esq., and niece and sole heiress of John Penrose, of Penrose, Cornwall, esq., and had issue, 1. sir Alexander, 1st bart.; 2. John-Penrose; 3. Edward; 4. George; 5. William; 6. James, d. young; 7. Jane, m. Jonathan Rashleigh, of Silverton, co. Devon, esq., and has issue; 8. Mary, m. Wm. Veale, co. Cornwall, esq., and has issue; and 9. Amelia, m. John Quick, of Newton-House, co. Devon, esq.

I. Sir ALEXANDER-PENROSE, eldest son, was created a baronet 12 May 1804, lieut.-col. of the Strathspey, or 1st regiment of fencible men, heir of entail, and representative of the late sir Wm. Gordon, of Gordonstoun, bart. He assumed the name and arms of Gordon, agreeable to the will of sir Wm. Gordon, bart., above named; he m. Helen, da. of sir Ludovick Grant, and sister of sir Jas. Grant, bart., and left issue, 1. George, d. 1800; 2. sir William, his successor; 3. Charles-Lennox, b. 20 Feb. 1790; 4. Margaret, b. 29 Oct. 1775, m. major Madden; 5. Helen, b. 23 April 1777,

Sir CHARLES SULLIVAN, bart., F.L.S. Captain, R.N., born June 8, 1791, succeeded his brother, sir Henry, 14 April 1814, married, 21 Nov. 1818, Jeane-Anne, only daughter of Robert Taylor, of Ember Court, co. Surrey, Esq; and has issue, a son, b. 13 Jan. 1820; a daughter, b. Jan. 1821; and another daughter, b. 11 March 1822.

The family of O'Sullivan were formerly possessed of large territory, co. Cork, over which they ruled as hereditary chieftains.

Upon the demise of Daniel O'Sullivan More (i. e. great), of Tomies, in 1754, the representation was continued, and the right to the name of O'Sullivan More was vested in a younger branch. Camden, remarking of the King's County, in Ireland, says, "and the noble English families of Warren, Herbert, Colbey, Moore, and Leicester; and the Irish ones of O'Connor, Mac Coglan, O'Mailey, Fox, and others, manfully maintain the lands left them by their ancestors;" and again speaking of Mayo, he observes, "this county is not so famous on account of its towns, as of its inhabitants, they being of Irish extraction, as the O'Mailies, Jais, Mac Vadines, &c." In this county, Mayo, there is a place called Ibh Maile, that is, O'Mailly's county; a sufficient evidence that the family has been of considerable importance in former times. This family and several others in England and Ireland, which now bear the names of De Burgh, Burgh, Bourke, Burke, Boroughs, Burrough, and Burroughs, derive their origin from Robert de Burghs, who came from Normandy with William the Conquerer, and in 1068 was created earl of Cornwall, and his brother, Odo de Burgho, bishop of Baieux, was created earl of Kent. One branch of Robert de Burgho's family went to Ireland in the reign of Henry II., and there gave rise to the noble families of Clanricarde, Mayo, and several others of distinction in that kingdom. Another branch, from which the present bart. is descended, settled in Lincolnshire, and was advanced to the dignity of the peerage by queen Elizabeth, who, on sending sir Thos. Burroughs, then a K.G., to Ireland, as lord-deputy, created him a peer. Sir JOHN DOYLE, created a Baronet as above, G.C.B. and K.C.; a General in the Army, Colonel 87th Regiment of Foot; born in 1750.

Sir John was originally intended for the study of the law: but, on the death of his father, purchased an Ensigncy in the 48th Regiment of Foot, and in 1775 exchanged into the 40th Regiment of Foot, on that Regiment being ordered to America; after his return from America, he was appointed Private Secretary to the Prince of Wales; in 1793 he raised a Regiment, the 87th (or Prince of Wales's Regiment), and was advanced, by the brevet promotions, to the rank of Colonel; in 1794 he accompanied the Earl of Moira on his Expedition to the Continent; on his return was placed at the head of the War Department in Ireland under the successive administrations of the Earls Fitzwilliam and Camden; he was appointed a Brigadier-General on the Staff in 1797; was sent to Gibraltar, and afterwards served in Egypt under Sir Ralph Abercrombie, K.B., and his successor, Lord Hutchinson: on his return to England, he was appointed Major-General on the Staff, and made Lieutenant-Governor of Guernsey; 1805 he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-General, and obtained his Majesty's permission to wear the Order of the Crescent.

The family of Doyle or D'Oyle, is said to have descended ed from that of O'Toole, lords and princes of Imale, co. Wicklow, which county was then divided between this powerful sept and that of the Byrnes. Tirlogh O'Toole and his brother Art petitioned king Henry VIII. to be restored to the territory of Fercullen, from which their ancestor had been expelled by the earls of Kildare, and promised, if taken into favour and restored, to become loyal subjects, and to hold their estates by knights' service, to be obedient to the laws, wear the English apparel, teach their children the English language; and, in short, would do all such services as were customary with the Walshes, Archbolds, and Harolds, and other English families of their neighbourhood in the march of Dublin, to do. The king granted their petition, and restored to Art the manor of Castle-Kevin; and the castle and manor of Powerscourt were granted to Tirlogh-Barnaby O'Toole, son and heir of Art, who joined with his brother-in-law, Pheah-M'Hugh O'Byrne, in the rebellion of Hugh, earl of Tyrone, forfeited this property, at present the most beautiful and best cultivated in Ireland, and it was granted to various persons; Powerscourt being given to —— Wingfield, esq., ancestor to the viscounts Powerscourt (in the Peerage of Ireland).

The Doyle branch of the O'Tooles was chiefly seated about Arklow, and spread into many wealthy and powerful families, as appears by records in the Ulster's office, in Dublin, some of which seated themselves co. Wexford, Carlow, and Kilkenny. From the Carlow branch of the Doyles, descended William Doyle, of Clomony, co. ABNEY-HASTINGS, of Willesley, co. Derby.
28 Feb. 1806.

Sir CHARLES ABNEY-HASTINGS, of Willesley, in co. Derby, born 1 Oct. 1792, succeeded his father, General Sir Charles, G.C.H. 30 Sept. 1823. Sir Charles, present and 2d Bart.; out of respect to the memory of his maternal grand-father, Thomas Abney, of Willesley, in co. of Derby, Esq., and as being the representative of the elder branch of the ancient family of Abney, of Willesley, obtained his Majesty's royal licence and authority that he and his descendants might take and use the sir-name, and bear the arms of Abney, in addition to his own, and that his brother, Frank Hastings, Esq., might likewise use the same.

The family of Abney is of great antiquity in co. Derby; they were seated at Abney in the Peak (from whence they take their name) about the time of the conquest. The 1st of the family that is mentioned as living at Willesley, is John Abbeney, or de Abeney, in 1318. The family of Wiveleslie (the ancient name of Willesley) was possessed of the lordship at a very early period. In the year 1160, Michael de Wiveleslie, was lord of the manor, and granted lands to John de Yngwereby then living at Willesley; Nicholas de Yngwereby, his son, m. Cecilia Wychard de Meysam, widow of Nicholas Wychard, and da. of sir Wm. de Meysam, from whom, and from the Wiveleslies he obtained further grants of land at Willesley. His son William, m. about 1290, Albreda de Wiveseleye, or Wivelislie, da. of Michael, and sister of Ado de Wiveseleye, and obtained the rest of the lands together with the lordship. They were succeeded by their son Nicholas, who m. Isabella, and was succeeded by William their son, who was succeeded by his only son William de Ingewardeby de Willesleye, who left 2 das., co-heirs of his estates; the eldest, about the year 1400, m. Jno. de Abney, or Abbeney, and brought into that family the manors of Willesley and Potlock, co. Derby; with lands in Packington, co. Leicester. The 2d da. was m. to Thos. Stokes, esq., of Tamworth. This John de Abney, on his m. took the arms of Ingewardeby, wardeby, viz. a demi-lion, rampant; he was the son of William, who was the son of John, the 1st mentioned as living at Willesley. They were succeeded by their son William de Abeney, lord of Willesley, who was succeeded by his son John, who d. in 1505. George, his son, m. Ellen da. of Wolseley of Wolseley, co. Stafford, esq., ancestor of the present bart of that name, and left 5 sons. From the 3d son Robert, is descended the 2d branch, or Abneys of Newton Burguland, now seated at Measham, co. Derby. George the eldest son, d., and was succeeded by his brother James, who m. Mary, da. and heir of Henry Milward, esq., of Dowbridge. George Abney, their son and successor, suffered much in his estate during the civil wars; he m. Margery, da. and co-heir of Michael Lowe, of Tymore, co. Stafford. He had 2 sisters, the eldest m. Sir Edwd. Bromley, baron of the Exchequer, and the 2d, Richd. Adderley, of Coton, esq. George, d. in 1645, aged 95, and was succeeded by his eldest son James, high sheriff of Derbyshire, 1655. He m. Jane, da. of Edwd. Mainwaring of Witmore, co. Stafford, esq., and deceased in 1693, in his 94th year, leaving issue by her, 3 sons, and 1 da. The eldest, George, d. before his father. Sir Edward his 2d son and successor, doctor of civil law, was a gentleman of high esteem in the co. Derby; for which he served the office of high sheriff, and was returned member for Leicester, in 2 successive parliaments. He had issue by his 2d wife, Judith, da. and co-heir of Peter Bar, merchant of London, 2 sons. Sir Edward's youngest and only surviving brother, Thomas, settled in London, and rose to the highest offices of the city. He was elected an alderman in 1693, and one of the sheriffs of London and Middlesex the same year, lord-mayor in the year 1700; and, subsequently one of the representatives in parliament for the city. These offices he filled with high honour to himself, during a period of great difficulty. By the energy of his conduct at the most critical period of his mayoralty, he promoted the quiet settlement of the crown of Great Britain in the protestant line; securing thereby the tranquillity of his country, and consulting the best interests of the state; the following year, himself and his elder brother sir Edward had the happiness of voting in parliament in favour of the act (for which his patriotic conduct in his high offices had materially paved the way) to establish more firmly the protestant succession to the throne. This act received the royal assent the day before the king d., by which means the crown was secured to that illustrious family, which now so gloriously wears it. Sir Thomas was knighted by king William, he was likewise the principal person concerned in founding the Bank of England; but what, perhaps, redounds as much as any thing to his credit and that of his lady, was their patronage and protection for a period of nearly 36 years of that excellent person Dr. Isaac Watts, at whose house he constantly resided, and where (to use the words of the celebrated Dr. Johnson) " with a constancy of friendship, and uniformity of conduct not often to be found, he was treated with all the kindness that friendship could prompt, and respect could dictate; a coalition in which the notions of patronage and dependence were overpowered by the perception of reciprocal benefits, that deserves most particular notice." Sir Thomas d. aged 83, father of the city of London, president of St. Thomas's hospital, and one of the directors of the bank of England. He left issue by his 2d wife, Mary Gunston, sister and co-heir of Thos. Gunston, lord of the manor of Stoke Newington, and an eminent merchant of London, 1 son and 3 das., who all d. without issue. Sir Edward Abney's only sister Abigail m. Ralph Cotton of Bellaport, co. Salop, esq., and had issue, Roland Cotton, of Etwall, co. Derby, who d., leaving issue, 2 sons and 3 das., the eldest da. m. Henry Ayre, of Rowther, co. Derby, esq., the 2d, Lynch Cotton, of Ryhall, co. Chester, esq., and the 3d, Robert, 6th earl of Ferrers, who was father of Robert, 7th and present earl, and of the hon. Washington Shirley. Sir Edward d. in 1631, aged 96; his eldest son and successor dying unm.: the estates descended to his 2d son, sir Thomas, who was brought up to the law; and after filling many high and important situations as a law officer of the crown, was nominated a judge of the court of common pleas, in which office he d. of the remarkable jail fever, that carried off most of the prisoners and many of the judges, 19 May 1750. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his only son Thomas (by Frances, da. of Joshua Burton, of Brackley, co. Northampton, esq.) b. 2 Jan. 1725 (the 11th in descent from John de Abney) m. Parnell Villiers, da. and co-heir of George Villiers of Hanbury, co. Stafford, esq. by Sarah, da. of Jno. Monk, esq., who derived his descent from the same family as the celebrated general Monk, duke of Albemarle. The Villierses of Hanburg, are a younger branch of the great family of that name once seated at Brookesby, co. Leicester, from whom descended the Villierses, earls of Jersey. Thomas Abney, esq., d. 1790, leaving issue by his wife, Parnell Villiers Villiers (who d. 1798, aged 80), an only da., Parnell, m. sir Charles Hastings, 1st bart.

From that period to the present, the family have lived in a substantial and honourable independence, intermarried with divers families of note, occasionally dividing itself into various heads and collateral branches. FRASER, of LEADCLUNE and MORAR, co. Inverness.

27 Nov. 1806.

Sir WILLIAM FRASER, Bart., succeeded his father, Sir William, 16 Feb. 1818.

The family distinguished by the surname of Fraser are of great antiquity in Scotland, although they are unquestionably of Celtic or Gaelic origin, and came from Provence and Languedoc at one era, and from Brittany and Normandy at another. French history mentions, that Julian de Berrie, on the 10th of April 916, presented Charles, king of France, at Au Bergne, near Bourbon, a basket of ripe strawberries, which were so much thought of, that he gave him him the surname of Frase, afterwards written Fraisau, and Fraizel, in France, by the great families of Guise and Froizeller, dukes of that kingdom, the marquess Montagnard, and many others, whose armorial bearings are distinguished by strawberries on their shield, in like manner as they are sculptured, and remain to this day on the cross of Peebles.

Sir George M'Kenzie, lord-advocate of Scotland, and other antiquaries, justly say, that one of this family came into Scotland with the embassy from Charlemagne in 807, and was created the 1st thane of Man, the lineal ancestor of Oliver Fraser, or Frizel, 13th thane of Man, who built Oliver Castle, in Tweed's Muir, and erected it into a constabulary, and is to this day first called over in the roll of Peebles.

Sir Simon Fraser having thrice saved the life and remounted king Robert de Brus, in the battle of Methven, had the 3 crowns quartered into his armorial bearings.

