“My child is trapped —can you help?”

The Deprogrammer

Original title:
La Desprogramadora
Produced by 3Cat

INVESTIGATIVE | 3 x 40’

In Spain during the 1980s and 1990s, cults and coercive groups attracted thousands of followers, leaving families powerless as loved ones became increasingly isolated from reality. When desperate relatives searched for a way to bring them back, one woman became their last hope.

Rosa Maria Boladeras emerged as a pioneering activist who helped victims break free from psychological manipulation. Working closely with families, she developed her own methods to reconnect those trapped inside these groups with the world they had left behind.

Through extraordinary testimonies, rare archival material and previously untold stories, the series reveals how cults recruit, control and isolate their members, while portraying the long and difficult journey back to freedom.

The tallest church in the world

Sagrada Familia Higher Than Ever

Produced by 3Cat

ARCHITECTURE | 40′

The Sagrada Família is still unfinished. It may be the only building in the world that has improved with incompletion — a structure that has spent 140 years becoming more itself.

A century after the death of Antoni Gaudí, the central tower of the Sagrada Familia was inaugurated by Pope Leo XIV in June 2026.

Gaudí worked on the church for 44 years, starting when he was just 31 and stopping only when he was hit by a tram a few weeks shy of his 74th birthday. By that time he was living in his workshop and sleeping under his desk at the church. His unfinished masterpiece went on to outlive him, becoming the longest-running active construction project in the world, carried on by seven generations of chief architects.

Mãe Means Mother

A journey back to roots, love, and identity

Original title:
Mae vol dir mare
Produced by 3Cat

OBSERVATIONAL	1 x 45′

The documentary explores one of the lesser-known and more complex aspects of adoption: the search for origins. It follows three sisters, adopted together in Brazil as they reconnect with their biological mother.

The film captures the emotional intensity of this reunion — for both the daughters and the woman who gave them life more than 20 years ago.

Through real-life stories shaped by distance, silence, and enduring love, Mãe Means Mother offers a moving reflection on motherhood, identity, and the unbreakable bonds that time and separation cannot erase.

The Silence of the Innocent

The Escape

Original title: La Fugida, Veritats Ocultes
Produced by 3Cat with Ottokar and El Periódico de Catalunya

