A NOTE FROM KRYSTAL

Welcome to our first monthly letter

Beautiful Soul,

Welcome to October — the month when the air turns crisp, the light turns golden, and the veil between our world and the spirit world grows beautifully thin.

This is the first edition of a new little ritual of ours. Once a month, I will gather the energy of the season, the messages coming through, and everything happening in our corner of the internet into one letter you can read with your morning coffee — and keep, if you'd like.

October has a way of slowing us down and waking us up at the same time. The nights get longer, the dreams get more vivid, and spirit feels just a little bit closer. If you've been feeling that too, you're exactly where you're meant to be.

Thank you for being here — for every like, every comment, and every "this found me at exactly the right time" message. This community is the heart of everything I do.

*With love and moonlight,
Krystal*

OCTOBER ENERGY READING

The season of honest release

October opens in Libra season and crosses into Scorpio on the 23rd — a handoff from harmony to depth, from keeping the peace to telling the truth.

The energy I'm sensing for this month is honest release. Not dramatic, not heavy — just honest. The kind of release that happens when you finally admit you're tired of carrying something, and you set it down on purpose.

"You have been strong for a long time, Beautiful Soul. This month, spirit isn't asking you to be stronger. Spirit is asking you to be softer — with yourself first. What you release in October makes room for what arrives in November. Trust the empty space. Something sacred is on its way to fill it."

— CHanneled for October

Three themes to carry with you this month:

- ✦ Release — name one thing you're done carrying, and mean it.
- ✦ Rest — the longer nights are an invitation, not an inconvenience.
- ✦ Room — clear a shelf, a drawer, a corner of your heart. Make space.