The loyalty, fidelity, and martial achievements acquired by the Frasers at Roslin, Inverness, Perth, Edinburgh, Bannockburn, &c., are well recorded in history, and led to the alliance with king Robert's sister, who was twice married; by which marriages, sir John Campbell, ancestor of Argyll, and sir Alexander, son of sir Simon Fraser, ancestor of Lovat, were uterine brothers, and related to all the nobility of both kingdoms, as appears by the grants and charters preserved and described by Mr. Robertson, in the register-office, Edinburgh, page 19, Register, No. 145, Charters of king Robert de Brus; "Marie, sponse Alexandri Fraser, militis sorori nostre dilecte, et Johanne Campbell, filio suo nepoti nostro, pro herangio et servitio, omnes terras et tenementa, que fuerunt, Davidis, Comiti Atholiæ, in comitatu Athole, que idem David Foris fecit."

In the reign of king Alexander III., sir Simon Fraser, son of sir Bernard Fraser, lineally descended from thane Oliver, was gifted with the lordship of Loveth (vulgo, Norvich), by charter, dated at Dunfermline, 1253, and appointed, with his brother, sir Francis Fraser, and William Fraser, archbishop of St. Andrew's, and lord-chancellor of Scotland, along with his cousin sir Richard Fraser, auditors in the competition for the crown of Scotland between Bruce and Baliol, 1291.

From lord Hugh Fraser, created by king James I. of Scotland, lord Fraser, of Loveth, 3 March 1426, descend lineally the lords Loveth, or Lovat; and from Alexander, 2d son to lord Hugh Fraser, of Lovat, descended Alexander Fraser, of Farraline, father of Hugh Fraser, of Leadclune, esq., called Hustan More, father of Hugh Fraser, called Hustan Ogg, father of William Fraser, esq., a 3d son, who had issue, by his 2d wife, of the family of Keith Marschall, sir William, 1st bart., as above mentioned, and an only da., Jane, m., 1763, to the hon. col. Archibald-Campbell Fraser, of Lovat (the 38th chief of the Frasers).

THOMPSON, of Hartsbourne, Manor-Place, co. Herts.
11 Dec. 1806.

Sir THOMAS-BOULDEN THOMPSON, Knt., Bart., G.C.B., born 28 Feb. 1768; an Admiral, and Treasurer of Greenwich

Greenwich Hospital, married 25 Feb. 1799, Anne, eldest daughter of Robert Raikes, of Gloucester, Esq., by whom, who was b. 17 Sept., 1771, he has issue, 1. Anne, b. 17 June, 1800; 2. Thomas Boulden, d. young; 3. Thomas-Raikes-Trigge, b. 1 April 1804; 4. Thomas-John, d. in 1807; and 5. a daughter, b. in Sept. 1810.

Sir Thomas entered into the R.N. in 1778; in Nov. 1790 he was made Post, and was afterwards employed, with the immortal Nelson and others, in the attack on Santa Cruz, in the island of Teneriffe; in which, notwithstanding it proved unsuccessful, an intrepidity was displayed by the officers and men that was never surpassed, and the gallant Nelson lost his right arm on the occasion. The share which Sir Thomas had in the Battle of the Nile was mentioned officially with the highest respect: the heroism of his character and the vigour of his genius were afterwards fully manifested in his subsequent engagement in the disabled Leander, though but of 50 guns, with the French ship, le Genereux, of 74; on which occasion he did not yield until he had given his foe a severe experiment of British prowess. On his return to England, after being exchanged, he received the honor of knighthood, 13 Feb., 1797, and a pension of £300. per annum: he also participitated in the victory of Copenhagen in 1801, in which he had the misfortune to lose a leg. Sir Thomas was created a Baronet as above, with, we believe, his pension increased from £300. to £500. per annum.

Richard Thompson of Hull, m. and had issue, Edward, Thompson, b. at Hull, 20 Nov. 1738, entered into the naval service; in 1756 he was sent to America, where he experienced many adventures, but not very successful ones; in 1759 he was in the Dorsetshire, when the British fleet, under the command of admiral lord Hawke, gained the glorious victory over Conflans. Being the intimate friend of the celebrated Charles Churchill, in the leisure of peace Mr. Thompson had opportunities of cultivating his favorite study of poetry, which contributed something to the slender income of a half-pay lieut. By the friendship of David Garrick, esq., he obtained a captain's commission, and was appointed to the command of the Hyæna, in which he had the good fortune to capture a French East-Indiaman; in 1785 he had the command of the Grampus, on board of which he d. on the coast of Africa in 1786. Sir DAVID SCOTT, Bart., succeeded his uncle, Sir James Sibbald, 17 Sept. 1819, agreeable to the limitation of the Patent.

It appears from sir Robert Sibbald's "History of Scotland," that the name of Sibbald is very ancient in North Britain: it appears from the same author, that Duncanus Sibbald was witness to the charter of Rogerus Comes de Winton, to Syerus de Seton, temp. Alexander II., in 1246; and in the same year Donatus Sibbald is witness to the charter of the same earl of Winton, to Adam de Seton, de Moritagio heredis alani de Fauside. Mattheus Sybbald is testis to several charters of Duncan, the last earl of Fife, of the Macduffs; and Thomas Sybald Miles is testis in several charters in the reign of king Robert II., particularly that writ of alienation of the earldom of Fyfe, by Isabella, Cometisa de Fyfe, to Robert Stewart, earl of Monteith, 1371; and a charter of the same king Robert to Thomas Sibbald de quinque Marcis, annui redditus de firmis burgi de Crail, from whom descended

SCOTT (late BATEMAN), of HARTINGTON-HALL, co. Derby. 15 Dec. 1806.

Sir FRANCIS-EDWARD SCOTT, born 25 Feb. 1824, inherited the title of baronet by virtue of the limitations in the patent granted to his maternal grandfather Sir Hugh Bateman, who d. 28 Jan. 1824.

The name of Bateman appears in the reign of Edward III., when William Bateman, bishop of Norwich (and founder of Trinity-Hall, Cambridge), was sent to Avignon to lay before the pope his claim to the crown of France; and Bartholomew Bateman, member for Norfolk, 1338, was his brother. The paternal ancestors of sir Hugh Bateman resided for several generations in the parish of Hartington, co. Derby, previous to Hugh Bateman, who was baptized there in 1554; whose da., Grace, b. at Hartington-Hall, in 1589, m. George Parker, esq., ancestor of the earls of Macclesfield; and Robert Bateman, b. at Hartington, and younger brother of the above Hugh, was chamberlain, and some time representative in parliament for the city of London, and was an eminent merchant there. He founded and endowed the divinity lectureship of Ashbourne, co. Derby, and, dying 1645, bequeathed lands in the counties of Essex, Dorset, and Denbigh, amongst his 4 sons; viz. 1. Robert, styled of Rotterdam, in Holland; 2. sir Anthony Bateman, M.P. for the city of London, 1664; 3. sir William Bateman, knt.; and 4. sir Thomas Bateman, created a baronet, 1664, and styled of How-Hall, co. Norfolk, from the lands which he had purchased in that county of sir Thomas Foote. The 3 last sons were aldermen of the city of London, and suffered considerable losses from the great fire in 1666, when the duke of York (amongst other efforts for the assistance of the public upon that melancholy occasion) exerted himself much to save sir Thomas Bateman's house, in Coleman-street, from the flames. 28 Sept. 1798, m. 24 Dec. 1814, sir Alexander Hood, bart. Sir Hugh d. 28 Jan. 1824, and his title, pursuant to the above-recited limitation, is inherited by his grandson,

JONES (late TYRWHITT), of Stanley-Hall, co. Salop.
3 Oct. 1808.

Sir THOMAS-JOHN-TYRWHITT JONES, Bart., born 12 July

12 July 1793, succeeded his father, Sir Thomas, 24 Nov. 1811, M.P. in the present Parliament for Bridgenorth; married June 1821, Elizabeth Walwyn, youngest daughter of the late John Macnamara, of the Island of St. Christopher, Esq.

The family of Tyrwhitt is of very ancient establishment in England, and has been much celebrated for the scientific knowledge and literary works of some of its later individuals.

Robert Tyrwhitt, in the reign of king Edward II., possessed the lordship of Kettleby, whose son, sir William Tyrwhitt, by the da. and heiress of —— Gravett, became father of sir Robert, and he of sir William; whose grandson, sir Robert, had issue, sir William, of Kettleby, who was buried in Lincoln cathedral 1522. Some of the individuals of this family were high sheriffs, co. York, 1435, and of Lincoln in 1481.

Thomas Tyrwhitt, son of the rev. Dr. Tyrwhitt (by the eldest da. of Edmund Gibson, lord bishop of London) pursued the study of the law, and was called to the bar at the commencement of the war, 1756; he accepted the office of deputy-secretary at war, under his friend, William, 2d visct. Barrington; 1762 he succeeded Jeremiah Dyson, esq. as principal clerk of the house of commons; but the constant fatigues and late hours of that office proved too much for his health; and at the close of the three years he resigned it to John Hatsell, esq., the person who at present so ably fills that arduous situation. He became F.R. and A.S.S., and d. 15 Aug. 1786, having been highly distinguished for his extraordinary share of classical learning and critical acumen, besides a knowledge of almost every European tongue. Mr. Tyrwhitt was deeply conversant in the learning of Greece and Rome, of which latter acquisition some valuable tracts are indubitable testimony: he was also thoroughly acquainted with the old English writers, and his critical efforts were zealously directed to restore the genuine text of Shakespeare.

The family of Jones is, doubtless, of ancient British origin; and wherever its possessors might at various periods have fixed themselves, still their primary connexions may be traced to some part or other of Wales. Under this supposition, the opportunity is here made use of in noticing the very celebrated sir William Jones, late chief-justice in Bengal; a connexion rather flattering than the contrary to the present family, even should it prove erroneous. The origin of sir William Jones's family, on the maternal side, has been traced to the ancient princes and chieftains of North Wales. It may be sufficient to observe, that the father of sir William was William Jones, the celebrated mathematician, born in Anglesea, 1675, who so eminently distinguished himself in the commencement of the last century, and was honoured with the friendship of the great earl of Hardwicke, sir Isaac Newton, the earl of Macclesfield, and many other distinguished persons. By his wife, Mary Knix, he had 3 children, the youngest of whom was the above sir William Jones, knt.; his father d. in 1749, of a disorder wholly incurable, a polypus of the heart.

I. Sir THOMAS-JONES, b. 1 Sept. 1765; and in 1790, in pursuance of the will of his cousin, sir Thomas Jones, of Stanley-hall, co. of Salop, knt., took the name and arms of Jones only, by the king's sign manual, created a bart. 3 Oct. 1808; m. 25 April 1791, Harriet-Rebecca, 4th da. of Edwd. Harriet-Emma, b. 16 Oct. 1797, m. 21 May 1818, John Mytton, of Halston, co. Salop, esq. d. 2 July 1820; 4. Charlotte, b. 7 Nov. 1799, m. 6 Sept. 1819, Jas. Brodshaw, esq.; 5. CORBET, of MORETON-CORBET, co. Salop; and LINSLADE, co. Bucks.

3 Oct. 1808.

Sir ANDREW CORBET, Bart., married, 23 April 1790, Mary,

Mary, eldest daughter of Thomas Taylor, of Lymme-Hall, co. Chester, Esq., and has issue, 1. Andrew-Vincent, b. 15 June 1800, married, 19 Sept. 1820, Rachel, eldest daughter of Colonel John Hill, of Hardwicke, and niece of Lord Hill; 2. Judith, b. 29 Jan. 1802; 3. Richard, b. 16 May 1804; 4. Robert, b. 2 Dec. 1805; and 5. Vincent-Roger, b. 8 Dec. 1808.

As to the antiquity of this family in England, it is well known that Corbeau, or Corbet, a noble Norman, came over with William the Conqueror, in whose reign he was one of the principal persons entrusted and employed under Roger, earl of Shrewsbury, in his co. of Salop, together with Robert and Roger, two of his sons, of whom Ordoricus Vitalis, who was a contemporary author, gives a character, that "the said earl was a prudent and moderate man, a great lover of equity, and of discreet and modest person;" and adds, "he being freely assisted by the wisdom and courage of the said Corbet, and his 2 sons, Robert and Roger (among other principal persons) was as glorious amongst the greatest nobles as any of them all, by keeping the Welsh in awe, and the whole province in peace."

Roger, eldest son, gave Wentelage to the Benedictine monks, of the great abbey in the east part of Shrewsbury, which was built there in 1083, and is styled by Rapin, and other writers, St. Bennet's, to which William and Everard, his sons, were consenting; at the same time Robert, his brother, bestowed on the monks of the said abbey, Nutenore, with the tithes of that town, and the tithes of Joche-Hulle, as also the town of Lochestone.

The above-named Robert had a son, Robert, lord of Alcester, co. Warwick, who d. without issue; and 2 das. Sandford styles him sir Robert, and says, that "Sybil, one of his das., had a son, Reginald, created baron of Castlecomb and earl of Cornwall; and from her, by Hen. Fitzherbert, chamberlain to Henry I., are descended the noble family of Herbert, earls of Pembroke, and other peers of this family;" and Philpot says, from the said "Sybil Corbet are descended the noble family of the Finches, earls of Winchilsea and Nottingham, &c., of the said family." From Alice, another da. of sir Robert, who m. Wm. Botreaux, of Boscastle, the noble family of the earls of Huntingdon are descended. The said Roger Corbet, brother of Robert, had issue, Wm. Corbet, of Wattlesborough and Caus-Castle; and Everard. Their cousin William (frequently styled Corbet) was a monk of the above mentioned abbey at Shrewsbury, afterwards prior of Chich, co. Essex, founded in 1120, by Richd. de Baums, bishop of London, from whence he was, in 1123, translated to the see of Canterbury, in which he continued till 1136, when he d. during his primacy. Part of his cathedral was burnt, which the archbishop repaired at his own expense, then invited the king, queen, David, king of Scots, and the nobility of both kingdoms, to the dedication, which he celebrated in their presence, 4 May 1130, being Rogation Sunday, with such solemnities, that the like was never equalled since the dedication of the Temple of Jerusalem by Solomon; in and at which dedication the church's name was changed from the church of the Holy Trinity to Christ's Church, which last name it continues to this day. The above-named William, eldest son of the said Roger Corbet, had also 2 sons, Thomas of Wattlesborough, and Robert of Caus.