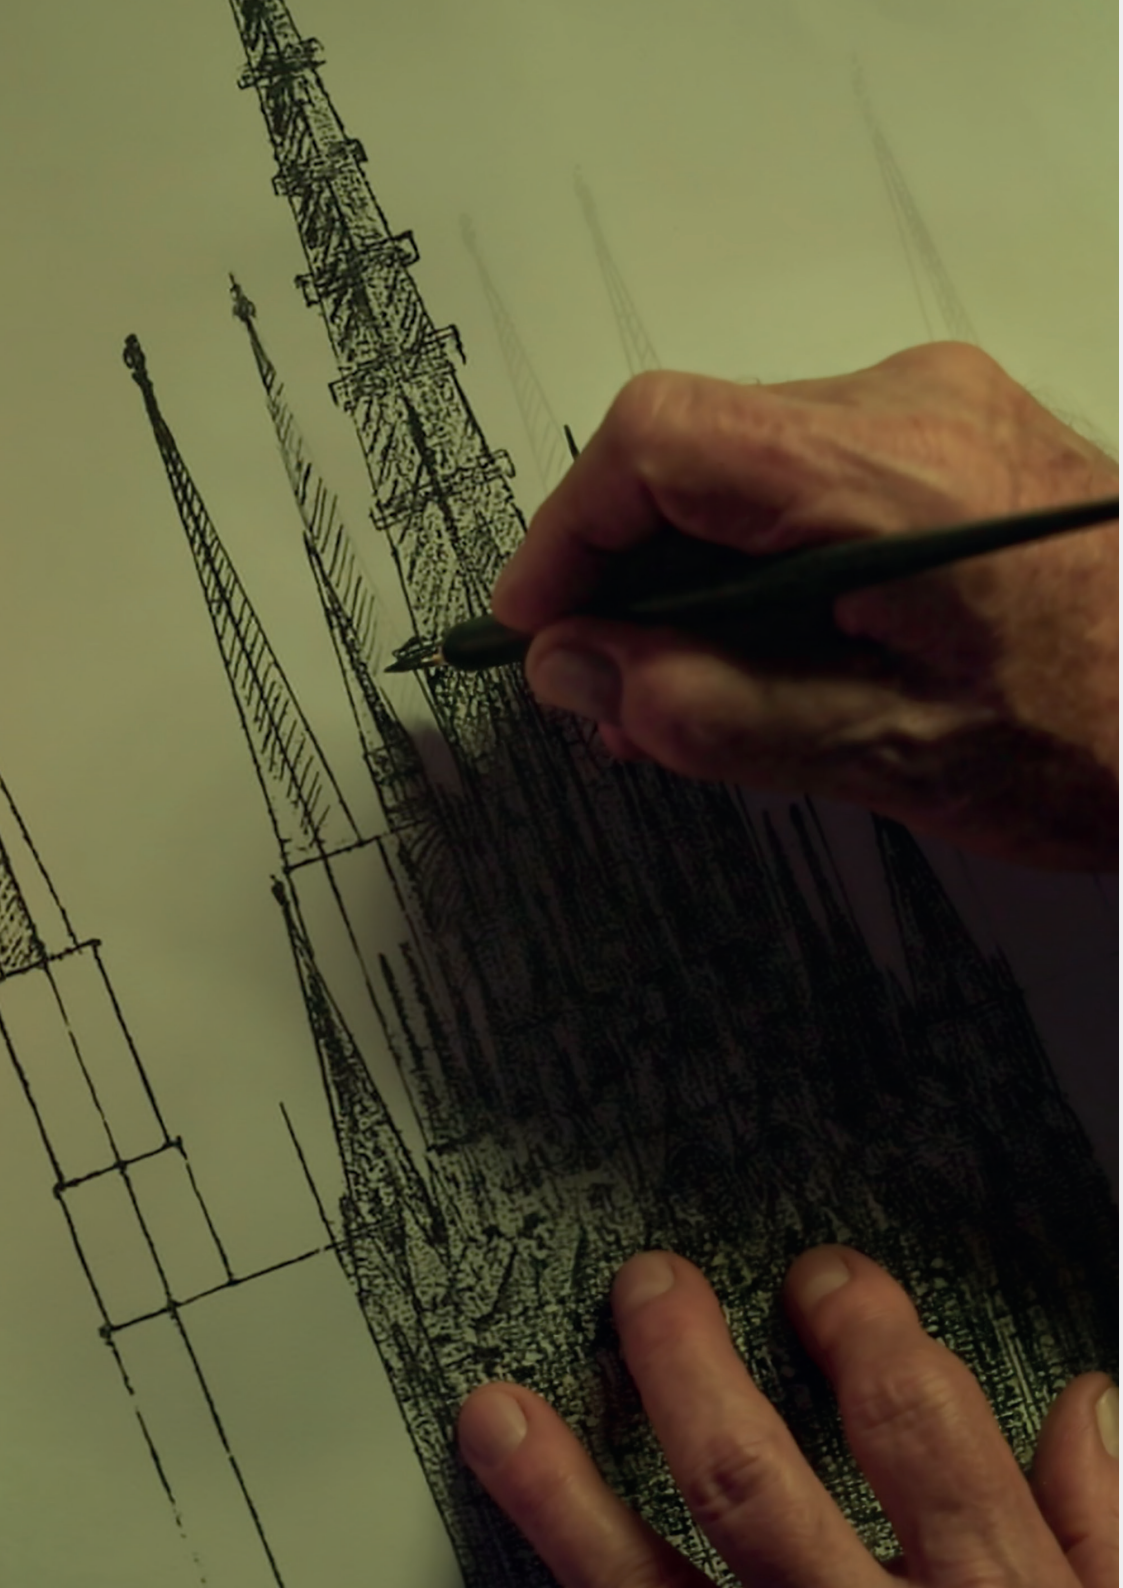

INVESTIGATIVE	3 x 40′

For decades, children across Spain and Latin America suffered abuse at the hands of priests and religious teachers in schools and institutions entrusted with their care. Hidden behind the authority of the Church, these crimes remained buried under layers of silence, fear, and impunity.

This documentary series brings together survivors, families, journalists, lawyers, and investigators to uncover the true scale of clerical abuse and the systems that allowed it to continue unchecked. Through powerful testimonies and unprecedented investigations, The Escape exposes not only the crimes themselves but also the institutional cover-ups, the struggle for justice, and the lifelong consequences endured by victims.

Spanning multiple countries and generations, The Escape reveals a painful chapter of recent history while highlighting the courage of those who refused to stay silent. Their stories challenge institutions to confront the past and ask whether genuine accountability and healing are still possible.

The Mysteries of Gaudí

Produced by 3Cat

BIOGRAPHY	4 x 52′

Through unprecedented access to leading experts, rare archival material and exclusive new research, the series explores Gaudí's personal relationships, private life and creative vision. It offers a fresh portrait of a complex and deeply human figure whose revolutionary ideas transformed architecture and continue to shape the world today.

Four decades. One artist. One camera. A silence that speaks

Rhythm of Silence

Original title: Compàs de silenci.
Produced by Allegra Films and La Perifèrica Produccions, in co-production with 3Cat and IB3

DOCUMENTARY ART	77′

In the 1980s, photographer Jean Marie del Moral first entered the studio of artist Miquel Barceló. That first portrait marked the beginning of a relationship that has now lasted four decades — a dialogue where the image takes precedence over words, quietly documenting the evolution of the painter from Felanitx, Mallorca.

The key stops along this suggestive and singular journey are the artist's studios in Paris, Mali, Mallorca, Palermo, Vietri, Gao, Naples, and Barcelona — spaces intrinsically tied to Barceló's evolution, captured through Del Moral's lens. Silent, unhurried, and constantly evolving, the film traces the intimate portrait of a creative partnership built not on words, but on the patient act of observing.

