JACKSON TO ENFORCE LAW.

Will Deal Rigidly with Trusts and Persons Who Violate It.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Nov. 8.—First Assistant District Attorney William S. Jackson of this city, who has been elected Attorney General on the Democratic ticket, said today in reply to a question concerning his attitude toward trusts and other combinations in trade:

"I shall strictly enforce the law against all corporations or individuals which violate it. I want to make that emphatic. As I understand it, this is part of the duty of the Attorney General, and, if I am fortunate enough to have been elected by the people of the State, I shall take pleasure in performing my whole duty, as required by my oath of office."

Mr. Jackson said that he had been elected on the platform of the Democratic Party and Independence League, and he was in entire sympathy with the reforms there pledged. He has made an exceptional record as a prosecutor of grafters in the graveyard scandal, in which several prominent Republican leaders were involved. He ran ahead of Mr. Hearst in the city by more than 500 votes, and was popular through all the counties where his work as a prosecutor was well known.

Such well-known lawyers in Buffalo as Eugene Bartlett, former District Attorney Coatsworth, William H. Cuddeback, Clarence M. Bushnell, and John Cunneen, former Attorney General, speak highly of Mr. Jackson's ability, honesty, and aggressiveness.