Thomas, eldest son, who travelled into foreign countries, left his lands in custody of his brother, Robert of Caus. From the said Thomas, of Wattlesborough, are descended the present sir Andrew Corbet, of Moreton-Corbet, bart.; and sir Corbet Corbet, of Stoke and Adderly; and from Robert, of Caus, the Corbets of Leigh and Hope descended, also the Corbets of Newton, Leighton, Slindon, and Longnor. Sir Richard Corbet is in the register of those noblemen and gentlemen who accompanied king Richard I. to the siege of Acon; since which we find nineteen of this family in the rolls of those who served in the several battles, sieges, and actions following: viz. at Agincourt, Grafton, the sacking of Cadiz, and in the several wars against the Welsh, Scots, French, and others, in the reigns of Hen. III., Edw. I., Edw. II., Edw. III., Hen. V., Edw. IV., Hen. VII., and Hen. VIII. In 1192 sir Fulk Corbet was knighted: between which period and 1625, we find seventy-one knights of this family, of which Roger was a knight-banneret, 1344. Another Roger was knighted in the field beside Tewkesbury, 4 May ——. Robert was the seventh knight of the bath of fifty-seven knights made at the marriage of prince Arthur 1496. In 1231, upon complaint from Llewellin, prince of Albeth, against Thos. Corbet, and others, the king returns an answer, dated at Baldoff, Feb. 20, eodem anno, whereby he clears him of the said charge. The said Thomas was one of the baron marchers 1232. To the above-named named Thomas, among other baron-marchers, 1237, the king sent his precept, dated March 8, at Tewkesbury, to attend him at Oxford, upon Tuesday next after the octave of Easter, there to consult touching prince Llewellin's taking homage of the great men in Wales: the said Thomas also attended the king 1256 in his expedition into Wales, and had command to assist Hamon L'Estrange in preventing the incursions of the Welsh towards Montgomery; and 1257 to fit himself with horse and arms to attend the king at Chester, on Monday next after the feast of St. John the Baptist, thence to march against the Welsh, then in hostility. The said Thomas, who m. Isabel, da of Reginald, and sister of Roger Valletort, baron of Haberton, her brother giving with her, in free marriage, thirty-three knights' fees and a half belonging to the said barony; d. in 1291. From him descended Peter Corbet, who had summons forthwith to attend the king, to advise in parliament about the most important affairs of the realm. The said Peter was summoned by writ, dated Canterbury, 3 Oct. 1294, to attend the king's brother at Plymouth, upon All Saints' Day, in order for them to sail thence to carry on the wars in France.

15 July 1295, Peter Corbet was witness to an instrument in custody of the chamberlain of the exchequer, whereby several noblemen of Scotland renounce a confederacy between the king of France and themselves; and the said Peter was again, 1296, in the wars against France; 1298 he was found to be one of the next heirs of Roger Valletort, a great baron in the west: the same Peter, baron, &c. d. seised of the manor of Dennewestou, a member of the barony of Caus, &c., 1299, after having been summoned to parliament in 1294, 6, 8, and 9. From the aforesaid Peter descended Peter Corbet, another baron of the realm (Thomas d. during the lifetime of his father; and John, b. 1297), to whom, 1301, the king sent a summons with John, earl of Surrey, and others, concerning his army in Scotland: in 1304 Henry de Pomroy and Peter Corbet made seisin of the manor of Tremington, and the advowson of the church, together with the borough of Aib, the manor of Calistock, and the advowson of the church, and fifty, or fifty-four, knights' fees in Cornwall and Devonshire; which by writ, dated April 6, was sent to the judges; on which occasion was produced a grant from Roger Valletort of the premises, and of Sutton and Makaton to Richard, king of the Romans and earl of Cornwall, and to the heirs of his body, who dying without issue, the king entered upon his lands, against which they prayed relief, which complaint the judges remitted to the parliament, and the parliament remitted it to the judges. The said Peter gave his ancient seat of Newton, formerly called Brown-Castle, a garrison to Caus, and the township thereto belonging, to his nephew sir Robt. Corbet, for his great and good services: in 1326 writs were issued, dated at Ramsay, summoning persons to appear at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, the Monday after the Ascension, to attend the king's service in his expedition into Scotland; on which occasion Pryce Corbet, of Caus, was summoned among others: 2 Oct. 1336, William, earl of Northampton, was commissioned to treat with Philip, king of France, touching king Edward's right to that crown; on which occasion the said sir Robert Corbet, of Newton, going with the earl, had letters of protection, which protection was afterwards renewed by letters patent, dated at the Tower of London, 3 May 1337: 14 July 1344, the king summoned several to attend him with horse and arms at the feast of St. Laurence, and sail along with him into France; on which occasion a writ was directed to Hugh Courtney, earl of Devon, &c.; Roger Corbet, of the co. Salop, knight and banneret, &c.; and 5 Dec. 1362, Walter Corbet had letters of safe conduct to come to England, with two persons to attend him. In 1401 sir Robert Corbet was the king's chamberlain, and one of the proxies of lady Phillippa, the king's da., for her marriage with Errick, king of Denmark; the proxy was dated at the prince of Wales's castle, 14 May 1404; in 1235, Brickmarsh, co. Warwick, was the inheritance of Wm. Corbet, of Chaddesley-Corbet, co. of Worcester. Queen Elizabeth, in 1574, made sir Robt. Corbet her envoy to the king of Spain, &c.

In order to point out the descent of the families of Morton-Corbet, Stoke, and Adderly, the reader must revert to Thomas Corbet, eldest son of William Corbet, of Wattlesborough and Caus, who, while on his travels, left his lands in custody of his brother Robert, of Caus-Castle: this Robert left issue sir Roger, who, by his first wife, was father of sir Richard Corbet, knt., who m. Joan, da. and heiress of Bartholomew Twret, of Moreton, and had issue Richard, of Moreton, who gave Kinwilton to the monastery of Buldwas, father of sir Robert, who m. 2 wives; 1st, Matilda, da. of —— lord of Ideshill, in 1306; and 2dly, Catharine, da. of lord Strange, of Knocking: by his first wife he had issue sir Thomas Corbet, of Moreton, father of sir Robert, who d. in 1374. Sir Roger, his son, m. Margaret, da. and heiress of Edington, Sir Roger, eldest son, m. Anne, da. of Andrew, lord Windsor, and had issue sir Andrew Corbet, knt., who m. Anne, da. of sir Robt. Needham, knt., and had issue, 1. sir Robert, m. Anne, da. of Oliver, 1st lord St. John, of Bletsoe, and had Elizabeth, who m. sir Hen. Wallop, knt. (ancestor of the earls of Portsmouth), and Anne, m. Adolphus Cary, esq.; 2. sir Richard, K.B., m., but d. without issue; and 3. sir Vincent, who m. Frances, da. of Wm. Hamfreston, of Hamfreston, esq., and had issue sir Andrew Corbet, of Moreton-Corbet, knt., d. 1637, leaving issue by Elizabeth, da. of Wm. WOOD, of Gatton, co. Surrey.

3 Oct. 1808.

Sir MARK WOOD, created a Baronet, as above, holds the rank of Colonel in the East India Company's service, and is M.P. for Gatton. Sir Mark, on the decease of John Wood, Esq., late Governor and Captain-General of the Isle of Man, without issue male, became the heir male and representative of the ancient Woods of Largo, and chief of the name; and, 18 Aug. 1809, Sir Mark obtained a grant from the Lyon-Office, Edinburgh, of the arms granted to Sir William: married miss Dashwood, of co. Somerset, and has issue, Mark; and Rachael, m., 13 June 1816, William-Joseph Lockwood, of Dews-Hall, co. Essex, Esq.

There have been several families of this name in North Britain, from which country the present family derives its origin, the Woods of Colpny, co. Aberdeen; of Boynton, baronets; of Craig, of La go, of Grangehaugh, &c.; all of whom bore trees or boughs in their armorial bearings, in allusion to their ancient name, de Boreo, so written in various early evidences, writs, and records, particularly in a charter of king William to the town of Inverness, in the 2d year of his reign, and several charters of king Alexander II.; in the former of which we find the names of Willielmus de Boreo, cancellarius regis, and Hugo de Boreo, mentioned as witnesses; and in the latter, Thomas de Boreo, in the same capacity. The immediate ancestor of the branch of the Woods now under consideration was

Alexander Wood, of Perth, co. Fife, esq., a lineal descendant from the Woods of Largo, who d. 1778, leaving issue, 1. sir Mark, present bart.; 2. sir George, K.C.B., of Ottershaw Park, co. Surrey, col. in the Bengal infantry; 3. sir James, knt., entered at an early age into the R.N.; in Dec. 1806, he was appointed to assist in the expedition destined against Curaçoa, which surrendered to the British arms arms in Jan. 1807: he was second in command on this gallant enterprise; for his spirited conduct in which he received a gold medal and the honour of knighthood.

Andrew, who entered into the R.N. at the same time with his brother, sir James, and went to India some time subsequent to the peace in 1783. At the period when a war was expected with Spain, he was sent, by order of government, in the command, as a lieutenant of a small vessel, to the Streights of Sunda, for the purpose of informing thirty rich East India ships of the circumstance. Unfortunately his ship was wrecked at the entrance of the Streights, and with difficulty he and his crew escaped to the shore: impressed, however, with a strong sense of the importance of his mission, he took an open boat, and in defiance of the elements and of the Malays (who murdered more than half of his crew), he cruised in the Streights during three months, and succeeded in giving the necessary information to twenty-nine sail out of the thirty. Approving highly of his diligence and intrepidity, marquess Cornwallis, sir Archibald Campbell, and sir Wm. Meadows, K.B., concurred in recommending him for promotion. Anxious to reach England, Mr. Wood bought a boat of less than 5 tons, had her decked, and with 3 Lascars on board, embarked for the Cape of Good Hope, where he safely arrived after a passage of 63 days. Not finding any ship at the Cape that was proceeding to England, conceiving the most perilous part of his voyage to be over, he again embarked in his small boat with three foreign seamen; but, to the deep regret of all who knew him, he has never since been heard of. The 5th son was Thomas, who d. abroad, leaving a da. Elizabeth.

OUSELEY, of Claramont, co. Herts.

5 Oct. 1808.

Right Hon. Sir GORE OUSELEY, Bart., Knight of the Russian Order of St. Alexander Neuski, Knight of the Sun and Lion of Persia; born 24 June 1770; married 12 April 1806, Harriet-Georgiana, daughter of John Whitelocke, Esq., and has issue, 1. Mary-Jane, b. 28 March 1807; 2. Wellesley-Abbas, b. at Tabriz, (ancient Tauris), 3 Aug. 1813; and Alexandrine, b. at St. Petersburg, 6 Oct. 1814; the Ceremony of the Baptism was performed 30 Nov. in the Palace of the Empress Dowager of all the Russias, who was one of the Sponsors. Sir Gore was (10 March 1810) appointed Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at the Court of his Majesty the King of Persia.

The family of Ouseley, Ousley, and Owesley, according to the crude orthography of early times, is of high antiquity, and was formerly divided into many branches. The principal stock, or elder line, seem to have fixed themselves in Shropshire; and to have intermarried with several ancient houses, as the Brays, Conways, Staffords, Salisburys, &c. Richard Ouseley, the undoubted ancestor of the present bart., whom, in 1571, we find lord of the manor of Courtein-Hall, co. Northampton, m. 1st, the relict of sir Miles Partridge, and by her had no issue, and 2dly Magdalen, da. of John Wake, and by her (who survived him 9 years) had 12 children. This John was grandson of Roger Wake, of Blisworth, co. Northampton, who was distinguished by the appellation of "the great Wake;" and through this marriage the posterity of Richard Ousely descended from many of the most ancient and illustrious families in England. It appears from the will of Richard Ouseley, which was was proved in the prerogative court of Canterbury, that he received the manor of Courtein-Hall in gift from the crown; and he speaks of it in that document as a very inadequate reward for "50 years' service", probably in the army; he d. 10 July 1580.

John Ouseley, the eldest of his numerous issue, succeeded to his estates, and was knighted by James I., 23 July 1603. He embraced in early life the military profession, and is frequently mentioned by the more minute historians of that period as captain of 100 men. It appears from "Purchas's Pilgrim" (vol. i. p. 1925), that, in 1589, the earl of Essex, then commanding the English in Portugal, sent captain Ouseley (undoubtedly the gentleman of whom we are speaking), envoy to the emperor of Morocco: he m. Martha, da. of Bartholomew Tate, of Delapré Abbey, near Northampton, esq. (the present seat of Edward Bouverie, esq.,) and dying in the prime of life at the siege of Breda, where he had a command, was buried at Williamstadt.

Sir John was succeeded by his eldest son, Richard, who, about the year 1650, sold the manor of Courtein-Hall to sir William Jones, knt., who bequeathed it to William Wake, esq., from whom it passed, by inheritance, to sir William Wake, bart., the present possessor. Richard Ouseley m. Mary, da. of Mark Parker, of Olney, or Underwood, co. Bucks, esq.; and Richard, his son, was b. at Courtein-Hall, 1625, and dying without issue, was succeeded by his next brother, Jasper, who m. Sarah, da. of —— Chambers, of the kingdom of Ireland, and left a son, Jasper, b. in 1660, and d. 1755, having m. Dorothy, da. of the rev. Jas. Johnstone, of North Britain. William Ouseley, the son of this 2d Jasper, b. 1693, m., 1st, Elizabeth, da. of —— Morley, co. of Carmarthen, and had issue, William, b. 1727, who m. Priscilla, da. of Wm. Gray, esq., and by her had Elizabeth (who is now living), the relict of Robt. Wills, esq.; by his 2d marriage (7 Feb. 1739-40) with Margaret, da. of George Lee, co. York, esq., he had Ralph, father of the present bart., who m. Elizabeth, da. of Hen. Holland, of Limerick, esq., and dying 18 Feb. 1803, left issue, 1. sir William, LL.D., the eldest son, who was knighted under the viceroyalty of the marquess Cornwallis; author of several learned oriental works; and who, with every natural and acquired qualification to render him assistance, accompanied his brother, sir Gore, in his embassy to the court of Persia; m. 6 March 1796, Julia-Frances, da. of the late lieut.-col. John Irving, and has issue, William-Gore, b. 26 July 1797; Julia-

Frances, b. 18 June 1799; John-Ralph, b. 12 May 1801; Eliza-Martha, b. 28 May 1803; Amelia, b. 5 Jan. 1806; Richard, b. 29 June 1809; 2. sir Gore, present bart.; 3. Eliza, relict of the rev. Robt. Warren, by whom she has several sons and das.; one of whom, Caroline, m. 21 Aug. 1823, Richd.-Cowan, son of J. Chambers, of Lifford; and 4. Alice, unm.

