

OFFICES NEW-YORKERS WANT.

The State Fast Filling the Treasury Record Book.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The space on the record book in the Appointment Division of the Treasury Department, which is accorded to applicants from New-York for positions under Secretary Carlisle, is rapidly filling. To-day nine new names were added to it.

George Heydecker of New-York asked to be made Assistant Appraiser of Customs. Edward J. Hand of Albany signified his willingness to be a Bank Examiner. Henry B. Hawkins of Brooklyn wants to be an Assistant Appraiser at the New-York Custom House. G. W. Hotchkiss of Albion applied for a Customs Inspectorship. John J. Kennedy of Buffalo is after the Collectorship of Internal Revenue for the Second or Third Districts. He is not particular which district is assigned him so long as he gets one.

Robert S. Ganoung of Seneca Falls wants to be Chief of the Army Division in the Second Auditor's office, John A. Penny of New-York Collector of Internal Revenue in the Third District, James M. Rutan of Tottenville, S. I., Inspector of Foreign Steamers, and Eldridge N. Black of Belmont Assistant Treasury Agent at the Seal Islands.

The Knights Waited on the Sidewalk.

The funeral of James F. Murray, a well-known Knight of Pythias, took place from St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Jersey City, yesterday. There was a large attendance of uniformed Knights, but they were not admitted to the church.

Father Hennessy said he had no personal feeling in the matter, but he was compelled to obey the rules of the Church, which were that no uniformed body not recognized by the Catholic Church could be admitted in uniform. Those in plain clothes were cordially welcome.

Father Hennessy also said that Mgr. Satolli had the matter under consideration and might abrogate the rule, but until he did so all good Catholics must obey the law. The services then proceeded, the Knights remaining on the sidewalk until the coffin was brought out, when they escorted the body to the Catholic cemetery at West Side.

Sisters Marry Brothers, Their Cousins.

From the Washington Post, April 18.

A unique double wedding occurred yesterday when Sarah J. McAlpine of New-Brighton, S. I., was married to Charles M. Pollock of Pittsfield, Mass., and Catharine McAlpine of New-Brighton was married to Edward L. Pollock of Pittsfield. The brides are sisters, daughters of Sarah Learned and the late Hon. William Jarvis McAlpine, the civil engineer, who was connected with many famous feats of civil engineering in this country. The grooms are brothers, and the mother of the two grooms and the mother of the two brides were sisters. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Aspinwall at high noon in Calvary Parish Chapel.
