

THE OBITUARY RECORD.

Elliott Roosevelt.

Elliott Roosevelt, who died Tuesday night of heart disease, after only four days' sickness, at his home, 313 West One Hundred and Second Street, this city, was the only brother of United States Civil Service Commissioner Theodore Roosevelt. He was the nephew of James A. Roosevelt and of Robert B. Roosevelt, ex-Minister to Holland.

Mr. Roosevelt's death was unexpected, although he had been somewhat ailing for more than a year. Notice of his death was at once sent to the various members of the family. The brother, Theodore Roosevelt, was in Washington. He was at once notified, as was James K. Gracie, an uncle, who will take charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Roosevelt was severely afflicted by the death of his wife eighteen months ago. She was Miss Anna Hall, and was the daughter of Valentine Hall. The blow was added to by the death of a son in May, 1893. About two weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt was thrown from his carriage. The shock aggravated the trouble with his heart and hastened his death. Two children survive, Eleanor Roosevelt and Hall Roosevelt, aged respectively ten years and three years. Elliott Roosevelt had done but little business for a year, except to look after his coal-mining interests in Virginia. One of his sisters is single and the other the wife of Douglas Robinson of this city.

Prof. William Henry Cusack.

Prof. William Henry Cusack, a prominent architect, died at his home, in Poughkeepsie, yesterday. He was sixty-three years old. He was born in Brookline, Mass., and for a number of years was State Architect for Tennessee. He designed several large buildings in that State and elsewhere in the South. He was a member of the American Society of Architects, and was one of the large number of architects who presented plans for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New-York. He also drew plans for the new City Hall in New-York, and claimed to be one of the six whose designs are now being considered. Mr. Cusack was an artist of no mean ability. For one large canvas, "The Entombment of Christ," he said he had refused an offer of $7,000 by John Wanamaker. For several years he conducted a class in art at Vassar Institute and was also employed as an instructor at the Riverview Military Academy.

Obituary Notes.

—Arthur Rotch, the eminent architect, died at his Summer home in Beverly, Mass., yesterday afternoon. Ten days ago he was stricken with pleurisy, and suffered severely. He was a son of Benjamin S. Rotch, a Boston merchant of the old school. He graduated at Harvard in 1871, and studied architecture for several years at the École des Beaux Arts in Paris. On his return he allied himself with George C. Tilden, under the firm name of Rotch & Tilden, with an office in Boston. They designed many beautiful houses in Boston, Bar Harbor, New-York, Washington, and all over the country. His mother survives him, as well as one brother, A. Lawrence Rotch, and three sisters.

—Col. Peter Dale Perchment of the Fourteenth Regiment, Second Brigade, N. G., S. P., died at his home in Pittsburg yesterday afternoon. Col. Perchment, until a year ago, was a practicing physician of more than ordinary skill. The illness which resulted in death was contracted during a recent tour of the country with his family. He was fifty-one years old, and leaves a wife and one son. He served in the war as a member of the Fourteenth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry.

—Ex-Judge John Clement died in Haddonfield, N. J., yesterday after a long illness. He was seventy-five years old. Judge Clement was widely known throughout the State from his thirty years' service on the bench of the Court of Errors and Appeals, of which he was a lay Judge, and also from his active interest in historical matters relating to New-Jersey.

An Opportunity for Mayor Gilroy.

From The Buffalo Courier.

The Brooklyn Eagle speaks of Mayor Gilroy as a "very able politician." No man ever had a better opportunity for showing ability as a politician than has the new Tammany leader.

Gov. Flower's "Campaign of Acquaintance."

From The Buffalo Courier.

The indications are that during the next five or six weeks Gov. Flower will make a vigorous, aggressive "campaign of acquaintance."