I. Sir GORE, 2d son, created a bart. 3 Oct. 1808.

HOOD, of TIDLAKE, co. Surrey.

13 April 1809.

Sir ALEXANDER HOOD, Bart., succeeded his uncle Sir Samuel, 24 Dec. 1814; married, 3 Aug. 1815, Amelia-Anne, youngest daughter of Sir Hugh Bateman, Bart., and has issue a son and heir, b. 23 Oct. 1816; a daughter, b. 4 Feb. 1818, and another daughter, b. 16 Nov. 1820.

The first of this family on record is Alexander Hood, of Mosterton, co. Dorset, who m. Elizabeth, da. of the rev. Mr. Beach, and had issue, 1. Alexander; 2. Arthur, in holy orders, d. unm; 3. Samuel, in holy orders, father of the late lords Hood and Bridport; Alexander the eldest son, succeeded to the estate of Mosterton, having m. Anne Way, and had issue, Arthur, who sold Mosterton, and d. unm.; and Samuel Hood, of Kingsland, co. Dorset, esq., who m. Anne, da. of Jas. Bern, of Westbury, co. Wilts, esq., and had issue, 1. Arthur, who was unfortunately drowned in the Pomona sloop, which foundered in a hurricane on the Leeward Island station in 1775; 2. Alexander, capt. R.N., circumnavigated the globe with capt. Cook, and served many years with indefatigable zeal and great reputation, and was killed on board the Mars, 21 April 1798, at the close of a successful action with the French ship l'Hercule, a victory tha that will ever exalt the national glory of Great Britain, m. Elizabeth, da. of John Periam, of Butley Wooton, co. Somerset, and had issue by her (who survived him) an only son Alexander, the present bart.; and 3. Samuel, K.B., K.T.S., and K.F., anxious to pursue the paths of naval honour he entered at the age of 14 as midshipman on board the Courageux, then commanded by Samuel, the present visct. Hood. In this ship, and the Robust, commanded by the late visct. Bridport, K.B., he remained until 1779; having, in 1798, been present, in the latter ship, at the capture of the two French frigates, the Pallas and the Licorne; and in the same year shared in the memorable engagement between admi. Keppel and D'Orvilliers, when he had the honour of serving as aide-de-camp to the capt. of the Robust.

In 1780, Mr. Hood having removed to the Lively sloop, was present at the capture of la Duchesse de Chaitres, a French privateer, after a short action. At the latter end of this year, lord Hood having hoisted a rear-admi's. flag in the Barfleur, Mr. Hood accompanied him as acting lieut. and lieut. until the 31st of Jan. 1782 (when he was promoted to the rank of commander, and appointed to the Renard sloop) intermediately exerting himself in the battle with De Grasse, off Martinique, 29 April 1781; in that of the Chesapeake on the following 5th of September; and in the actions at St. Kitts on the 25th and 26th of Jan. Notwithstanding his recent appointment, as the Renard was only a convalescent ship, he was present at the actions of the 9th and 12th of April 1782; and on the 19th of the same month, at the capture of a French squadron in the Mona passage. During this year also he met with a very serious accident: when the Barfleur was lying in Port Royal harbour, in Jamaica, a fire having broken out in a merchantman not very distant, capt. Hood was actively employed in the hold in making some necessary clearance to enable the Barfleur to escape out of the reach of the flames, when a hawser, suddenly removed from the spot where he stood, materially injured one of his legs, the consequences of which he felt to his death.

From this period, in consequence of the peace, capt. Hood was placed in a state of inactivity, until 1785, when he was appointed to the Weazle sloop, and directed to survey the coasts and harbours on the Halifax station. For his vigilance and activity in this service he obtained a post captain's commission, and the command of the Thisbe frigate; in which he returned to England in 1789. In 1790 he was appointed to the Juno, and ordered to Jamaica: on this station, however, nothing particular occurred until the following year, when, at his personal risk, in a small boat, and in a violent hurricane, he had the gratification of rescuing three men from a wreck at sea. Perceiving some hesitation on the part of his sailors to dare the waves, he was the first to enter the boat, undauntedly exclaiming, "I never gave an order to a sailor in my life which I was not ready to undertake and execute myself."

For this gallant and humane exertion, the government of Jamaica remitted the sum of 100 guineas, for the purchase of a sword, to their agent in London; which, on capt. Hood's return to England, in 1791, was presented to him, accompanied by the most flattering testimonies. Capt. Hood enjoyed an interval of relaxation until 1793, when being reappointed to his old ship, the Juno, and ordered up the Mediterranean, he was very actively employed, and had a very narrow escape, in consequence of entering Toulon harbour after its evacuation by his noble relative. Never, perhaps, was greater presence of mind exhibited by a commander and his crew than in this imminent peril.

Early in the following year, capt. Hood was employed in the reduction of the island of Curaçoa, during which he superintended the exertions of the British seamen on shore, and rendered the greatest service in the attack on Bastia, and the capture of Calvi: on which latter occasion he served in l'Aigle frigate. Capt. Hood was next employed, in the same vessel, in the command of a small squadron in the Archipelago, for protecting the trade, and blockading a squadron of the enemy's frigates of equal force at Smyrna. For his exertions in effecting this important purposes, he received the thanks of the Levant company, and British factory at Smyrna, conveyed in the most handsome manner.

In 1796, capt. Hood was appointed to the Zealous, of 74 guns, in which, during that year, he was actively employed under sir John Jervis (now earl of St. Vincent, K.B., and K.T.S.), off Toulon; and by his spirited and judicious conduct in effecting the return of the British troops and seamen from their disastrous attack, he had the satisfaction to endear himself to that gallant officer, and to his country. In 1798, capt. Hood was employed in blockading the port of Rochefort; and afterwards despatched to reinforce the squadron of earl Nelson, previous to the battle of the Nile, in which capt. Hood bore a most prominent part, he being the

the first to push on against the enemy, and capturing le Guerrier in 12 minutes from the commencement of the fire of the Zealous, without the loss of a man, or the slightest injury. He next engaged alone the four French ships which escaped, until called off by signal, sustaining loss in the unequal conflict of only one man killed, and seven wounded. Capt. Hood was subsequently honoured with the thanks of both houses of parliament, and was presented with a sword by the city of London.

After the victory off Aboukir, admiral Nelson proceeded to Naples, and left captain Hood in the command of a squadron on the coast of Egypt: with this force he kept the port of Alexandria closely blockaded. He also contributed, in a material degree, to serve the interests of England by his amicable communications with all the pachas and governors under the grand seignior, and particularly with Jozza, the celebrated pacha of Acre. While on this station, he took and destroyed more than 30 sail of the enemy's transports; and was honoured by the grand seignior with a very valuable snuff-box.

In 1799, captain Hood joined lord Nelson at Palermo, and was employed in reducing the Sicilians to obedience and expelling the French out of the kingdom of Naples. At Salerno with only 40 marines belonging to the Zealous, captain Hood kept in check a force of 3,000 men, who were attacking that place: twice also he drove the French out of Salerno by the fire from the Zealous. Captain Hood was afterwards employed on shore at Naples, in taking charge of the castle of Nuovo, and kept the city perfectly quiet during the sieges of St. Elmo and of Capua. His Sicilian majesty acknowledged these services by presenting him with a valuable box, and at the same time conferring on him the rank of commander of the order of St. Ferdinand and of Merit.

In 1800, he was appointed to the Courageux, of 74 guns; in which he was, for some time, actively employed in the Channel fleet. The Courageux afterwards formed part of a detached squadron under sir John-Borlase Warren, K.B., at Ferrol and Vigo, until Jan. 1801, at which period captain Hood removed into the Venerable, another 74 gun ship.

After some intermediate services, he was in the action of the 6th July at Algesiras under sir James Saumarez. The failure of success in this battle arose entirely from the winds failing: the Venerable had 8 men killed and 25 wounded on this occasion. After this action, Linois, the French commander commander, was reinforced with 5 Spanish sail of the line. Notwithstanding the crippled state of the English ships, sir James Saumarez determined to follow up the enemy: he did so, and a glorious victory, in which captain Hood bore a distinguished part, was the consequence. The Venerable lost all her masts, and had 30 men killed and 100 wounded. Captain Hood had afterwards the satisfaction of receiving the particular thanks of the lords of the admiralty, in addition to the unanimous thanks of both houses of parliament, for his great and extraordinary exertions.

In 1802 he was appointed a joint commissioner of the Isle of Trinidad, and on the death of rear-admiral Totty, was appointed commander-in-chief on the Barbadoes and Leeward Island station. On the recommencement of hostilities, in conjunction with general Grenfield, he captured the islands of St. Lucia and Tobago, and totally destroyed the enemy's trade in those seas. He next, in conjunction with the same general, captured Demerara, Isequibo, and Berbice, and then reduced Surinam. He also took and destroyed an infinite number of the enemy's privateers and ships of war on the Leeward island station; and protected trade in all quarters, to the entire satisfaction of all parties. For these numerous and signal services he was appointed a knight of the military order of the Bath.

In 1805, sir Samuel Hood returned to England, having previously received the most gratifying addresses from the respective legislative assemblies, and accompanied by elegant services of plate, as presents from the Leeward islands and Barbadoes. After his return, sir Samuel was appointed a colonel of marines; and early in 1806 he received an appointment to the Centaur, under the orders of the earl of St. Vincent, who gave him the command of 7 sail of the line, and other vessels, to watch the enemy at Rochefort. After some months' perseverance in this service, he fell in with a squadron of the enemy, consisting of five large frigates and two corvettes, full of troops: in the action which ensued, sir Samuel was severely wounded, and was afterwards under the necessity of having his right arm amputated: he succeeded however in capturing four of the frigates, notwithstanding only three of his ships, the Centaur, Monarch, and Mars, were able to come up with the enemy. For his gallant conduct, and in consideration of the severe injury he had received, his majesty was pleased to order sir Samuel Hood a pension of 500*l.* per annum. Soon after this period sir Samuel Hood's professional services having ving acquired him a great degree of popularity, he had the honour of being returned as one of the members for the city of Westminster: and on 13 April 1809, he was created a baronet.

(23 June 1798) being then lieut.-col. 71st foot: 2 Nov. 1805, he became a lieut.-gen.; and in 1814 he attained the rank of a general. Sir David has distinguished himself on several important occasions. At Seringapatam he headed the storming party, which tore his metropolis from the hands of the perfidious Tippoo Sultaun. As commander-in-chief he captured the Cape of Good Hope: in Egypt his gallantry was such as to procure for him the order of the Bath (18 Aug. 1804), and the insignia of the order of the Crescent from the Ottoman Porte. At the bombardment of Copenhagen he was wounded in the shoulder and arm: and in the battle of Corunna he lost his arm immediately after the fall of the gallant sir John Moore, K.B.

SEYMOUR, of High-Mount, co. Cork; and of Friery-Park, co. Devon.

31 May 1809.

Sir MICHAEL SEYMOUR, Bart., born 8 Nov. 1768; married Jane, 3d daughter of Captain James Hawker, R.N., and has issue, 1. Jane-Ward, b. 26 Oct. 1798: 2. John-Hobart, b. 4 March 1800; 3. James, b. 26 July 1801; 4. Michael, b. 3 Dec. 1802; 5. Edward, b. 5 Oct. 1804; 6. Richard, b. 2 March 1806; 7. Frances-Anne, b. 14 Aug. 1807; and 8. Dorothea, b. 4 Sept. 1809.

Sir Michael entered R.N., and commenced his professional career in Nov. 1780, under the auspices of the Hon. Captain James Lutterell, brother of Henry, Earl of Carhampton: in Nov. 1790, he received his promotion as Lieutenant in the Magnificent; and in Earl Howe's memorable action, 1 June 1794, he was junior Lieutenant on board the Marlborough, commanded by the Hon. Admiral George Berkeley, (now sir Geo. Berkely, G.C.B.): in this action he was so severely wounded, that he suffered the loss of his left arm; and his sufferings were marked with peculiar severity.

In

In 1806, on Lord Barham's promotion to the office of First Lord of the Admiralty, he was appointed to the command of the Amethyst Frigate; this Frigate had been cruizing off l'Orient 14 weeks, when on the night of 10 Nov. 1808, the French Frigate, La Thetis, was discovered, which after a gallant resistance, was captured: which action, for gallantry, skill, and courage, has never been exceeded; and of which his Majesty was pleased to signify his approbation by presenting Captain Seymour with a Gold Medal; the Committee of the Patriotic Fund at Lloyd's-Coffee-House voted him One Hundred Guineas; the Mayor, Alderman, Sheriffs, &c. of Limerick, voted him the freedom of that City in a Silver Box, "for his very great gallantry and ability in the capture of La Thetis." The next instance of naval gallantry exhibited by Captain Seymour was the capture of Le Niemen French Frigate of 44 guns, on the 16th of April, 1809; the Niemen was laden with provisions and naval stores for the Isle of France, and had just sailed from Verdun Roads, when, in the forenoon of the 5th of April, she was discovered by the Amethyst, and closely pursued, but was lost sight of in the course of the evening; and at half past nine she crossed a vessel; but her extraordinary sailing prevented any encounter from taking place: from one to three in the morning of the 6th, the vessels having neared, the action was severe; after which the Enemy's main and mizen masts fell, and his fire was just silenced when the Arethusa appeared, and, on her firing, the Niemen immediately made a signal of having surrendered: the capture proved to be the same Frigate as had been observed on the preceding day, and which had been recommended to Captain Seymour's notice in Letters from the Board of Admiralty. The main and mizen masts of the Amethyst fell at the close of the action, and she had 8 men killed and 73 wounded; her foremast fell the next day, and she was left in tow of the Arethusa. 13 May 1809, he was created created a Baronet of Great Britain, for his gallantry in capturing two of the Enemy's Frigates of superior force.

John Seymour, rector of Palace, co. of Limerick, m. the youngest da. of William Hobart, of High-Mount, co. Cork, (descended from sir John Hobart, co. Wilts.), and had issue, 1. William-Hobart, d. 1797; 2. sir Michael, present bart.; 3. John, in holy orders; 4. Frances, d. 1805; 5. Richard, who fell nobly in March 1806, at the close of the action between the Amazon frigate, capt. Parker (of which he was the 1st lieut.), and the Belle Poule, French frigate.