Inside today's invisible care economy

The Care Trap

Produced by 3Cat

DOCUMENTARY SOCIETY	60'

Behind closed doors, in thousands of homes, a silent workforce keeps families running. They are the caregivers — mostly migrant women — who feed, wash, and comfort the elderly and the sick, often living inside the very homes where they are exploited.

The Care Trap is an uncomfortable, unflinching portrait of Spain's home care system, exposing the abuse of power and precarity faced by these women today. Through raw testimonies and intimate access, the documentary reveals a hidden economy built on invisible labor, blurred boundaries, and dependency — where care and exploitation are separated by a razor-thin line.

The Good Death

How do you say goodbye when love still burns bright?

Original title:
La Bona Mort
Produced by 3Cat

SOCIETY	1 x 46′

Carina and Fede love each other deeply. But when Carina is diagnosed with ALS, she makes a vital decision: to end her suffering through euthanasia. Fede, torn up by pain, accompanies her with unconditional tenderness.

Since 2021, euthanasia has been legal in Spain for people who freely request it and are suffering unbearably. But how is this right experienced in practice? Are families and professionals really prepared to deal with what it entails?

The Good Death offers a powerful reflection on autonomy, vulnerability and love at the edge of life, and explores what it means to say goodbye with clarity, compassion and love.

What would you do to save your child?

Moving Mountains

Original title: Moure Muntanyes
Produced by 3Cat

SCIENCE-MEDICAL	1 x 65′

Moving Mountains follows an extraordinary group of families from around the world who refuse to accept a devastating diagnosis and the absence of a cure.

United by love, friendship and determination, they achieve what seemed impossible: driving the development of an experimental gene therapy in record time.

As the treatment approaches its first human trials, the documentary explores the hope, risks and ethical questions surrounding a breakthrough that could transform not only their children's lives, but the future of rare disease research.

Dali and the Medical Examiner

A surreal death: the controversies that marked the painter's final decade

Original title: El Forense i Dalí
Produced by 3Cat with BAS

INVESTIGATIVE HISTORY	2 x 58'

Dalí was buried in a crypt below the theater of his hometown, Figueres, which the painter helped convert into his museum and one of Catalonia's major tourism destinations.

Through the testimony of the medical examiner who embalmed Salvador Dalí and later participated in his exhumation, the series revisits the events that shaped the artist's final years and legacy, from disputes over his inheritance to the controversies surrounding his death and burial.

A mysterious crime in a remote valley. The victim? A protected, five-year-old bear

Who killed Cachou?

Original title:
Qui va matar Cahou?
Co-Produced by A 3Cat with La Kaseta Ideas Factory

TRUE CRIME DOCUMENTARY	1 x 70'

On 9 April 2020, the brown bear Cachou, born in the Pyrenees thanks to a brown bear reintroduction programme in the area, appeared dead in the Aran Valley countryside. The cause of the animal's death was first thought to have been a fight with another bear. But later, it became clear that Cachou had been poisoned with antifreeze. It was premeditated murder.

The revelation of an alleged conspiracy to eliminate one of the Pyrenean bears shines a light on the underlying debate as to the suitability of releasing bears in the region — a conflict between the rural population and political decisions made miles away from where the policy is implemented.

After a year of research, Who Killed Cachou? tells the story of a remarkable police investigation in true-crime format.

This is the story of a man who never surrendered to adversity, established order, or injustice, clashing along the way with political regimes, referees, coaches, rivals, the press, and club directors.

From playing for an amateur tobacco-factory team to becoming Bulgaria's greatest player and one of Barça's most beloved icons, Stoichkov's untamed character brought him both the best and, perhaps, the worst of his life, the moments of glory and pain.

SPORTS HUMAN STORIES	3 X 52′

Coming Soon

In Catalan, masia means farmhouse: a solid stone house, built to endure. Since 1979, that name has come to represent something far greater than a building. It has become the symbol of the most influential football academy in the world, a place where generations of young dreamers arrive with a ball at their feet and leave as champions, leaders, and role models.

For the first time, this series tells the full story of La Masia — the beating heart of FC Barcelona that has produced icons like Xavi Hernández, Andrés Iniesta, Lionel Messi, and now Lamine Yamal, but also hundreds of invisible casualties whose names nobody remembers.

The loneliness of gifted kids sent far from home, homesickness dressed up as discipline, toxic hierarchies where 30 boys compete for 3 contracts, cruelty used as strategy: this is La Masia stripped bare — the light and the dark; the dream and its cost.

FOUR SEASONS

The Trail is a thrilling adventure reality show where eight couples compete over fifteen intense days, crossing breath-taking landscapes and facing extreme physical and mental challenges.

Without knowing the route or tasks in advance, contestants must navigate using maps revealed step by step, tackling all kinds of terrain — mountains, beaches, forests, and ravines — and facing challenges that test their strength, communication, and adaptability.

Each stage is a race against the clock, with a mix of elimination rounds and opportunities to gain strategic advantages. Only the fastest, smartest, and most resilient teams will reach the grand finale, where two couples will battle for the ultimate prize.

A dynamic, high-stakes format adaptable to any country.