Sir James commanded the Volunteers of his (Portsoken) Ward, in 1798 and 1803; in 1798 he was elected Alderman of the same Ward; in 1803 he served the office of sheriff, and it was greatly owing to his personal exertions that the peace of the County of Middlesex was preserved during the violent contest between Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., and Mr. Mainwaring, Jun., for the Representation of that County in Parliament: in 1805 he was elected to the Mayoralty: in this year the grand national funeral of the immortal Nelson was solemnized in St. Paul's Cathedral; and on this occasion the Lord Mayor had the singular honour and good fortune to obtain for his Fellow-Citizens the King's Warrant of Precedency within the walls of his jurisdiction over every other Subject of the Realm, however elevated his rank. The hospitality, splendour, and magnificence of the Mansion-House, during this period, were particularly distinguished: his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and all his royal brothers, and an unprecedented assemblage of high rank, character, and talent, of both sexes, graced the city with their presence at the Easter-festival: he is also said to have been the first Lord Mayor who procured a Library for the Chief Magistrate, by a vote of the Corporation expressly for the purpose. On the day previous to his quitting the civic Chair he was returned by the Livery to be one of their Representatives in Parliament for the City of London, when he polled 2275 votes; and at the next general Election, in the Spring of 1807, he had the honour to be returned a second time with 2853 votes.

HUNTER, of the City of London.

15 Dec. 1812.

Sir CLAUDIUS-STEPHEN HUNTER, Bart., elected, 1804, Alderman of London; born 24 Feb. 1774; married Penelope-Maria, only da. of John Free, a distinguished Merchant of London, and has issue, 1. John, b. 26 May 1798; 2. Maria, b. 20 Aug. 1800; 3. Thomas-Claude, b. 10 April 1804; and 4. Samuel, b. 8 Aug. 1806.

Sir Claudius was elected lord mayor of London, and the celebration of his inauguration as chief magistrate, on Saturday 9 Nov. 1811, was observed with much more than common brilliancy, in consequence of his royal highness the

the Duke of York honouring his lordship with his company; an honour that was never before conferred by any of the sons of his present majesty, except in the mayoralty of sir Brooke Watson, although the royal family have very frequently visited the several lord mayors at the Easter and other festivals at the Mansion-House.

The paternal ancestors of the present bart. were citizens and merchants of London, of considerable eminence, in the reign of Charles I., as appears from the family records in the college of heralds, and more particularly from the deed of settlement of estates after the fire of London; by which certain property in the city of London was assigned to sir Claudius's ancestors, and is now vested in Henry Hunter, of Beech-Hill, esq., his elder and only brother, lineally descended from Charles Hunter, esq., on whom the property was settled by that deed. John Hunter, son of Charles, having made a considerable addition to the fortune he inherited from his father, purchased the family estate of Beech-Hill, above mentioned, where himself and his descendants chiefly resided; and from that period of his retirement we do not find any of the family engaged in mercantile speculations.

Henry Hunter, of Beech-Hill, co. Berks, esq., a gentleman of the most polished education, and the most engaging manners, having received the rudiments of his learning at Eton school, which were matured by study in the university of Cambridge, as fellow-commoner of Trinity College, and finally perfected by the customary tour over the continent of Europe. He was called to the bar, and shortly after m. Mary, 3d da. of William Sloane, esq., great nephew of the celebrated sir Hans Sloane, bart., physician to queen Anne and king George I., and (by her who d. 19 May 1822) had issue, 1. Henry-Hunter of Beech-Hill; and 2. sir Claudius, who, being intended for the profession of the law, was entered a student of the Inner-Temple; but the prospects of success at the bar being but slight and uncertain, he qualified himself for the practical branch of the profession, by five years' service and tuition under Messrs. Beardsworth, Burley, and Moore, solicitors of great eminence in Lincoln's-Inn; and after one year's farther education, he commenced solicitor in Lincoln's Inn. While in the full enjoyment of the fair profits resulting from his professional engagements, he was, in Sept. 1804, solicited by many respectable citizens to become a magistrate of London, and was, in consequence, unanimously chosen alderman of the ward of Bassishaw. From this period, he relinquished the general management of his business to his partner, and only attended to such concerns as could be transacted in his own chamber.

I. Sir CLAUDIUS, the youngest son, was created a bart. 15 Dec. 1802.

BLANE,

BLANE, of Blanefield, co. Ayr; and Culverlands, co. Berks.

26 Dec. 1812.

Sir GILBERT BLANE, Bart., created, as above, M.D., one of the Physicians in Ordinary to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, F.R.S., Member of the Royal College of Physicians in London, Fellow of the Royal Societies of London and Edinburgh, a Proprietor of the Royal Institution, and a Member of the Imperial Academy of Sciences of St. Petersburg.

Sir Gilbert having employed ten years in the study of all the various branches of literature and science, as well as of medicine, taught at the University of Edinburgh, finished his professional education in London: he was particularly patronized by Principal Robertson, the celebrated Historian, and at his recommendation, and that of Dr. W. Hunter, he lived for some time with the Earl of Holdernesse, as Physician and Companion to that accomplished Nobleman, who had, in the course of his life, filled some of the most important posts in the State, the last of which was that of Governor to the Prince of Wales. Soon after the death of the Earl of Holdernesse, Sir Gilbert embarked in the Fleet which left England at the close of 1779, under the command of Sir George Rodney, K.B., who appointed him Physician to his Fleet immediately after his first Victory, on his arrival at Gibraltar: he proceeded in this character to the West Indies with that great Commander, and conducted the medical business of the Fleet there and in North America, till the Peace of 1783. In the course of that splendid and important service, he was present in six general engagements: the Fleet to which he was Physician received three times the unanimous thanks of both Houses of Parliament: and Sir George Rodney ascribed part of his success to those medical regulations to which the healthy state state of the Fleet was owing. On Sir Gilbert's return to England, at the Peace of 1783, all the Flag-Officers and Captains of the Fleet in which he had served, recommended him to his Majesty, who was graciously pleased to grant him a pension, as a testimony of his royal approbation. In 1795 he was appointed one of the Commissioners of Sick and wounded Seamen; and for the regulations which on his suggestions were adopted in this department, and for his writings, whereby the state of health of the Royal Navy was improved in an eminent degree, the Lords of the Admiralty testified their high sense of his merits to his Majesty's Privy Council (see Records of these Offices, 1805); upon which he received an additional reward for his services.

Sir Gilbert has also been employed from time to time by the Government as a Member of the Committee for framing Quarantine Regulations, in visiting the public Prisons of the Metropolis, and Depositaries for securing and transporting Convicts, with a view to the adoption of measures for the better preservation of their health, and checking contagion: in drawing up directions for the transportation of the Army from Egypt, so as to avoid the importation of pestilence from that country; in forming a scheme for the better conducting the medical service in India; and lastly, he was sent by the Cabinet Council to the Island of Walcheren in the autumn of 1809, on an important medical mission; upon the execution of which special service he received the public approbation of the Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, as stated in the parliamentary documents relating to the Expedition to the Scheldt. Sir Gilbert was also consulted by foreign nations on the subject of medical police; among others, by the Sovereigns of Russia and Prussia, by both of whom he was presented with gold medals, in token of their approbation; and the President of the United States of America (Mr. Adams) wrote him a letter of thanks, with his own hand, for his answer to a reference which had been made to him respecting the yellow fever.

fever. For these his long and faithful services, and for his professional attendance on his Royal Person and Family, The Prince Regent, in the name and behalf of his Majesty, was pleased to advance him to the dignity of a Baronet of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, as above.

Sir Gilbert. born at Blanefield, co. Ayr, 29 Aug. 1749 (O. S.); married, 11 July 1786, Elizabeth, only daughter of Abraham Gardiner, Merchant (by Mary Newman; who m., 2dly, William Gaskarth, Esq., brother of Julia, Countess of Suffolk), and has issue, of whom, 1. Gilbert-Gardner; 2. George-Rodney, Lieutenant of Engineers on the Bengal Establishment; he signalized himself in the war with the Rajah of Nepaul, and was wounded at the side of General Gellespie, who fell in storming the Fortress of Kalunga on the 31st of Oct. 1814; d. 18 May 1821; 3. Hugh-Seymour, Ensign in the 3d Regiment of Foot Guards; he served in the 2d Brigade of Foot Guards at the renowned Battle of Waterloo, fought on the 18th of June 1815. This Brigade was posted in the most exposed point of the conflict, and in the estimation of the Duke of Wellington was the most distinguished on that most memorable day; for the Rev. W. Noncrop, of Framlingham, in Suffolk, having, immediately after the battle, intimated to the Duke that it was his wish to settle an annuity of 10*l.* for life on the soldier who had given the greatest proof of courage and good conduct, his Grace adjudged it by referring to the above-mentioned Brigade, as the one which had performed the most signal service on that day, and desiring the Officers of it to select a man. This, they accordingly did, and pitched upon Sergeant Graham, one of their Non-Commissioned Officers. 4. Charles-Collins; are now alive: George-Brydges-Rodney, Henrietta-Mary, Catherine, Amelius-Spencer, and William-Gascarth, d. young; Louisa, unfortunately drowned in a piece of water on her father's estate, 24 Aug. 1813, aged 19.

The name of Blane is of great antiquity in Scotland, particularly ticularly in the western parts of it: from the great number of places bearing the name in various parts of the kingdom, as Strathblane, Dumblane, Kilblane, Auchinblane, Pitblane, &c. &c., it would appear to have been numerous and respectable at an early period, more particularly about the time of St. Blane, one of the most celebrated in the Scots' kalendar, who flourished in the 10th century, and founded the ecclesiastical establishment of Dumblane, which became one of the thirteen bishopricks of Scotland.

The immediate ancestor of this family was Thomas Blane, esq., a man of superior education, and who d. in opulent circumstances prior to 1630; he m. a da. of Andrew Ross, of Trowier, esq., by whom he had several sons; all of whom, from their letters and other writings still extant, appear to have received a very liberal education: of these sons, one was bred to the law, and the others embarked in mercantile pursuits, some of them having gone to Ireland, the West Indies, &c. Thomas and John resided at Girvan, where they carried on a successful trade, particularly with Ireland, and acquired a considerable property in land and houses; from one of the other sons descended gen. Patrick Blane, of Wigg, co. Wigtoun (see Records of Gen. Retours, 1665). Thomas Blane, of Girvan, esq., m. Helen Ross, of Chappeldonan, and was great-grandfather of the present bart: and John Blane, of the same place, m. Margaret, da. of —— Montgomerie, of Beoch, esq. (son of —— Montgomerie, of Bridgend, esq., a cadet of the noble family of Eglinton) by whom he had a son, William, who, by the da. of Stewart, of Fintilloch, descended from the noble family of Galloway, he had 2 sons, Archibald and Robert, and 2 das. Margaret and Elizabeth. Archibald, the eldest son, served as an officer in the army in America during the seven years' war, with distinguished reputation (see Narrative of an expedition against the Ohio Indians, Philadelphia, 1766); having m. miss Smith, of Reading, co. Berks, d. without issue; Robert Blane, the younger brother, very early in life entered the service of the East India company, in which he highly distinguished himself, and having attained the rank of lieut.-col., he returned to England, and d. unm. in 1798. He was present at the battle of Buxer, under sir Hector Munro, in 1764, and at the siege and battle of Cuddalore in 1782, where he was 3d in command at the head of a battalion of native troops, which he had formed and disciplined, and which he conducted by land from Bengal to the Carnatic, a route never never before attempted. The utmost exertions were called for at that crisis, to prevent the British power from being overwhelmed by Hyder Ali and the French. The following extract from the Annual Register of 1783, will sufficiently show in what estimation the officers and men of this detachment were held:—"Nothing could exceed the admirable behaviour of the troops, both European and Sepoys, in this action; it was equally singular and extraordinary that the 26th battalion of Bengal Sepoys, and another belonging to Madras, fought some of the oldest and best troops of France with the bayonet, and foiled them at that European weapon, which is considered as the most trying test of the firmness and excellence of soldiers." The writer of this was informed, by Governor Hastings, after his return from India, that lieut.-col. Blane was one of the field officers who had chiefly distinguished himself in leading the Asiatic troops on that day. Col. Toone, now a director of the East India company, who had formerly been a field-officer in India, where he knew him professionally, said, "that he never knew an officer of a more truly military spirit:" for this and other services, he was presented by the government of India with a valuable sword, with an inscription reciting the services for which this mark of distinction was conferred; since which he has taken for his crest, the sword of the figure of justice: he was also presented with the freedom of the city of Edinburgh in compliment to his distinguished military character. Col. Blane returned to England, and d. unm. 1798. Margaret and Elizabeth were both unm; the former d. 1810, and the latter is the only survivor of this branch of the Blane family. Thomas Blane, before mentioned, had issue, by Helen Ross, 2 sons, Thomas and Andrew. The former was infeft in the lands of Brunston-Poundland, and others, in the co. Ayr, and d. without issue; and Andrew intermarried with Jane, da. of Alexander Mac-kie, of Palgowan, esq. in the stewartry of Galloway, a family of great respectability, whose grandson, John-Ross Mac-kie, of Palgowan, esq., was representative in several parliaments for the stewartry of Galloway: her grandmother was Catherine Forrester, of the family of Corstorphin, and was created baroness Forrester, of Corstorphin, 1633, a woman of uncommon knowledge and sagacity. This lady was m. twice; 1st, to the above-named Alexander Mac-kie, by whom he had Alexander, who m. a daughter of sir James Dunbar, of Mochrum (vide Douglas's Peerage, p. 117); and of this marriage was

was born John Mac-kie, father of Jane Mac-kie, wife of Andrew Blane, as above mentioned; and 2dly, to sir James Dunbar, of Baldoon, whose eldest da. being a great heiress, was m. to lord Basil Hamilton, 6th son of the duke and duchess of Hamilton, father and mother of Mr. Basil Hamilton, father of Dunbar earl of Selkirk (see Douglas's Peerage, 1764, p. 615). By the above-named Jane Mac-kie he had 4 sons, viz. 1. Thomas, d. without issue; 2. Gilbert, of whom hereafter; 3. William, an officer of engineers, d. in Jamaica, 1740, without issue: he was an eminent scholar and mathematician, patronized by lord Cathcart, with whom he became acquainted at the court of Stanislaus, king of Poland, residing at Luneville, in Lorraine, and whom he attended in the expedition fitted out for the West Indies, under the command of his lordship, who unfortunately d. before the operations of the disastrous campaign of Carthagena had commenced; and 4. John, a merchant of Antigua, where he d. 1759, without issue.

Gilbert-Blane, 2d son of Andrew and Jane Mac-kie, m., 1st, Hannah, da. of —— Binning, of Dalvenan and Machrimore, esq., by whom he had a son and da. who d. infants; and 2dly, Agnes Macfadzen, a relation of his own, and descended from the family of Richard of Barskeming, by her mother, Catherine-Richard, who d. March 1778; had issue, viz. 1. Andrew, who, upon the death of his father, in June 1771, succeeded to the lands of Blanefield, and is now one of the writers to his majesty's signet, 2. James, a merchant in the West Indies, where he d. unm; 3. Thomas, some time of New York, but now of the city of London, merchant, m. Elizabeth Oliphant, by whom he has one son, Archibald, superintendant of police in the island of Mauritius, and 2 daughters, Elizabeth and Agnes; 4. sir Gilbert, present bart.; 5. William, of Grongar, co. Ayr, and of Winckfield-Park, co. Berks, m. Honoria, da. of Thomas Newnham, esq., and has issue 7 sons and 2 das.; 6. John, a merchant in the West Indies, d. unm; 7. York, descended, as it is stated, from Sir Kaye, an ancient Briton, one of the knights of the Round Table, temp. Arthur. This origin has been asserted by many respectable writers; but whatever credit may be due to their statements, the lineal descent is fully authenticated from Sir John Kaye, knt., who lived in the time of William the Conqueror, and m. the da. and heir heir of sir John Woodsome, of Woodsome, knt., by whom he had issue 2 sons, viz. sir John, his successor, and Robert, who settled in Lancashire, and m. the da. and heir of —— Crompton, of Crompton, esq., from whom descended the Kayes of that county.

RADCLIFFE (late PICKFORD), of Mines-Bridge-House, co. York.

2 Nov. 1813.

Sir WILLIAM RADCLIFFE, Bart., succeeded his father, Sir Joseph, 19 Feb. 1819, married, 29 Oct. 1819, Jacobina, youngest daughter of the late Captain John Macdonnell of Berwick upon Tweed, and has issue a daughter, b. 28 June 1823.

This family, denominated from the village of Radcliffe, anciently written Radclive, Radclyf, Radclyffe, &c. in the county of Lancaster, is of considerable antiquity, and derives its descent from Ivo Taylebois, by some authors styled earl of Anjou*, who m. 1st, Elfivat, da. of Ethelred, king of England, by whom he was also the patriarch of divers ancient, noble, and respectable families, such as the Lancas-

Cumberland; Lea, of Lea; and Westby, of Westby, co. Lancaster: and divers others, in addition to that of Radcliffe; but as the limits of this work will not suffer us to enter minutely into the detail of a family of this antiquity, extent, and national importance, we shall content ourselves with just pointing out the leading features thereof, and beg leave to refer our readers for further particulars to the various archives in the college of arms, and other great repositories of genealogical and biographical matter; the several ancient chronicles and histories of England; some of the local histories, particularly that of Whalley Abbey, and divers publications of the Peerage; as some members of this noble family have had the honour of holding a place in that elevated rank for a series of nearly 400 years until the present time, with some very trifling exceptions.

Henry de Radeclive, or, as some have it, Nicholas de Radclyffe, assumed his surname from his residence and manor of Radcliffe, which he held by military service of his brother, Wm. de Lancaster, baron of Kendale, which Henry occurs as a witness to the foundation-charter of the abbey of Burscough, co. Lancaster, temp. Henry II. His son, Wm. de Radcliffe, was sheriff of that county, temp. about 6 Richd. I., and was one of the knights who formed the grand feodary-inquest in that county in the 13th year of king John; he m. Cecilia de Montebegon, lady of Kirkland, by whom he acquired lands in Tottington: from him descended Richd. de Radclyffe, called Old Richard, to distinguish him from his son and grandson, both of that Christian name, living at the same time. He attended the victorious monarch, Edwd. I., in his wars of Scotland, who granted him his royal charter, bearing date at Striveling, 23 July, in the 31st year of his reign, free warren in all his demesne lands of Radcliffe and Querendon: he had issue several sons and das.: Robert, the eldest son was ancestor of the Radclyffes, of Smithills and Chaddeaton, both knightly families in the said county; and Radcliffe, co. Devon. His 3d son, sir John Radclyffe, of Ordshall, co. Lancaster, knt., served Edwd. III. in his wars in France, particularly at Caen, Cressy, and Calais, and was progenitor of that knightly and distinguished military branch of the family which continued at Ordshall until the reign of Charles II., the Radclyffes of Foxdenton, in the said county: Radclyffes of Mellor, co. Derby, &c.

William Radclyffe of Radcliffe-Tower, called the Great William, 2d son of Old Richard, to whom his nephew, Ralph, eldest son and heir of Robert, gave the Tower and manor of Radcliffe, m., temp. Edward I., Margery, one of the two das. and co-heirs of Gilbert de Culcheth, by whom he had issue, amongst other sons (and 6 das., all of whom married), William Radclyffe, of Longfield, co. York, in right of his 1st wife, and was ancestor of the Radclyffes, of Todmenden, in the said county.

Richard Radclyffe, of Radclyffe-Tower, and of Clithero, temp. 14 Edward III., in right of his wife, Isabel, da. and heir of —— Piessington, of Wymersley, in the said county, had issue, among other sons and das., Thomas Radcliffe, of Wymersley and of Clithero, one of the esquires of John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, named in his will, whose eldest son, sir Richard, was summoned to parliament by the title of chevalier (7 Henry IV.); and accompanied Henry V. into France with 3 men at arms and 9 archers: and was with that prince in his great victories of Agincourt and Calais; and was ancestor of the knightly branches of Radclyffes, of Wymersley, which terminated in Anne, only sister and heir of William Radclyffe, esq., m. sir Gilbert Gerrard, knt., attorney-gen. and master of the rolls in the reign of queen Elizabeth.

Radclyffes, of Tunstall, co. Durham: Radclyffes, of Mulgrave-Castle, co. York, who, by marriage of the heir of the ancient family of Bygod, became heirs to a moiety of the barony of Mauley; Radclyffes, of Hewick; and Radclyffe, of Giggleswick; both co. York; from which last branched those of Chapell, co. Essex: from a 3d son of the said Thomas Radclyffe, of Wymersley, also sprang a very respectable branch seated at Manchester, which became extinct in the reign of Charles II. The 2d son of the said Thomas was sir Nicholas Radclyffe, of Derwentwater-Castle, co. Cumberland, knt., in right of his marriage (temp. 5 Henry V.) with Elizab., only da. and heir of sir Jno. de Derwentwater, knt., lord of Derwentwater, aforesaid, Ormshead Vesey, co. Westmoreland, &c., by whom he became founder of the noble and distinguished loyal race of the Radclyffes, of Derwentwater, aforesaid, who afterwards, by marriage with the da. and sole heir of Jno. Cartington, of Cartington-Tower, co. Northumberland, being possessed of divers considerable estates in that county and in the county of Durham, ham, from which the fair and beautiful estate and ancient baronial mansion of Devilstone, commonly called Dilstone, was selected as the chief residence of this line of the family, from which descended (besides divers junior branches yet existing in the counties of York, Cumberland, Northumberland, &c.) the late earls of Derwentwater and earls of Newburgh, the last of whom, Anthony-James Radclyffe, was the last heir male descended of the body of sir Francis Radclyffe, bart., the 1st earl of Derwentwater; he m., 1789, Anne, only sister of sir Thos. Webb, bart., and great niece of Anne Webb, wife of James Radclyffe, the unfortunate 3d earl of Derwentwater, great uncle of the said earl of Newburgh, and d. without issue, 28 Nov. 1814, leaving his amiable widowed countess, and his numerous friends, to mourn, deservedly, his loss; and his earldom to be contended for between the prince Giustiniani, of Rome, great grandson and elder co-heir of the lady Charlotte-Maria Livingston, in her own right countess of Newburgh; and Francis Eyre, of Hassop, co. Derby, esq., her grandson and youngest co-heir.

William Radclyffe, of Radclyffe-Tower, eldest son of Richard Radclyffe and Isabel Plessington, aforesaid, m. Susannah, da. of Robt. Leigh, of Adlington, co. Chester, and by her had, amongst other children, James Radclyffe, of Radclyffe-Tower, esq., his eldest son and heir, who obtained of Henry IV., in the 11th year of his reign, his royal license to rebuild his tower of Radcliffe, and to enclose his manor of Radcliffe with a wall embattled, &c., who, by Margaret, or Joan, da. of sir Jno. Tempeste, knt., had issue, 6 sons: 1. Richard (of whom hereafter); 2. sir John Radclyffe, of Attilborough, co. Norfolk, knight-banneret, and K.G., elect, called the good sir John, a highly distinguished chieftain in the wars of France in the reigns of Henry V. and Henry VI., and by Cecilia, his wife, da. of sir Thos. Mortimer, of Attilborough, knt., and co-heir of her grandfather, sir Robt. Mortimer, knt., had, amongst other issue, sir John Radclyffe, knight-banneret and K.G.; and for his highly distinguished military services in France was created earl of Longueville for the term of his life; and by Catherine, his wife, da. and co-heir of Edward lord Burnell, through whom came the baronies of Burnell and Bottetourt to his posterity, he had one da. and several sons, whereof sir John Radclyffe, knt., his eldest son and heir, commonly called lord Fitzwalter, in right of Elizabeth, his wife, sole daughter and heir of Walter, lord Fitzwalter, through whom accrued accrued the baronies of Fitzwalter, of Wodeham, and Lucy, of Egremont; and by her was the progenitor of the most eminent branch of this extensive noble family, which became earls of Sussex, viscounts and barons Fitzwalter, barons Lucy of Egremont, Burnell and Bottetourt; and for a great series of years enjoying the most elevated offices in the state, terminated in Edward Radclyffe, the 6th earl of Sussex, who d. about 1641 without issue, leaving his four sisters his co-heirs; 3. Henry Radclyffe, brother of the good sir John, was seated at Farmsden, co. Suffolk, in right of his 2d wife, the relict of Thomas lord Morley, whose sole da. and heir, Margaret, m. sir Geoffrey Radclyffe, knt., eldest son and heir of the said Henry by a former wife, by which Margaret accrued the ancient barony of Morley; which, however, does not appear to have been borne by this line of Radclyffe, which terminated as to the heirs male 1797; 4. Peter; 5. William; 6. Roger.

Richard Radclyffe, of Radclyffe-Tower, esq., eldest son and heir, was justice of the peace t. my. Henry V., high sheriff of Lancaster in the 9th year of that reign, and knight of the shire in parliament, 3 Henry VI., whose eldest son, James Radclyffe, of Radclyffe-Tower, esq., amongst divers other children had issue, John Radclyffe, esq., his eldest son and heir, from whom the latter Radclyffes of the Tower descended; the last of whom, John Radclyffe, esq., dying unm., 9 Henry VIII., left his four sisters, his co-heirs-general: but the ancient inheritance of Radclyffe-Tower passed over by entail to Robert Radclyffe, viscount Fitzwalter, afterwards earl of Sussex, K.G., lord high chamberlain, &c.; James Radclyffe, of Langley, co. Lancaster, esq., 2d son of the last-mentioned James, purchased that manor of Thos. Langley, 6 Edward IV. and 7 Henry VII., settled the same on his son, Owen Radclyffe, in whose posterity it long continued. Edmund Radclyffe, of Langley, esq., 2d son, some time of Foxdenton, aforesaid, in right of his 2d wife, Margery, widow and relict of William Radclyffe, of the same place, deceased, succeeded his brother, Owen, m., 1st, Anne, da. of Walter Williams, of London, widow of Richd. Pound, of Beamonds, co. Hants, esq., by whom he had, amongst divers other issue, Henry Radclyffe, of Langley, esq., eldest son and heir, aged 22 years at his father's death (2 James I.), who m. Elizab., da. of Robt. Kaye, of Wakefield, co. York, gent., by whom, beside his eldest son and heir (who continued the line at Langley) and other children, he had issue, Edmund Radcliffe, of Oldham, co. Lancaster, gent., his 3d son, who, by Catherine, his wife, had issue, 1. Robert; 2. Joshua; 3. William; which William was admitted scholar at Brazenose-College, Oxford: he was afterwards minister of Thorpe-Salvin, where several of his children were born; and 40 years rector of Aston and Dennington, co. York. Of his numerous family by Mary, his wife, da. of Abraham Beaumont, of Meltham, and heir of her brother Geo. Beaumont, a younger branch of the ancient family of Beaumont, of Whitley Beaumont, and of Crosland, in the same county. William Radclyffe, his 3d son, settled himself at Milnes-Bridge-House, aforesaid, in right of Elizabeth, his wife, the relict of Jno. Dawson, some time of the same place, by whom he had issue, 1. William; 2. Charles; 3. Mary; 4. Sarah; and 5. Catherine: whereof Sarah and Catherine d. young. William Radclyffe, of Milnes-Bridge-House, esq., eldest son and heir, was lieut.-col. of the West York militia, and one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the West Riding of Yorkshire, and d. unm., 26 Sept. 1795, aged 85 years, having devised his estates unto his nephew, the present sir Joseph Radclyffe, bart.; Charles Radcliffe, of the city of York, some time of Heath, near Wakefield, esq., 2d son, left by Francina, his wife, da. and co-heir of Richd. Town, of York, M.D., 3 das., Frances, Elizabeth, and Charlotte, his co-heirs, all of whom married and have issue. Mary, only surviving da., m. Joseph Pickford, of Alt-Hill, in the parish of Ashton-Underline, co. Lancaster, descended of a very ancient family, long resident at Macclesfield, co. Chester, who intermarried with the Morewoods, of Oakes, co. Derby, and other highly respectable families, by whom she had issue, 1. Joseph; 2. William-Pickford, some time a cornet in the 16th regiment of light dragoons, d. unm. at Dieppe, in in France, 3 July 1769, aged 23 years; and 3. Mary, b. 26 Jan. 1740, d. 27 April 1754.

Joseph Pickford, now sir Joseph Radclyffe, bart., eldest son and heir, b. 8 May 1744, some time resident, in right of his 1st wife, at Royston, aforesaid; and in 1795 succeeded his maternal uncle, col. William Radcliffe, in his residence and estates at Milnes-Bridge, and elsewhere, co. York; and in compliance with a clause contained in the last will and testament of the said uncle, took the surname and arms of Radcliffe only, by virtue of the king's royal sign manual bearing date 19 Dec. in the same year. He has, for several years past, been a most loyal and active magistrate, being one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the counties of Lancaster and Chester, the county of Derby, and the West Riding of Yorkshire, and deputy-lieut. for the said West Riding: in which character of magistrate he so highly distinguished himself by his determined resolution to discharge the arduous duties of his situation, in defiance of all the dangers that threatened him (which indeed were truly alarming), as to induce such a general interest in his favour, as to call for some eminent mark of the royal favour to be conferred on him; which probably will be best shown by the correspondence which took place between the truly patriotic and accomplished noble lord-lieut. of the West Riding and his majesty's ministers on this occasion, and became the foundation upon which the structure of this baronetcy was erected.

Milton, 15 Dec. 1812.

DEAR SIR,

Nothing can be so honourable to an individual as when the public voice calls for some mark of public consideration being bestowed upon him: I have reason for thinking that the disturbed parts of the clothing district feel so strongly impressed with a sense of your indefatigable and unremitted exertions as a magistrate, the risks and dangers you have, and are now braving, with undaunted fortitude, in the service of the country, for the discovery of the disturbers of its tranquillity, that it is the earnest wish of the most respectable gentlemen that an honourable mark of the royal approbation should be conferred upon you; such an one as is suitable to the independent fortune you possess, and the high consideration you enjoy among your neighbours. Allow me to ask, would a baronetage be acceptable? And I must go farther, and still put another question: Would it be be acceptable to you to receive it on the recommendation, and at the solicitation, of his majesty's lieut., stating the meritorious services (so ample a field for description) as the ground on which he makes his request? I feel the necessity of being explicit, because circumstanced as I am with the administration, I can ask, as an individual, no favour; nor can I assume that you would receive one at my hands but as an officer of the crown. I feel myself justly entitled to recommend, for public reward, those who, in the department committed to my superintendance and care, render indisputable and essential service on emergencies of the most trying and alarming nature. I have but one word to add, which is to assure you, that it will be most gratifying to me to receive your permission to proceed in this business: being, with sincere esteem,

Very truly yours,

Joseph Radcliffe, esq. WENTWORTH FITZWILLIAM.

SIR, Whitehall, 18 Sept. 1813.

I have the honour of communicating to you the gracious intention of his royal highness the prince regent forthwith to confer upon you the dignity of a baronet of the united kingdom. It is with great satisfaction that I convey to you such a testimony of the opinion entertained by his royal highness of that loyal, zealous, and intrepid conduct which you have invariably displayed at a period when the West Riding of the county of York presented a disgraceful scene of outrage and plunder; and by which, in the discharge of your duty as a magistrate, you contributed most materially to re-establish, in that quarter, tranquillity and obedience to the laws, and to restore security to the lives and property of his majesty's subjects.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your most obedient and faithful servant,

Joseph Radcliffe, esq. SIDMOUTH.

Wentworth, 22 Sept. 1813.

DEAR SIR,

This morning's post brought a letter from lord Sidmouth to announce the pleasing communication of the regent's intention to confer on you the dignity of a baronetage, "in consideration of your exemplary, useful exertions as a magistrate in the West Riding at a period of the utmost difficulty, alarm, and danger." Though lord Sidmouth says says in his letter that he shall make the communication to you, I cannot refrain from troubling you with these few lines, to express how truly I consider the dignity to have been earned by the service performed; how much I think it for the public interest necessary that exertions of the nature should not pass unnoticed by government; but that, on the other hand, they ought to be held up, as in this instance they now are, as examples for similar exertions in similar emergencies; and, lastly, to add, that a measure more acceptable to the West Riding could not have been adopted than this acknowledgment (so it will be considered) on the part of government of the eminent service rendered by your exemplary firmness and exertions.

I am, dear sir,
Most truly yours,
WENTWORTH FITZWILLIAM.

Joseph Radcliffe, Esq.

I. Sir JOSEPH, created a bart. 2 Nov. 1813, m., 1st, 3 March 1763, Catharine, da. of Thos. Percival, of Royston, co. Sir Joseph was one of the few remaining examples of old English English hospitality, and lived in the respect, esteem, and friendship of the neighbouring nobility and gentry, and the love of his numerous tenantry; in him were blended all the virtues that adorn the character of man in public and private life: no less distinguished by the most amiable affections of the heart, than a stern hostility to the slightest deviation from truth and plain dealing; he was equally zealous and intrepid in the cause of loyalty and social order, having, at the imminent hazard of his life, and the destruction of his property, rendered the most essential service to the state, by his prompt exertions as a magistrate during a period of local insubordination, danger, and alarm, in the year 1812. The sovereign acknowledged his merit by creating him a baronet, with the singular favour of a gratuitous patent. Sir Joseph d. 19 Feb. 1819, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HAMILTON, of Woodbrook, co. Tyrone.
6 May 1815.

Sir JOHN HAMILTON, Bart., Lieutenant-General of his Majesty's Forces, Colonel of the 2d Ceylon Regiment, Governor of Duncannon Fort, Knight Grand Cross of the Portuguese Military Order of the Tower and Sword, was created a Baronet of the United Kingdom, as above; married Emily-Sophia, daughter of George-Paul Monke, Esq., by the Lady Araminta Beresford, daughter of Marcus, Earl of Tyrone, and sister of George, Marquess of Waterford, and has issue one son, James-John Hamilton.

Sir John Hamilton is a lineal descendant of the Abercorn branch of the truly ancient and noble family of Hamilton, which has in various branches been ennobled in the peerage of the three kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

James, earl of Arran in Scotland, and duke of Chatelherault, in France, lawful grandson to Mary, the sister of king James III., of Scotland, had three sons, whereof the eldest died without issue; from John, the 2d, the present duke of Hamilton and Brandon is descended; and Claud, lord Paisley, the 3d son, was the lineal ancestor of the present marquess of Abercorn, and of sir John Hamilton. His second son, Claud, having settled in Ireland about 1618, m. the da. and heir of the Hamiltons of Manor-Elieston, in the co. of Tyrone, and left issue, sir Wm. Hamilton, of Manor-Elieston, who, by the lady Beatrix Campbell, his 2d wife, was father of Claud Hamilton, of Montaloney, in the said county of Tyrone, who was the grandfather of James Hamilton, of Woodbrook and Strabane, esq., who m. Elinor, the sister of Andrew-Thomas Stewart, earl of Castlestewart, in Ireland, and by her had issue the present baronet, Sir John Hamilton, who early in life embraced the profession of arms, and signalized himself in the East and West Indies, on many important occasions, particularly at the escalade of the fortress of Gualiar, the storming of the strong forts of Lahar and Bangalore, and in the several actions in the Mysore country in 1791 and 1792. In 1809 he was removed from the British to the Portuguese staff, and appointed inspector-general of discipline. In the recent arduous contest in Spain and Portugal, the conduct of sir John Hamilton has been conspicuous, and his defence of the town and castle of Alba de Tormes, on the 10th and 11th November, 1812 (when with 1500 men he succeeded in repulsing more than 15,000 of the enemy under marshal Soult, aided by 20 pieces of artillery), will ever be remembered to his honour. In testimony of his approbation of his eminent services, the prince regent of Portugal conferred upon the general the insignia of a knight commander of the order of the tower and sword, and subsequently, the king of Portugal, that of the grand cross of that order: nor have the merits of this officer been allowed to pass unrewarded by his own sovereign,—he has been not only raised to the dignity of a baronet, but has also received from the prince regent his majesty's royal permission, dated 20th April 1815, that he and his descendants may bear an augmentation to his arms, and an additional crest, allusive to his defence of Alba de Tormes.

CAMPBELL

CAMPBELL, of Gartsford, co. Ross.
6 May 1815.

Sir ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, Bart., K.C.B., a Lieutenant-General in the Army, Colonel of the 80th Regiment, lately Commander of the Forces at the Isles of France and Bourbon; knighted as proxy for the Duke of Wellington, at an installation of the Bath, in 1812, and created a Baronet the 6th May 1815; married, 1st, Olympia-Elizabeth Morshead, sister of Sir John Morshead, Bart., of Fenwick-Park, Cornwall, and by her had issue, 1. John Morshead, a Lieutenant in the 74th Regiment, slain at the battle of Assaye, in the East Indies; 2. Olympia, m. Alexander Cockburn, Banker, Madras, deceased, left issue, Alexander-Thomas Cockburn; 3. Allan-William, Lieutenant-Colonel in the British and Portuguese Services, and Major in the 74th Regiment, mortally wounded in the battle of the Pyrenees, 28th July 1813, in charging the enemy at the head of the 4th Portuguese Regiment of Infantry; 4. Isabella-Charlotta, m. Sir John Malcolm, K.C.B., and L.S., and has issue, Margaret, George, Charlotte, Ann, Amelia, and Catherine; 5. Amelia-Mary-Harriet, m. John-Macdonald Kinniar, Esq., an Officer in the East India Company's Military Service, and Town-Major of Fort St. George; m., 2dly, Elizabeth-Anne, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Pemberton, and niece to Major-General Sir Charles Wale, K.C.B., of Shelford, co. Cambridge, by whom he has had issue, 1. Arthur-Wellesley-Ingers, d. an infant; 2. Flora-Elizabeth.

Sir Alexander Campbell first entered the army in the year 1776, as an ensign in the 1st battalion royal Scots; was promoted to lieutenant in 1778; captain in 1780; major and lieut.-col. in 1795; colonel in 1803; brigadier-general in 1808; colonel of the York light infantry volunteers in 1809; maj.-gen. in 1810; commander of the forces in Mauritius and Bourbon, with local rank of lieut.-gen., in 1812; lieut.-gen. in 1814; removed to the colonelcy of the 80th regiment in 1815, and nominated a knight commander of the most honourable military order of the Bath in 1817. He served in Gibraltar during the siege; in India, where he filled various important situations, for a period of fifteen years; in Ireland, on the staff; in the Peninsula, under the duke of Wellington in the years 1809, 10, and 11, and was severely wounded in the battle of Talavera, where he commanded the 4th division of the army; and in the isle of France, nearly four years. And, in consideration of his distinguished services in various parts of the world, he was created a baronet, as above.

Sir Colin Campbell, of Glenorchy, m. ——, Graham of Inchbruky's da., whose mother was da. to Alexander Alister, bishop of Inverary, son to the earl of Marr, by whom sir Colin had Archibald-Gillespie-Dow, b. in Aucharn. The mother dying of the birth, the child was sent privately to the isle of Mull, with a nurse of the name of Macleran, and a servant lad of the M'Intoshes. After two years in Mull, he was brought to Auchalader, and fostered with the M'Intoshes till he was seven years old, and from thence he was sent to some obscure place in the low country, where he continued till he was 20 years of age. When sir Colin married Inchbruky's da., he was only the youngest brother of three. By the death of his elder brothers, who died before his lady, there stood nothing in the way that could probably obstruct his ambition of getting a match suitable to his mind and fortune, but to bury his new-born son in oblivion, which was done in the above manner; and accordingly sir Colin succeeded in his design, by marrying Catherine Ruthven, da. to the earl of Gowrey, the greatest family then in Scotland, as appears by the genealogical records of the family of Argyll.

Archibald-Gillespie-Dow, m. Mary M'Gregor, da. of John-Dow na Canna, alias M'Gregor, of that ilk, by whom he had John-Dow, sometime of Auchalader, who m. Mary Stewart, da. to Donald (Inord) alias Stewart, of Invernakyle. STEUART, of Allanton, co. Lanerk.

22 May 1815.

Sir HENRY STEUART, LL.D., F.R.S., and A.S.E., born 20 Oct. 1759, created a Baronet, as above; married, 1787, Lillias, daughter of Hugh Seton, of Touch, Esq. (in right of his wife) hereditary Armour-Bearer to his Majesty for Scotland, and has issue, 1. Elizabeth-Seton, b. 1788, d. the same year; and 2. Elizabeth, b. 31 Oct. 1789: m. 23 Jan. 1812, Reginald Macdonald, of Staffa, Esq., by whom she has male issue, and on whom the above dignity is in remainder.

This family is of great antiquity in co. Lanerk, and is at the head of one of the most extensive branches of the house of Bonkle; being lineally descended from sir Robert Stewart, of Daldowie, 6th son of sir John Stewart, of Bontell or Bonkhill, son to Alexander, 6th lord high steward of Scotland, great grandfather of king Robert II., the first prince of the Stewart line. About 1290, sir John bestowed the estate of Daldowie, on the river Clyde, part of his extensive possessions, co. Lanerk, and co. Renfrew, in patrimony, on his son, sir Robert, and was himself killed at the fatal battle of Falkirk, anno 1298, against Edward I., with many other of the Scotch nobility: sir Robert probably fought at the glorious field of Bannockburn, with the lord high steward, and the rest of his family, under king Robert Bruce; and we find, that in the following year he, with three of his brothers, sir Alan, sir Walter, and sir Hugh, accompanied Edward Bruce in the expedition to Ireland, 1315; and he was also present at the battle of Dundalk, 1318, where that adventurous prince at length terminated his career; from whom descended James 11th baron of Allanton, and 14th in descent from the lord high steward of Scotland, b. 1715, m. 1754, his cousin Margaret da. of Henry-Steuart Barclay, of Collernie, co. Fife, esq., younger brother to sir James Steuart, of Goodtrees, bart., M.P. for Mid-Lothian, in the 1st parliament after the Union, and afterwards solicitor-gen. in the reign of George II., and had issue, 1. James, b. 1755, d. 1756; 2. sir Henry, the present bart.; 3. William, d. 1775; and 4. Antonio, d. 1775; James, eldest son, deceasing, was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

I. Sir HENRY, the 15th in descent from the lord steward of Scotland.

From this stock have sprung, at different periods, various families of the name of Steuart: among these are the Steuarts of Kirkfield and Coltness, those of Goodtrees, Allanbank, and Mitcham; as also the Steuarts of Hartwood, Westbarns, Carfin, Alderston, and others. It is deserving of notice, that there are at this time four baronetages in the family, including the present grant to the elder branch of it; viz. 1. of Alanbank, co. Berwick, which branch is descended from James VI., baron of Allanton, and the 8th of Daldowie, who d. 1607, and is now represented by sir John-James Steuart, bart., 2dly, that of Coltness, co. Lanerk, which branch is also descended from the said James, of Allanton and Dandowie, and is represented by gen. sir James-Denham-Steuart, bart., col. of the second regiment of dragoons, or Scots greys; 3dly, that of Goodtrees, co. Edinburgh, which branch is also descended and represented as above; 4thly, that of Allanton, as conferred on the present bart. The three baronetages first mentioned, are by virtue virtue of ancient Scottish patents (vide the Baronetage of Scotland); and it is a remarkable circumstance that they were bestowed upon the family by three sovereigns, of characters considerably different; viz. King James II.; William; and Queen Anne; and all in consideration of their public services.

I. Sir HENRY, created a bart. 22 May 1815.

Arms—(See plate 57.) The present baronet is brother and heir of the late rev. Edward-Tymewell Brydges, of Wootton-Court, in Kent, of whose claim to the ancient Barony of Chandos, Cruise, in his "Treatise on Dignities," has given the following summary account: "1790, the rev. Edward-Tymewell Brydges claimed the Barony of Chandos, stating, that her majesty jesty queen Mary, by letters patent, in the first year of her reign, granted to sir John Brydges, knt., the title, or dignity, of Baron Chandos, of Sudeley, to hold to him and the heirs male of his body for ever. That the said John, first lord of Chandos, had issue, 3 sons, Edmund, his eldest son; Charles, his second son; and Anthony, his third son; and likewise other younger sons. That the title of baron Chandos descended to the eldest son, and continued in his issue male until the death of William, seventh lord Chandos without issue male, when the line of Edmund, eldest son of John, first lord Chandos, failed. That the title then descended to sir James Brydges, bart., eighth lord Chandos, who was the great grandson, and heir male of the body of Charles, the second son of the first lord Chandos; and continued in his issue male until the death of James, duke of Chandos, in 1789, without issue male; when there was a total failure of heirs male of the body of CHARLES, the second son of the first lord Chandos; and upon such failure, the claimant submitted that he was entitled to inherit the same honour and dignity, as heir male of the body of ANTHONY, the third son of the first lord Chandos. The attorney-general reported, that he conceived the claimant had proved himself to be heir male of the body of John, first lord Chandos, and, as such, entitled to the honour and dignity of baron Chandos, of Sudeley, by evidence which, although not without some difficulty, would be probably deemed sufficient to prove his title to any other species of inheritance, the foundation of which was laid so far back as 1554. 16 June 1803, the petition and report having been referred to the house of peers, a majority of the committee not thinking the evidence sufficient, "it was resolved, that the petitioner had not made out his claim to the title and dignity of baron Chandos." The vote by which the decision on the claim was then suspended was carried, on a division, by fifteen to seven against the claimant.

The family of Brydges is descended from sir Simon de Brugge, lord of Brugge-upon-Wye, co. Hereford, in the time of Henry III. His grandson, John, represented the co. Hereford, 16 Edward II., and was father of sir Baldwin, whose son, Thomas Brugge, m. Alice, da. and co-heir of sir Thos. Berkeley, of Coberley, in Gloucestershire, by Joan, sister and co-heir of sir John Chandos; which Alice d. 2d Henry V. His grandson, sir Giles Brydges, of Coberley, d. 1511, leaving 2 sons, sir John, first peer, and Thomas, of Keinsham Abbey, co. Somerset, whose last male descendant, George Brydges, of Keinsham, and of Avington, Avington, in Hampshire, d. 1751, M.P. for Winchester, leaving his large estates to his remote cousin, the late duke of Chandos. From Edmund, 2d lord Chandos, K.G., descended George, sixth lord Chandos, commemorated by lord Clarendon for his loyalty to Charles I. This peer, however, was the means of eclipsing the splendour of his family, by leaving the castle of Sudeley, and large surrounding estates, at the disposal of his widow, Jane Savage, who carried them to her last husband, Mr. George Pitt, of Stratfield-Say, ancestor to lord Rivers. His brother, William, 7th peer, was succeeded, 1676, by his third cousin, sir James Brydges, of Wilton Castle, co. Hereford, bart., who d. 1714. His son, James, ninth peer, was created viscount Wilton, and earl of Caernarvon, 1714; and in 1719, marquess of Caernarvon, and duke of Chandos; he d. 1744; his son, Henry, 2d duke, d. 1771; and his grandson, James, 3d and last duke, d. 29 Sept. 1789, without issue male.

John Brydges (who is stated, in the pedigree delivered to the House of Lords, in the above claim, to have been great grandson of Robert Brydges, who was son of Anthony, 3d son of the first lord Chandos,) was b. at Canterbury, in 1680; entered a student at Gray's-Inn, 1699, and called to the bar, 1704. In the same year he m. Jane, da. and heir of Edwd. Gibbon, of Westcliffe, near Dover, esq., by Martha, da. of sir John Roberts, knt., and d. July 1712, aged 32, leaving a da., Deborah, m. to Edwd. Tymewell, esq., and 2 sons; 1. SCOTT, of ABBOTSFORD, co. Roxburgh.

22 April 1820.

Sir WALTER SCOTT, Bart., created as above; one of the principal Clerks of the Session in Scotland, and Sheriff-depute of the shire of Selkirk, was born in the College Wynd of Edinburgh, 15 Aug. 1771, and being bred to the Scottish Bar, passed Advocate in summer 1792. He married his present lady, Margaret-Charlotte Carpenter, sister of the late Charles Carpenter, Esq., commercial resident at Salem, 24 Dec. 1797. In the year 1800, he was appointed Sheriff-depute of Selkirkshire, and in 1806, was made one of the principal Clerks of Session. Having been distinguished in consequence of his literary productions, his present Majesty then Prince Regent, was pleased to confer on the said Walter Scott, the rank of Baronet, in the year 1820, being the first title of distinction bestowed after his Royal Highness had obtained the unlimited exercise of the royal prerogative, and the only degree of Baronet conferred in the course of that year. Sir Walter Scott, besides an infant child which d. soon after birth, 15 Oct. 1798, has the following surviving family, 1. Charlotte-Sophia, m. to John-Gibson Lockhart, Esq., Advocate, son of the Rev. John Lockhart, D.D., of the family of Lockhart, of Wyegateshaw: they have one child, John Hugh; 2. Walter, b. 28 Oct. 1801, Lieutenant in the 15th or King's Regiment of Hussars, unm.; 3. Anne, unm.; 4. Charles, Student of Brazen Nose College, Oxford.

The descent of the ancient honorable, and powerful family of the Scotts, of Harden, may be found in Douglas's Baronage of Scotland, p. 213, and therefore is not here recited. Sir William Scott, of Harden, and representative of that family a man of great fortune and political influence ence d. 1655. By his wife Agnes Murray, da. of the first lord Elibank, he had 5 sons, to each of whom he left a considerable landed estate besides that which descended to the eldest; these were 1. sir William, heir of the family, whose line is now extinct; 2. sir Gideon, of Highchester, whose great grandson succeeded to the family estate of Harden, and whose descendant, Hugh Scott, esq., now represents that ancient family; 3. Walter Scott, of Raeburn; 4. James, of Thirlestone; 5. John, of Woll.

Sir Walter Scott is descended from the 3d of these sons, viz. Walter Scott, of Raeburn, who m. Isabel Makdougal, da. of Wm. Makdougal, of Makerstoŭn, by Margaret Scott, da. of Walter Scott, of Harden, called Auld Watt. This Walter, of Raeburn, was a great orientalist, but unhappily prosecuted his studies in the Hebrew language until he studied himself into quakerism, with which sect his lady also complied. The privy-council of Scotland, upon the petition of sir William Scott, of Harden, Raeburn's brother, and Makdougal, of Makerstoŭn, his brother-in-law, adopted the rough methods used in that time to cure heresy; Raeburn and his wife were imprisoned in the jails of Edinburgh and Jedburgh, their children were forcibly taken from them and appointed to be educated at Glasgow, at a distance from their parents, and by means of a considerable annuity, appointed to be paid out of Raeburn's estate. (See Sharpe's life of Kirkton, prefixed to his history of the Kirk of Scotland.) Nevertheless Walter, of Raeburn, died possessed of the lands of Eilrig, Raeburn, Muidlew, Yetbyre and others, in Dumfriesshire, and a valuable property around Lessuden, in Roxburghshire, where he built a commodious mansionhouse; he d. soon after the Revolution, leaving 2 sons and a da.; from his eldest son William, is lineally descended the present Walter Scott, of Raeburn.

Walter, second son of the 1st laird of Raeburn, was a man of considerable classical learning, and an intimate friend of the celebrated Dr. Pitcairn. He made a vow to wear his beard unshaved until the Stuarts were restored to the throne, whence he obtained the surname of Bearded Watt. His fortune (originally small as the second son of a cadet,) was much impaired by the part he took in politics; by his wife Jean Campbell, da. of —— Campbell, esq., of Silvercraigs, he had 2 sons, 1. Walter, who m., and had issue a son, Walter, who d. in America, sine prole; 2. Robert; 3. William, who had several sons, of whom the eldest, James Scott, of Prince of Wales Island, was well known known as one of the most intelligent and active merchants in India.

Robert, 2d son of Bearded Watt, was bred to the sea, but being shipwrecked in his first voyage, betook himself to agriculture, and obtained valuable leases from his kinsmen, the lairds of Harden and of Raeburn, the last of whom became his son-in-law. He was m. to Barbara Haliburton, da. of Thos. Haliburton, of New-Mains, now called Dryburgh Abbey, the representative of the ancient and honourable family of Merton, which representation by the death of all the children of Thos. Haliburton without issue, devolved upon Walter Scott, eldest son of the said Barbara Scott, and Thos. Haliburton. See a little unpublished genealogical tract entitled, Memorials of the Haliburtons.

Robert Scott resided upon Sandyknow, a farm belonging to Harden, and being a very shrewd and intelligent man, is believed to have been the first person in Roxburghshire, who ever acquired a considerable fortune by his skill in agriculture; he left 5 sons and 4 das., of whom it is only necessary to mention the sons, namely, 1. Walter, of whom presently; 2. Thomas, who followed his father's profession, and d. in 1822, at the advanced age of 91 and upwards; he was twice m.; 1st. to Barbara, da. of Walter Scott, of Raeburn, his cousin; 2dly to miss Rutherford, of Knowsouth: 3. Robert Scott, of Rosebank, a capt. in the sea service of the East India company, unm.; 4. John, also bred to the sea, who d. unm. in consequence of an injury received in the course of his duty.

Walter Scott, eldest son of Robert Scott, in Sandyknow, was b. 11 May 1729. He was bred a writer to the signet, or conveyancer, and was eminent for his general worth and respectability, as well as for skill in his profession. He m. Anne Rutherford, da. of John Rutherford, M.D., son of the rev. John Rutherford, (whose father was John Rutherford,) of Grundisnook, a cadet of the Rutherfords of Hunthill. Dr. Rutherford, was professor of medicine in the University of Edinburgh, and one of the four pupils of the celebrated Boerhave, by whom the great medical school in that city was founded. Anne was his da. by his 1st wife, Anne Swinton, da. of sir John Swinton, of that ilk. Walter Scott, had a very numerous family extending to twelve children, but we only notice such as survived childhood, viz. Robert, bred in the navy, d. in India, unm.; 2. John, late major 78th regiment, d. unm.; 3. Sir Walter, the subject ject of this notice; 4. Anne, d. unm.; 5. Thomas, late paymaster 71st regiment, m. Elizabeth, da. of —— Macculloch, esq., of Ardwall, d. in 1822, leaving a son Walter, presently cadet in the artillery service of the hon. East India company, and three das., Janet, m. to major Huxley, 71st regiment; Anne and Eliza unm.; 6. Daniel, who d. unm.

Mary-Anne-Sophia

Sophia; 8. Charlotte-Elizabeth-Catherine; 9. Sophia-Louisa-Henrietta; 10. Emma.

The name of Pocock is of considerable antiquity in the co. of Berks. John Pocock appears, by an ancient inscription, to have been buried at Hamsted Norris, in that co., as early as 1493. Edward Pocock, the learned orientalist was the son of the rev. Edward Pocock, vicar of Chieveley, co. Berks, and was himself rector of Childrey, in that co.

The baronet's immediate ancestor, Lawrence Pocock, D.D. was rector of Bright Waltham, co. Berks; m. Deborah, da. of rev. Robert Callis, rector of Letcombe Basset, and d. 1653, leaving issue by her (who d. 1674) two sons, of whom Robert the younger, was rector of Long Ditton, co. Surrey, and Thomas the elder, was father of Thomas, D.D. F.R.S., chaplain to Greenwich hospital, rector of Danbury, co. Essex, and of Long Ditton; b. 1669, d. 1745; having m. Joyce, da. of Jas. Master, of East Langton, co. Kent (and sister of Margaret, wife of George Byng, 1st visct. Torrington), and by her had issue, 1. sir George, K.B.; 2. Richard, lieut. R.N., d. unm. 1738; 3. Sarah, m. Philip Vincent, capt. R.N.; and 4. Beatrice, m. rev. David Campbell, LL.D., chaplain to Greenwich hospital.

Sir George Pocock, K.B., eldest son was b. 21 Feb. 1706, O.S. and entered the naval service at the age of 11 years, under the auspices of his uncle visct. Torrington, and was present on board the admiral's ship the Barfleur, in the memorable victory gained by that distinguished commander in the year 1718, off the coast of Sicily, when the whole of the Spanish fleet was either taken or destroyed. He was made capt. 1 Aug. 1738, and in 1748, commanded on the Leeward island station, and blocked up the French fleet in Martinico; in 1754, he went to the East Indies as second in command under admiral Watson; was soon after promoted to be R.A. of the blue, and on the death of admiral Watson in 1757, succeeded him in the chief command of the English fleet in those parts. With an inferior force he gained three signal victories over the French fleet, commanded by the count D'Aché, and before the close of 1758, had established the sovereignty of the English in those seas. For these services he received the thanks of the East India company, his statue was erected in the India house, and his sovereign bestowed on him the order of the Bath, with which he was invested 6 May 1761. In the succeeding year, he was appointed to command the naval part of

of the expedition against the Havannah, and sailed from Spithead in March 1762, with a fleet of 200 sail, which arrived at its destination in the following June, having been conducted with consummate skill through the old straits of Bahama, a narrow and intricate passage of several hundred miles. The Moro fort which commanded the town of Havannah, surrendered after a siege of 30 days, on the 30 July; and the town itself, together with 9 sail of the line, was given up to the English forces, on the 12th of August. Sir George for some time held the office of master of the Trinity house, and was twice returned M.P. for Plymouth. He lived for several years in honourable retirement, and d. at the advanced age of 87, 3 April 1792.
